REDS REPORTED READY TO YIELD

U. S. Warns Russia It Cannot Overhaul Jap Peace Treaty

Note Is Obvious Move To Block Any Attempt To Wreck Pact Conference

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United States warned Russia today it cannot rewrite the Japanese peace treaty in the forthcoming conference at San Francisco. The action was an obvious move to block any Soviet attempt to wreck the conference by opening disruptive debate on treaty provisions.

Delivery of a formal American note in Moscow was announced by the State Department shortly after President Truman told a news conference he does not believe arrangements for the signing of the treaty—now set for September 8—can be upset by anyone.

Gromyko May Visit Truman

There were these other developments bearing on pre-conference plans:

1. Mr. Truman said Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who will head the U. S. S. R. delegation to San Francisco, is welcome to visit him if he desires. The Russian delegation will go to San Francisco by way of Washington.

2. Mr. Truman said Gen. Douglas MacArthur can address the treaty conference if he wants to. The State Department officially disclosed it has been considering possible participation by MacArthur in the conference but said nothing has been worked out. Authoritative informants said MacArthur first accepted then turned down a proposal that he attend. However, the matter is still considered open.

U. S., Philippines To Sign Pact

3. The United States and the Philippines announced that they have agreed on a mutual defense treaty to be signed early next month. It will commit each country to "act to meet the common dangers" in event of an attack on the other. Presumably the treaty will be signed at San Francisco in connection with the Japanese peace pact. Also to be signed are a security pact with Australia and New Zealand and a defense treaty with Japan.

The United States note to Russia was sent to prevent any misunderstanding by the Russians as to the nature of the San Francisco conference. It was worded with diplomatic politeness but it reflected a tough policy with respect to Russia's role in the meeting.

Chicago Police Seize Escaped Negro Murderer

Harry Williams Is Taken Without Fight

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP) — Police tonight seized Harry Williams, 20, negro slayer-rapist who killed a guard in an escape from the county jail Tuesday night.

Police said Williams was seized without a struggle on a South Side street car and was being taken to the detective bureau in a squad car.

The burly negro fugitive was seized by a homicide bureau squad led by Sergt. Vincent Cunningham.

He was seized shortly after the hunt for him turned to the far South Side. A distant relative there who nursed him as a baby told police he had come to her home.

Telephoned Police

The woman, Mrs. Addie Hearn, 44-year-old negro, said she telephoned police when she saw Williams ringing her doorbell at 11651 Church St. She said Williams fled when police cars raced up with sirens sounding.

"I'm positive it was Williams," she said. "I nursed him as a baby and knew him all his life."

Williams, 20, brawny negro rapist and killer who was scheduled to die in the electric chair Sept. 20, beat a guard to death Tuesday night and escaped from the county jail.

A friend of Williams reported earlier today he saw the fugitive in another neighborhood.

Shared Cab With Killer

Bennie Stewart, 21, a negro who said he went to school with the widely-hunted slayer, told police earlier he had shared a cab with Williams. He said Williams apparently did not recognize him. He added that he was "too scared" to speak until Williams left the cab.

Mrs. Edna K. Marshall, 40, mother of the fugitive, came here from her home in Cleveland.

"I want to do everything I can to make him give himself up," Mrs. Marshall told investigators. "He is criminally insane and should be sent to an institution."

Chambers Says Barnes And Field In Red Spy Ring

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Whittaker Chambers returned to Washington today to accuse Joseph Barnes, editor, and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist, of once being members of the Communist underground in the United States.

Testifying before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, Chambers said he got his information about the two men from the head of the underground, a Hungarian-born Red Agent named J. Peters. Peters fled the country several years ago.

Chambers was the government's star witness at the trial of Alger Hiss two years ago. Hiss, a former State Department official, was convicted of perjury for falsely denying that he turned over state secrets to a Red spy ring.

It was in 1937 or thereabouts, Chambers said today, that Peters told him that Field was a member of the underground unit of the American Communist Party which met in a house belonging to Field's mother on Central Park west in New York.

"In the unit with Field was Joseph Barnes," Chambers went on.

Bald Men Likely To Have More Sons, Scientist Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — If you're bald, mister, the chances are you'll have more boy children than girls, a scientist suggested today.

Dr. Marianne E. Bernstein, of the Instituto Di Statistiche in Rome, Italy, also came up with these views:

Fathers suffering from gout will probably have more girls than boys.

Men engaged in "aggressive, extrovert" occupations in which women have seldom become outstanding—such as soldiers, lawyers and businessmen — are probably more "male" than such guys as actors, artists and fiction writers.

And they'll probably have more male offspring than the chaps engaged in "introvert, retiring occupations" where women frequently have become big shots.

Dr. Bernstein reported in the technical journal "Science" that she believes that factors controlling the "sex-ratio" of offspring are identical with, or act through, facts which control a man's balance of male and female sex hormones.

(All men have both male and female hormones in their systems, but the male ones predominate. Dr. Bernstein's suggestion appears to be that the balance can be upset under certain conditions so that some men have more of the male hormones than others.)

Doctor Tells How Mistake Caused Two Lab Deaths

Overdose Of Wrong Drug Administered

VERMILLION, S. D., Aug. 16 (AP) —A 28-year-old doctor quietly told a cononer's jury today how he gave two "human guinea pigs" too large injections because he used the wrong drug by mistake. The two died Wednesday, 24 hours after they received injections in a laboratory test of sedative drugs.

Dr. Louis F. Michalek, University of South Dakota medical school researcher, said he thought he was using demerol, but found he had used methadon instead.

He said the normal dose of demerol is 100 to 150 milligrams. The normal injection of methadon is 10 milligrams. Dr. Michalek said he gave Jack Clifford, 30, a laboratory technician, and Mrs. Ardys Pearson, 26, a secretary, 100 milligrams each of methadon.

"Were the bottles labeled?" Martin Weeks, Jr., Clay County state's attorney asked him.

"Yes," Dr. Michalek replied.

"Did you read them?"

"Yes."

"Then how do you account for this mistake?"

"It's one of those things you can't account for," Dr. Michaelk replied softly. "You check it and then you just don't know how to account for it."

"How did you discover the error?" Weeks asked him.

"I realized the error within a five-minute period after giving Mrs. Pearson her injection," Dr. Michalek replied.

"I thought I had given these two people (Clifford and Mrs. Pearson) demerol. The third subject, Marge, (another secretary) was to receive methadon.

"I went to check the vials again to make sure I had the right one. I picked up the vial for the next subject and realized I had already used this drug. I went immediately to secure the antidotal drugs."

Dr. Michalek himself was to have been the fourth subject.

Weeks asked him why he was to have been last.

"It is common in this type of experiment," the doctor answered, "for the subject-operator to serve as the fourth subject. I was there alone and wanted to make sure the experiment was stabilized before I was under the influence of the drugs."

The two persons who died were volunteer, paid subjects. They were being paid 60 cents an hour.

South Korea Bills U. S. For $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — South Korea today presented the United States a bill for $100,000,000 for goods and services supplied to American fighting forces in Korea. Prompt payment was requested.

Dr. You Chan Yang, South Korean ambassador, told newsmen he appealed for the money during a call on Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Two Accused In OSS Killing Deny Charges

International Red Tape Snarls Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Two ex-servicemen accused of slaying their commander during a secret wartime mission into Italy seven years ago tonight denounced the charges.

The two men had been accused by the Defense Department of slaying Maj. William Holohan in a dispute over giving arms to Communist partisans. The department said $100,000 in gold, U. S. currency and Swiss francs was involved in Holohan's death.

Aldo (Ike) Icardi, a former lieutenant who was on the mission to Italy with Holohan, told reporters at Pittsburgh:

"The charges made against me are fantastic and I am confident that I shall be completely vindicated."

Former Sergeant Carl G. LoDolce said in Rochester, N. Y.:

"I am absolutely innocent of any charge made against me in connection with the case."

U. S. Law Bans Legal Moves

The Defense Department issued a memorandum to the press yesterday on the case, which has become snarled in a tangle of international red tape.

Any legal moves against the two men are forbidden by law in the United States and Italian authorities have taken no action to extradite them for trial in Italy.

The three men involved in the strange case were all members of an OSS (Office of Strategic Services) mission to Italy.

Icardi said "the Defense Department has never confronted me with the charges it now makes."

"The Defense Department," he added, "admits that it has no jurisdiction whatsoever in this matter and its unprecedented 'trial by press and radio' violates the most elemental concepts of justice and due process."

LoDolce said he would "fight to the utmost" an attempt to extradite him to Italy.

Will Repudiate "Confession"

His attorney said that "an alleged confession" reportedly obtained from LoDolce in the presence of Army intelligence officers and Rochester police in mid-1950 would be repudiated.

In Middletown, Conn., a one-time superior officer of the accused men came to their defense. Former Maj. Biagio Corvo, now publisher of a weekly Italian paper, said the two "did some of the finest intelligence work of the war and would never kill for money."

In New York, the editor of True magazine — which is publishing a story of the Holohan slaying in its September issue — issued a statement saying government officials "by every device at their command x x x tried to keep the story from reaching the public."

Bank Head Held In $600,000 Theft

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A 40-year old bank president today was charged with stealing $600,000 from the bank which was the only employer he ever had.

Charged is Ludwig R. Schlekat of the Parnassus National Bank in this industrial community near Pittsburgh. U. S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass, Jr., fixed his bail at $50,000 and remanded him to jail when the banker could not make the bond.

A federal banking official, who asked he not be named, said Schlekat admitted the defalcations—which extended over a 16-year period. The official said the money, eaten up by bad investments, was obtained through manipulation of accounts.

Schlekat, president since 1947, went to work for the bank upon graduation from high school in 1928. He is a prominent church and civic leader.

He is charged with making a false entry, according to information filed by the FBI. The complaint said Schlekat entered a cash balance of $719,651 on August 6, 1951, when the true balance was $119,651.

Schlekat did not enter a plea before the commissioner.

Truman, If He Runs, Would Welcome Douglas' Support

Declares Jap Treaty Plans Won't Be Upset

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman said today that if he runs again in 1952 he will welcome the support of Sen. Douglas (D-Ill).

He threw no further light on his intentions. A bit irritated, he told reporters at a news conference that there are plenty of things more important to talk about now.

He said there are plenty of people ambitious to be President, but they don't know what they are getting into. He would not name them.

From politics, newsmen turned to foreign affairs, but they returned to presidential prospects later despite the President's admonition that they were working on politics to the vanishing point.

Jap Treaty To Be Signed

Mr. Truman said the Japanese peace treaty will be signed next month in San Francisco and the arrangements will not be upset by anybody. This was in response to a question whether he believed Russia's intention to attend would "damage" the signing prospects.

He said he has no objection to Gen. Douglas MacArthur addressing the treaty conference if the State Department wants to invite him

A reporter recalled that Truman had recently said he did not think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Noting that Sen. Douglas has said he is not a candidate, the reporter asked the President: "Who is left besides you?"

Many Aspire To Job

Mr. Truman replied he couldn't answer that, but there are plenty of people ambitious for the job.

Another newsman said Douglas, who is now engaged in challenging two of Mr. Truman's Illinois judgeship nominations, had been quoted as stating that he would support the President if he ran.

The President refused comment on "McCarthyism," as a reporter put it, and said he would not define the word. A presidential attack on "slandermongers" in a speech two days ago was widely interpreted as an attack on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), among others.

Wreckage Of Plane Is Sighted In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16 (AP) — The wreck of a large two-engine plane was reported sighted today on a volcano 48 miles southwest of Mexico City.

The crashed plane was not identified. The airport here said all commercial aircraft operating through here were accounted for. It said the wreck might be a private or an army plane.

Student pilots who said they saw it reported it was "a complete wreck" and they could see no sign of life.

Jet Fighter Plane "Shoots Up" Town

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16 (AP) — A stream of .50 caliber machine gun bullets from a jet fighter plane tore a path right down Elm Street in nearby Groveport today.

About 1,700 slugs from two short-circuited guns smashed into cars, trailers, homes and streets, narrowly missing people and creating near-panic.

Apparently no one was injured.

Man Who Claimed To Be Jesse James Dies In Texas Town

GRANBURY, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP) — J. Frank Dalton, who claimed to be Jesse James and said his age was 107, died last night.

He had come here a week ago from Texas City, accompanied by Lee Howk, who said he was James' great-grandson, and Mrs. Golda Burk.

Dalton was living in Lawton, Okla., when he claimed in May, 1948, to be the notorious outlaw, Jesse James. He said he was born in Louisville, April 17, 1844, and was declared legally dead at St. Joseph, Mo., April 3, 1882. He asserted the man slain there as Jesse actually was one Charlie Bigelow.

Most Decorated Baltimore Cop Fired By Ober

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—The city's most decorated cop was fired today, his downfall brought about by the Senate Crime Committee in Washington.

Lt. Ralph Amrein, 21 years on the force and officially commended many times, was dismissed for accepting a $5,000 loan from a convicted gambler.

"He destroyed completely his usefulness as a member of the department," Police Commissioner Beverly Ober ruled.

The Senate Crime Committee questioned several Maryland characters at various times in Washington, among them Willis M. (Buzz) King. King was touchy about explaining his activities but he let it drop that back in 1944 he loaned Amrein $5,000 for a year and didn't charge any interest.

Ober the next day suspended Amrein and later held a three-day hearing on charges of misconduct.

Amrein admitted he borrowed the money for a personal real estate deal.

Candidate Said 'No' To Zwillman Crime Probe Told

Rejected $300,000 For Political Favor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Senators were told today the Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1949 turned down an offer of $300,000 in return for which he was to give Abner "Longie" Zwillman a voice in naming the state's attorney general if the Democrats won.

The testimony was given to the Senate Crime Democratic candidate —State Sen. Elmer Wene—rejected the offer as soon as he heard of it.

Bishop is a writer and one-time reporter who worked for Wene in the campaign won by Republican Governor Alfred Driscoll.

Zwillman is a reputed power in New Jersey politics and the crime committee has linked his name with crime and racketeering in the state. He has been described as the kingpin in a bootleg syndicate which made $50,000,000 in six of the prohibition years.

Crime committee agents, the FBI and Coast Guard have been searching for Zwillman for more than a month but have been unable to find him.

Bishop testified the $300,000 offer was made to him by George Kesselhaut whom he described as an assistant to Col. William Kelly, then a Democratic leader in Essex County.

He said he was staying at the Essex House Hotel on Broad Street in Newark in September, 1949, when Kesselhaut invited him to his suite in the same hotel.

Bishop quoted Kesselhaut as saying Zwillman "will go for $300,000 for Wene."

Bishop then said he asked what Zwillman wanted in return and Kesselhaut replied "Zwillman does not want to be hurt by a Wene administration."

Later, the witness said, Kesselhaut remarked that Zwillman "would like to have a friend in the state attorney general's office."

"There was no doubt in my mind," Bishop said, "about what he wanted. He wanted a voice in naming the attorney general."

Nam Says Line For Truce Can Be "Adjusted"

Joint Subcommittee Seeking Compromise

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP) — The chief Communist negotiator today was reported ready to back down from stubborn Red buffer zone demands which had threatened to blow up the Korean truce talks.

Lt. Gen. Nam Il, head of the Red delegation, was quoted by the Peiping radio as monitored in Tokyo as saying at yesterday's truce sessions:

"We want to make the 38th parallel the military line of demarcation but it is possible to adjust this line on the basis of terrain and mutual defense positions of the demilitarized zone if they are necessary and reasonable."

This went far beyond anything conciliatory the Reds had said heretofore in the long-stalmated talks. There was no immediate confirmation from Allied quarters of Nam's remarks.

Subcommittee Meets

The development came as a joint subcommittee met at Kaesong to begin a new and informal approach to the difficult buffer zone problem.

The United Nations delegation has refused to discuss a buffer zone based on parallel 38, the old political boundary between North and South Korea. It holds this line is militarily indefensible.

Instead, the U. N. negotiators have called for a zone based upon the present line, which extends into North Korea. They have shown a willingness, however, to make adjustments.

Peiping said Nam insisted that before any agreement could be reached the U. N. would have to abandon its "unfair and unreasonable demands."

Until the subcommittee completes its efforts to break the prolonged deadlock on a military dividing line, the main five-member Allied and Communist truce teams will be in recess.

Communist agreement to take up the issue in an easier, informal atmosphere prompted a growing, but guarded, optimism that the bitter and costly war may be stopped.

Joy's Proposal Accepted

The Reds Thursday accepted a proposal by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations delegate, that a smaller committee meet around—rather than across—the green-topped conference table.

Nam suggested that the subcommittee consist of two delegates from each side, instead of one. Joy readily agreed.

Joy immediately named Maj. Gen. Henry L. Hodes, Eighth Army deputy chief of staff. Today he announced that Rear Arm. Arleigh Burke would be the second U. N. command representative.

Nam appointed Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, mysterious Chinese whose name translates as "Liberation," and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho.

Each team was assigned one staff member and one interpreter.

It was agreed also that the subcommittee would meet in the strictest secrecy since the cease-fire talks began July 10. No communique is to be issued after the meeting nor will correspondents receive the usual briefing.

Russian Exile Plans Anti-Stalin Meeting

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 16. (AP) —Alexander Kerensky, Russia's first premier after the revolt against czarist rule, is planning a secret anti-Stalinist conference here tomorrow.

Kerensky, now an exile who leads the Anti - Communist League of Fighters for the Freedom of the Russian People, arrived in Munich Monday from America.

Egyptian Swimmer Captures Channel Race

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 16 (AP) — A husky Egyptian raced across the English Channel in 12 hours and 12 minutes today to win the £1,000 ($2,800) first prize in the London Daily Mail's annual channel swim.

Hassan Hammad, 34, Cairo, clambered ashore at the foot of Shakespeare Cliff tonight. He was one minute ahead of Roger Le Morvan of France, who landed in St. Margaret's Bay, four miles to the east.

Hundreds of supporters of each lined the shore as the two swimmers neared land. They shouted to them for greater speed.

But both swimmers were near exhaustion.

Hammad touched bottom, climbed over some boulders and sat down gasping.

Le Morvan waded out and was told Hammad apparently had reached land first. He shrugged and, without a word, waded back to his escort boat.

Le Morvan gets £500 ($1,400) for second place.

Brenda Fisher, 23-year-old English girl, won the £1,000 first prize for women and apparently set a new women's channel record on her first try at it.

The judges gave her time, subject to a recheck, as 12 hours and 43 minutes.

The previous best time for a woman swimmer of the channel was 13 hours, 23 minutes, by Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif. Last year.

The race was won last year also by an Egyptian, Hassan Abd El Behim, in a record 10 hours and 49 minutes.

Tiny Tongay Back Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) —They wanted to swim the channel so briny, but officials said no, you're much, much too tiny.

So the kids came back on a plane today, with their parents, Elizabeth and Russell Tongay.

The sister and brother who were to have made the big dive are four-year-old Kathy, and "Bubba," just five.

They went to England, also France, looking for their big swim chance. Their father who had planned the show said governments of both said no.

But nonetheless, the father quipped, the youngsters got well dipped. In France they camped on the channel shore, and daily they swam 10 miles or more.

Testifying before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, Chambers said he got his information about the two men from the head of the underground, a Hungarian-born Red Agent named J. Peters. Peters fled the country several years ago.

Chambers was the government's star witness at the trial of Alger Hiss two years ago. Hiss, a former State Department official, was convicted of perjury for falsely denying that he turned over state secrets to a Red spy ring.

It was in 1937 or thereabouts, Chambers said today, that Peters told him that Field was a member of the underground unit of the American Communist Party which met in a house belonging to Field's mother on Central Park west in New York.

"In the unit with Field was Joseph Barnes," Chambers went on.

Doctor Tells How Mistake Caused Two Lab Deaths

Overdose Of Wrong Drug Administered

VERMILLION, S. D., Aug. 16 (AP) —A 28-year-old doctor quietly told a cononer's jury today how he gave two "human guinea pigs" too large injections because he used the wrong drug by mistake. The two died Wednesday, 24 hours after they received injections in a laboratory test of sedative drugs.

Dr. Louis F. Michalek, University of South Dakota medical school researcher, said he thought he was using demerol, but found he had used methadon instead.

He said the normal dose of demerol is 100 to 150 milligrams. The normal injection of methadon is 10 milligrams. Dr. Michalek said he gave Jack Clifford, 30, a laboratory technician, and Mrs. Ardys Pearson, 26, a secretary, 100 milligrams each of methadon.

"Were the bottles labeled?" Martin Weeks, Jr., Clay County state's attorney asked him.

"Yes," Dr. Michalek replied.

"Did you read them?"

"Yes."

"Then how do you account for this mistake?"

"It's one of those things you can't account for," Dr. Michaelk replied softly. "You check it and then you just don't know how to account for it."

"How did you discover the error?" Weeks asked him.

"I realized the error within a five-minute period after giving Mrs. Pearson her injection," Dr. Michalek replied.

"I thought I had given these two people (Clifford and Mrs. Pearson) demerol. The third subject, Marge, (another secretary) was to receive methadon.

"I went to check the vials again to make sure I had the right one. I picked up the vial for the next subject and realized I had already used this drug. I went immediately to secure the antidotal drugs."

Dr. Michalek himself was to have been the fourth subject.

Weeks asked him why he was to have been last.

"It is common in this type of experiment," the doctor answered, "for the subject-operator to serve as the fourth subject. I was there alone and wanted to make sure the experiment was stabilized before I was under the influence of the drugs."

The two persons who died were volunteer, paid subjects. They were being paid 60 cents an hour.

South Korea Bills U. S. For $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — South Korea today presented the United States a bill for $100,000,000 for goods and services supplied to American fighting forces in Korea. Prompt payment was requested.

Dr. You Chan Yang, South Korean ambassador, told newsmen he appealed for the money during a call on Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Bald Men Likely To Have More Sons, Scientist Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — If you're bald, mister, the chances are you'll have more boy children than girls, a scientist suggested today.

Dr. Marianne E. Bernstein, of the Instituto Di Statistiche in Rome, Italy, also came up with these views:

Fathers suffering from gout will probably have more girls than boys.

Men engaged in "aggressive, extrovert" occupations in which women have seldom become outstanding—such as soldiers, lawyers and businessmen — are probably more "male" than such guys as actors, artists and fiction writers.

And they'll probably have more male offspring than the chaps engaged in "introvert, retiring occupations" where women frequently have become big shots.

Dr. Bernstein reported in the technical journal "Science" that she believes that factors controlling the "sex-ratio" of offspring are identical with, or act through, facts which control a man's balance of male and female sex hormones.

(All men have both male and female hormones in their systems, but the male ones predominate. Dr. Bernstein's suggestion appears to be that the balance can be upset under certain conditions so that some men have more of the male hormones than others.)

Two Accused In OSS Killing Deny Charges

International Red Tape Snarls Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Two ex-servicemen accused of slaying their commander during a secret wartime mission into Italy seven years ago tonight denounced the charges.

The two men had been accused by the Defense Department of slaying Maj. William Holohan in a dispute over giving arms to Communist partisans. The department said $100,000 in gold, U. S. currency and Swiss francs was involved in Holohan's death.

Aldo (Ike) Icardi, a former lieutenant who was on the mission to Italy with Holohan, told reporters at Pittsburgh:

"The charges made against me are fantastic and I am confident that I shall be completely vindicated."

Former Sergeant Carl G. LoDolce said in Rochester, N. Y.:

"I am absolutely innocent of any charge made against me in connection with the case."

U. S. Law Bans Legal Moves

The Defense Department issued a memorandum to the press yesterday on the case, which has become snarled in a tangle of international red tape.

Any legal moves against the two men are forbidden by law in the United States and Italian authorities have taken no action to extradite them for trial in Italy.

The three men involved in the strange case were all members of an OSS (Office of Strategic Services) mission to Italy.

Icardi said "the Defense Department has never confronted me with the charges it now makes."

"The Defense Department," he added, "admits that it has no jurisdiction whatsoever in this matter and its unprecedented 'trial by press and radio' violates the most elemental concepts of justice and due process."

LoDolce said he would "fight to the utmost" an attempt to extradite him to Italy.

Will Repudiate "Confession"

His attorney said that "an alleged confession" reportedly obtained from LoDolce in the presence of Army intelligence officers and Rochester police in mid-1950 would be repudiated.

In Middletown, Conn., a one-time superior officer of the accused men came to their defense. Former Maj. Biagio Corvo, now publisher of a weekly Italian paper, said the two "did some of the finest intelligence work of the war and would never kill for money."

In New York, the editor of True magazine — which is publishing a story of the Holohan slaying in its September issue — issued a statement saying government officials "by every device at their command x x x tried to keep the story from reaching the public."

Bank Head Held In $600,000 Theft

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A 40-year old bank president today was charged with stealing $600,000 from the bank which was the only employer he ever had.

Charged is Ludwig R. Schlekat of the Parnassus National Bank in this industrial community near Pittsburgh. U. S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass, Jr., fixed his bail at $50,000 and remanded him to jail when the banker could not make the bond.

A federal banking official, who asked he not be named, said Schlekat admitted the defalcations—which extended over a 16-year period. The official said the money, eaten up by bad investments, was obtained through manipulation of accounts.

Schlekat, president since 1947, went to work for the bank upon graduation from high school in 1928. He is a prominent church and civic leader.

He is charged with making a false entry, according to information filed by the FBI. The complaint said Schlekat entered a cash balance of $719,651 on August 6, 1951, when the true balance was $119,651.

Schlekat did not enter a plea before the commissioner.

Truman, If He Runs, Would Welcome Douglas' Support

Declares Jap Treaty Plans Won't Be Upset

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman said today that if he runs again in 1952 he will welcome the support of Sen. Douglas (D-Ill).

He threw no further light on his intentions. A bit irritated, he told reporters at a news conference that there are plenty of things more important to talk about now.

He said there are plenty of people ambitious to be President, but they don't know what they are getting into. He would not name them.

From politics, newsmen turned to foreign affairs, but they returned to presidential prospects later despite the President's admonition that they were working on politics to the vanishing point.

Jap Treaty To Be Signed

Mr. Truman said the Japanese peace treaty will be signed next month in San Francisco and the arrangements will not be upset by anybody. This was in response to a question whether he believed Russia's intention to attend would "damage" the signing prospects.

He said he has no objection to Gen. Douglas MacArthur addressing the treaty conference if the State Department wants to invite him

A reporter recalled that Truman had recently said he did not think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Noting that Sen. Douglas has said he is not a candidate, the reporter asked the President: "Who is left besides you?"

Many Aspire To Job

Mr. Truman replied he couldn't answer that, but there are plenty of people ambitious for the job.

Another newsman said Douglas, who is now engaged in challenging two of Mr. Truman's Illinois judgeship nominations, had been quoted as stating that he would support the President if he ran.

The President refused comment on "McCarthyism," as a reporter put it, and said he would not define the word. A presidential attack on "slandermongers" in a speech two days ago was widely interpreted as an attack on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), among others.

Wreckage Of Plane Is Sighted In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16 (AP) — The wreck of a large two-engine plane was reported sighted today on a volcano 48 miles southwest of Mexico City.

The crashed plane was not identified. The airport here said all commercial aircraft operating through here were accounted for. It said the wreck might be a private or an army plane.

Student pilots who said they saw it reported it was "a complete wreck" and they could see no sign of life.

Jet Fighter Plane "Shoots Up" Town

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16 (AP) — A stream of .50 caliber machine gun bullets from a jet fighter plane tore a path right down Elm Street in nearby Groveport today.

About 1,700 slugs from two short-circuited guns smashed into cars, trailers, homes and streets, narrowly missing people and creating near-panic.

Apparently no one was injured.

Man Who Claimed To Be Jesse James Dies In Texas Town

GRANBURY, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP) — J. Frank Dalton, who claimed to be Jesse James and said his age was 107, died last night.

He had come here a week ago from Texas City, accompanied by Lee Howk, who said he was James' great-grandson, and Mrs. Golda Burk.

Dalton was living in Lawton, Okla., when he claimed in May, 1948, to be the notorious outlaw, Jesse James. He said he was born in Louisville, April 17, 1844, and was declared legally dead at St. Joseph, Mo., April 3, 1882. He asserted the man slain there as Jesse actually was one Charlie Bigelow.

Most Decorated Baltimore Cop Fired By Ober

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—The city's most decorated cop was fired today, his downfall brought about by the Senate Crime Committee in Washington.

Lt. Ralph Amrein, 21 years on the force and officially commended many times, was dismissed for accepting a $5,000 loan from a convicted gambler.

"He destroyed completely his usefulness as a member of the department," Police Commissioner Beverly Ober ruled.

The Senate Crime Committee questioned several Maryland characters at various times in Washington, among them Willis M. (Buzz) King. King was touchy about explaining his activities but he let it drop that back in 1944 he loaned Amrein $5,000 for a year and didn't charge any interest.

Ober the next day suspended Amrein and later held a three-day hearing on charges of misconduct.

Amrein admitted he borrowed the money for a personal real estate deal.

Candidate Said 'No' To Zwillman Crime Probe Told

Rejected $300,000 For Political Favor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Senators were told today the Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1949 turned down an offer of $300,000 in return for which he was to give Abner "Longie" Zwillman a voice in naming the state's attorney general if the Democrats won.

The testimony was given to the Senate Crime Democratic candidate —State Sen. Elmer Wene—rejected the offer as soon as he heard of it.

Bishop is a writer and one-time reporter who worked for Wene in the campaign won by Republican Governor Alfred Driscoll.

Zwillman is a reputed power in New Jersey politics and the crime committee has linked his name with crime and racketeering in the state. He has been described as the kingpin in a bootleg syndicate which made $50,000,000 in six of the prohibition years.

Crime committee agents, the FBI and Coast Guard have been searching for Zwillman for more than a month but have been unable to find him.

Bishop testified the $300,000 offer was made to him by George Kesselhaut whom he described as an assistant to Col. William Kelly, then a Democratic leader in Essex County.

He said he was staying at the Essex House Hotel on Broad Street in Newark in September, 1949, when Kesselhaut invited him to his suite in the same hotel.

Bishop quoted Kesselhaut as saying Zwillman "will go for $300,000 for Wene."

Bishop then said he asked what Zwillman wanted in return and Kesselhaut replied "Zwillman does not want to be hurt by a Wene administration."

Later, the witness said, Kesselhaut remarked that Zwillman "would like to have a friend in the state attorney general's office."

"There was no doubt in my mind," Bishop said, "about what he wanted. He wanted a voice in naming the attorney general."

Nam Says Line For Truce Can Be "Adjusted"

Joint Subcommittee Seeking Compromise

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP) — The chief Communist negotiator today was reported ready to back down from stubborn Red buffer zone demands which had threatened to blow up the Korean truce talks.

Lt. Gen. Nam Il, head of the Red delegation, was quoted by the Peiping radio as monitored in Tokyo as saying at yesterday's truce sessions:

"We want to make the 38th parallel the military line of demarcation but it is possible to adjust this line on the basis of terrain and mutual defense positions of the demilitarized zone if they are necessary and reasonable."

This went far beyond anything conciliatory the Reds had said heretofore in the long-stalmated talks. There was no immediate confirmation from Allied quarters of Nam's remarks.

Subcommittee Meets

The development came as a joint subcommittee met at Kaesong to begin a new and informal approach to the difficult buffer zone problem.

The United Nations delegation has refused to discuss a buffer zone based on parallel 38, the old political boundary between North and South Korea. It holds this line is militarily indefensible.

Instead, the U. N. negotiators have called for a zone based upon the present line, which extends into North Korea. They have shown a willingness, however, to make adjustments.

Peiping said Nam insisted that before any agreement could be reached the U. N. would have to abandon its "unfair and unreasonable demands."

Until the subcommittee completes its efforts to break the prolonged deadlock on a military dividing line, the main five-member Allied and Communist truce teams will be in recess.

Communist agreement to take up the issue in an easier, informal atmosphere prompted a growing, but guarded, optimism that the bitter and costly war may be stopped.

Joy's Proposal Accepted

The Reds Thursday accepted a proposal by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations delegate, that a smaller committee meet around—rather than across—the green-topped conference table.

Nam suggested that the subcommittee consist of two delegates from each side, instead of one. Joy readily agreed.

Joy immediately named Maj. Gen. Henry L. Hodes, Eighth Army deputy chief of staff. Today he announced that Rear Arm. Arleigh Burke would be the second U. N. command representative.

Nam appointed Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, mysterious Chinese whose name translates as "Liberation," and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho.

Each team was assigned one staff member and one interpreter.

It was agreed also that the subcommittee would meet in the strictest secrecy since the ceasefire talks began July 10. No communique is to be issued after the meeting nor will correspondents receive the usual briefing.

Egyptian Swimmer Captures Channel Race

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 16 (AP) — A husky Egyptian raced across the English Channel in 12 hours and 12 minutes today to win the £1,000 ($2,800) first prize in the London Daily Mail's annual channel swim.

Hassan Hammad, 34, Cairo, clambered ashore at the foot of Shakespeare Cliff tonight. He was one minute ahead of Roger Le Morvan of France, who landed in St. Margaret's Bay, four miles to the east.

Hundreds of supporters of each lined the shore as the two swimmers neared land. They shouted to them for greater speed.

But both swimmers were near exhaustion.

Hammad touched bottom, climbed over some boulders and sat down gasping.

Le Morvan waded out and was told Hammad apparently had reached land first. He shrugged and, without a word, waded back to his escort boat.

Le Morvan gets £500 ($1,400) for second place.

Brenda Fisher, 23-year-old English girl, won the £1,000 first prize for women and apparently set a new women's channel record on her first try at it.

The judges gave her time, subject to a recheck, as 12 hours and 43 minutes.

The previous best time for a woman swimmer of the channel was 13 hours, 23 minutes, by Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif. Last year.

The race was won last year also by an Egyptian, Hassan Abd El Behim, in a record 10 hours and 49 minutes.

Tiny Tongay Back Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) —They wanted to swim the channel so briny, but officials said no, you're much, much too tiny.

So the kids came back on a plane today, with their parents, Elizabeth and Russell Tongay.

The sister and brother who were to have made the big dive are four-year-old Kathy, and "Bubba," just five.

They went to England, also France, looking for their big swim chance. Their father who had planned the show said governments of both said no.

But nonetheless, the father quipped, the youngsters got well dipped. In France they camped on the channel shore, and daily they swam 10 miles or more.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will stock the pool with game fish prohibited by the Game and Inland Fish Commission, Hoey said.

He urged that all sportsmen keep away from the pool prior to the contest so the stocked fish can become acclimated and thus provide sport during the rodeo.

Last year, when some 1,000 child, ren competed, about 300 fish were caught, leaving plenty of fish in the pool for other anglers.

NSLI Policy Holders Get Second Dividend Payment

More than 1,800,000 checks, representing an amount in excess of $150,000,000 have been mailed to holders of National Service Life Insurance policies in the second GI insurance dividend, Veterans Administration said.

The first payments of the dividend were made in April. They are proceeding so far on schedule, according to the agency.

VA estimated when the second dividend was announced that the payments would require about a year to complete. The number of policies to share in the payment was announced as somewhat over 8,000,000 and the total amount of the dividend to be distributed was calculated as approximately $685,000,000.

The policies eligible for dividends are those which have been held in force for three months or longer, between the anniversary date of the policy in 1948 and the corresponding date in 1951.

The bulk of the accounts are being paid between three and four months following the anniversary date of the policy. If a policy has expired and has been renewed or converted within the three-year period, the veteran will receive two checks, one for the expired policy and one for the new one.

No applications are required for the dividends. The Veterans Administration has cautioned veterans not to write inquiries with reference to their dividends, since the answering of these letters will slow up the process of payments.

Area Exhibitors Enter Weston Horse Show

Event Is Forerunner To Local Contest

Many area horse exhibitors will have entries in the sixth annual Fall Horse Show at the Lewis County Boot and Saddle Club Showgrounds two miles east of Weston, W. Va., August 25-26.

William R. Carscaden, secretary of the committee for the Cumberland Horse Show September 14 to 16, which is sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club, said a large number of local and area exhibitors will have entries in both shows.

The co-sponsors of the Weston Horse Show, the Weston Lions Club, will use their percentage of the proceeds in the financing of sight conservation and other community betterment projects during the fiscal year.

The Weston event, which will be held at the Trefz Farm, Route 33, on the Buckhannon Road, two miles east of Weston, will include eight divisions: five gaited, three gaited, walking horse, equitation, fine harness, pony, pleasure horse, jumper and roadster divisions.

Made up of three sessions, they are on Saturday, August 25, beginning at 7 p. m., Sunday, August 26, beginning at 1 p. m. and in the evening Sunday beginning at 7 o'clock.

Judges will be Miss Nola Minton, Barboursville, Ky. and Murdock Fuller, Waynesburg, Pa.; ringmasters, R. J. Vassar, D. D. S.; and D. D. Chapman, M. D.; president, Forrest Coffman, vice president, French Kerstner; secretary, Maude Louise John, horse show manager, John I. Beach, and co-manager, John Dolan.

under direction of Charles Calhoun and Vera Bestwick with Mrs. Troutman and Mary Lizer in charge of the Chinese checkers.

Games, races, relays and other activities will be held on the athletic field at 3:30 p. m. in charge of Mrs. Eva Hogan, Mrs. Thelma Lannon, Mrs. Genevieve Murphy and Charles Bryce.

The pool will be open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. admission free. Hoey said all playgrounds will be closed today so children can attend the picnic. Some playgrounds have made arrangements to charter buses to take the children to the park.

All children will bring their own picnic lunch, Hoey added, and playground leaders are working with playground associations on plans for an additional treat for the children.

vince of British Columbia. The Seeing Eye organization has been in operation for 22 years. They report that about 1,800 blind persons throughout the United States and Canada now have their dogs.

Second Dog Here

See left his training school in New Jersey yesterday morning. He was taken first to Newark, N. J., by station wagon and from there to Washington, D. C., traveled by plane. In Washington he boarded the B&O train which brought him to Cumberland.

The veteran member of the House of Delegates is the second local man to obtain a dog this year. Walter (Ike) Herboldsheimer, who operates the refreshment stand in the corridor at the Court House, acquired one in May during training at Pathfinder Dog Guides, Inc., in Detroit, Mich. His dog is a Doberman pinscher.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will stock the pool with game fish prohibited by the Game and Inland Fish Commission, Hoey said.

He urged that all sportsmen keep away from the pool prior to the contest so the stocked fish can become acclimated and thus provide sport during the rodeo.

Last year, when some 1,000 child, ren competed, about 300 fish were caught, leaving plenty of fish in the pool for other anglers.

NSLI Policy Holders Get Second Dividend Payment

More than 1,800,000 checks, representing an amount in excess of $150,000,000 have been mailed to holders of National Service Life Insurance policies in the second GI insurance dividend, Veterans Administration said.

The first payments of the dividend were made in April. They are proceeding so far on schedule, according to the agency.

VA estimated when the second dividend was announced that the payments would require about a year to complete. The number of policies to share in the payment was announced as somewhat over 8,000,000 and the total amount of the dividend to be distributed was calculated as approximately $685,000,000.

The policies eligible for dividends are those which have been held in force for three months or longer, between the anniversary date of the policy in 1948 and the corresponding date in 1951.

The bulk of the accounts are being paid between three and four months following the anniversary date of the policy. If a policy has expired and has been renewed or converted within the three-year period, the veteran will receive two checks, one for the expifed policy and one for the new one.

No applications are required for the dividends. The Veterans Administration has cautioned veterans not to write inquiries with reference to their dividends, since the answering of these letters will slow up the process of payments.

Oldtown Child Contracts Polio

Memorial Hospital authorities reported last night, that Elvita Fay Carder, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Carder, Oldtown, who was admitted Tuesday for observation, has polio.

The youth is doing very well and has not yet developed paralysis, authorities said.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate members from area churches.

Title Of New Book Tells Its Own Story: "I Killed Stalin"

By WILLIAM WIDDER

NEW YORK — (INS) — The year is 1958. A figure stands on an observation tower in a palatial Crimean fastness, a Mauser rifle pressed tensely against his shoulder.

Beneath him, less than 500 yards away, a man moves out onto a balcony to join a breakfast party . . .

Nerveless fingers swing the rifle to position; a practiced eye peers through the scope-sight. Now the fatal cross-hairs settle on-target:

"I caught his face first and saw his walrus mustache, then I lowered it to his heart. I squeezed the trigger."

This is the sensational climax of a novel being published this week and whose title tells its own story: 'I Killed Stalin."

The book, published by Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc., is the work of veteran Newspaperman Sterling Noel, now Sunday editor of the New York Journal American.

It was three years in preparation, and draws heavily on Noel's extensive travels in half-a-dozen countries—including Russia—meticulous research, and his experience both in journalism and as a U. S. naval liaison officer with the French navy during World War II.

"I Killed Stalin" is an imaginary first-person account of the assassination of the Russian dictator by the man who does the job—U. S. Navy Intelligence Ace Alexis Bodine, alias Romanian Red Agent "Jan Miles." He is variously, seaman, dockwalloper, and saboteur, with a sinister—but marketable—proficiency in the use of long-range rifles, shivs, and bar stools, close up.

The opening paragraph of the Bodine-Miles manuscript sets the issue before the reader with explosive brusqueness:

"Now in this May of 1959, in the ninth month of the shooting war between Russia and the United States, readers of this document will become informed for the first time of the full story behind the death of the Red tsar, Joseph Stalin . . .

"He was executed as the first war criminal of World War III, on the day that he started the conflagration that is now engulfing so much of the world. I know this to be true because I was his executioner."

Then Bodine—or Jan Miles—tells his story. Born in Brooklyn in February, 1921, a graduate of Columbia, he becomes a Navy intelligence officer in the Balkans during World War II, kills 11 Russian secret police, and finally is brought into bureau-X, an international intelligence organization run from Washington. He is trained, given a whole new identity—that of Miles. His sole mission: To kill Stalin.

He is accepted as a member of the U. S. Communist Party, meets a [illegible] temptress named Rita, becomes the confidante of Gen. Igor Godovisky, secret boss of the American politburo.

Through Godovisky's friendship, Bodine is "rewarded" with a hero's trip to Russia, is appointed "Col. Arbat"—dread, mysterious chief of the secret police's death factory. With this authority, and the use of ingenuity and unalloyed nerve, Bodine gets to Stalin, shoots him, and then tries to make his escape to Turkey—on the day World War Three begins.

Sterling Noel pours suspense into these last pages, to close out a narrative packed with excitement.

As for the man behind the book—Noel, at 48, has enjoyed a varied career that has carried him across half the world, and brought him the French Croix De Guerre for heroism in combat.

Born into a family with a newspaper and literary tradition, Noel lived with his parents in Moscow for a year before World War One broke out. He later attended three universities — California, Columbia and Paris—became an accomplished violinist, and then went into the newspaper business.

By the time he was 20, Sterling Noel had begun writing and selling fiction and articles.

He later added playwriting to his repertoire. Noel entered the Navy in 1942, with a top-secret assignment as a U. S. naval liaison officer with the French nacy, and participated in the invasions of Corsica, Normandy and Southern France.

Subversion Works Both Ways

Russian emigres from many parts of the world were to meet in Munich today to establish a center with the avowed purpose of working for the overthrow of the present government in Moscow. Financing for the new organization is to come from the American Committee for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia, a private organization with headquarters in New York City.

The projected program of the "center for subversive activities against the Stalin regime" would appear to carry at least the tacit approval of the U. S. State Department. Munich lies in the American Zone of Western Germany. The Allied High Commissioners presumably could have refused permission for the meeting. Moreover, four of the delegates—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the Russian Provisional Government of 1917; Boris Nikolayevsky, a moderate Socialist leader; Vladimir Zenzinov, and Prof. I. Kurganov—were to have traveled from the United States with the knowledge and consent of the State Department.

As the cold war has grown progressively warmer, the passport division of the State Department has become less generous than in the past with travel permits to international conferences of which the Department disapproves. Paul Robeson, Howard Fast, and O. John Rogge led an American delegation to the pro-Soviet "World Congress of the Partisans of Peace" in Paris in April, 1949. Rogge—now registered as a representative of the Yugoslav government in the United States—spoke in the Kremlin at a similar meeting in Moscow in March, 1950. But in August, 1950, Robeson's passport was canceled. And in November, 1950, Howard Fast was denied a passport to attend a Red-sponsored "peace" meeting in England.

The gathering in Munich was planned to continue negotiations begun last January in Fuessen, Germany. Five groups of Russian emigres were to be represented.

The sponsoring American organization is not to be confused with the Friends of Fighters for Russian Freedom, organized in New York in February to enlist support in the United States for Russian anti-Communist elements. Sponsors of the latter group include Socialist Norman Thomas; Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor; Leo Cherne of Freedom House; Mrs. Ivan Tolstoy; Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College.

The groups meeting at Munich are the first to go forthrightly on record as advocating subversive activity in the Soviet Union. Today Washington is headquarters of a half-dozen or more national councils, committees, and similar groups representing unofficially the people of Eastern Europe now under Communist rule. They maintain contacts with the people behind the Iron Curtain and in some cases claim to have organized and nourished underground forces.

The Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement of 1933 included a pledge that neither country would tolerate within its territory any organization "which has as its aim the overthrow . . . or bring about by force of a change in the political or social order of the other." But Russia, with its Third Internationale, had violated that pledge long before the cold war began.

Termites Are Too Slow

The ways of the tax laws, and the U. S. Tax Court which interprets them, are sometimes strange and wonderful to behold. Take, for example, the court's views of termites.

Under the Internal Revenue Code, a taxpayer can take certain deductions for property losses on his income tax return, if the losses are not covered by insurance.

If your house burns down, for instance, and it is not covered by insurance, you have a deductible loss. The same holds if your rowboat or yacht is shipwrecked or your automobile smashed in a crash.

But if termites riddle the beams of your living room floor and you have to spend hundreds of dollars repairing the damage and getting rid of them, that's a different story.

At least, the U. S. Tax Court said so in a recent case. A man bought a house after it had been pronounced free of termites. A year later he found the termites had moved in on him and it cost him $1,800 to have the damage repaired and the house made termite-proof. But the court said no to his claim for a tax deduction.

The court ruled that a casualty, to be deductible under the law, had to be a "sudden casualty." Termites, of course, take a certain amount of time to get their dirty work done.

It's a good thing, at any rate, that the law courts do not follow the same sort of rules. A murder is still murder whether it is done with a hatchet or with small doses of poison over a long period of time.

Next Stop—The Moon

In spite of the dreams of the rocket enthusiasts, it is still a long, long way from the earth to the moon. At the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds the other day the experts made their most successful test. A new Viking rocket, fueled with four tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol, sped 135 miles into the upper atmosphere for a new record.

If the rocket had been able to maintain its top speed of 4,100 miles an hour for approximately 60 hours—or two days and a half—it would have reached the moon. But its huge load of fuel was burned up in a mere 75 seconds, although it coasted upward more than 100 miles in the thin air on the momentum it had achieved in the first great thrust. It takes a long time to slow down from a speed of 4,100 miles an hour.

However, if the moon is still a long way off, who would bet that it will not eventually be reached by man-made rockets, in view of this latest test? The first flight of an engine-powered plane, achieved by the Wright brothers, covered less than the length of a city block at an altitude only a few feet off the ground. In the half century since, the range of the airplane has been expanded at an utterly fantastic rate.

In view of that progress, who can doubt that another 25 or 50 years may see the development of a rocket capable of reaching the moon. How man would benefit from such a feat remains to be revealed.

Sweating It Out

Advertising has made us conscious of perspiration, especially when the secretion is excessive. But too much is better than too little because the process is normal and conducive to health and comfort. In this way we carry around our own air conditioning unit.

But when sweat is so abundant it drips off the body and saturates the clothing, the situation is far from comfortable. Now and then the condition is limited to one area such as the hands, which become so moist that everything that is touched becomes wet. It is embarrassing to shake hands and when writing, the skin sticks to the paper. If the feet are the source of trouble, the hose become discolored. Furthermore, perspiration often mixes with chemicals in the shoes and as a result, contact dermatitis follows. Moisture between the toes leads to maceration, which invites ringworm and other infections. Profuse sweating in the armpits has ruined many garments. An odor often is associated with perspiration, that is discernible for a considerable distance from the individual.

Overactivity of the sweat glands obviously is aggravated by warmth, activity, too many clothes, and fever. But there is more to the story. Heredity and over-indulgence in alcohol, coffee, or spicy food are other factors. Dysfunctions of the endocrine glands frequently play a role; over-activity of the thyroid gland is one example. Because the sweat glands are under the control of the nervous system the condition is worse during periods of excitement or anxiety. This probably gave rise to the expression among our service men, "sweating it out."

Various preparations have been suggested for generalized sweating. These include atropine, belladonna, sedatives, and the antihistaminics but the outcome is not always satisfactory. In severe cases X-ray treatment or sympathectomy has been tried but these heroic measures seldom are recommended. Psychotherapy is helpful when an emotional background is the causative factor.

For localized sweating one of the many anti-perspirants on the market usually is effective. The elimination of spicy foods and stimulants from the diet should prove helpful. Now and then tonic baths of sea salt or alum are useful. Other beneficial measures include dusting the skin with powder and foot baths of potassium permanganae or formaldehyde. The socks, underwear and outer clothing should be changed frequently. Clothing customs favor women, as they can dress in a minimum; men are less fortunate in this regard. The heavy sweater should avoid emotional and physical stresses.

BORROWED BLOOD

L. P. writes: How long does the blood of the donor stay in a person's body after a transfusion?

REPLY

Blood cells live four to eight weeks and most of the donor's blood will be gone by the end of this time. Some of the chemicals remain, however. Calcium, for example, may go into the bones and remain forever. On the other hand, if a transfusion is given because of hemorrhage, the blood may run out as fast as it goes in.

STIFF NECK

F. B. writes: What are the causes of stiff neck and what is the best way to treat it?

REPLY

The cause usually is myofibrositis or, in every day language, a cold in the muscles. Infection and exposure to drafts are the most likely precipitating factors. Heat, gentle massage, salicylic acid, d-tubocurarine, and tocopherol are used in treatment.

CRETINS

B. T. writes: What causes cretinism?

REPLY

For some reason the afflicted child's thyroid gland does not secrete its hormone. Vast improvement in the mental and physical condition follows early and adequate dosage of thyroid extract. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cretinism.

MILKMAN NEEDS MILK

B. T. writes: What causes the legs of a 57-year-old milkman to jump at night?

REPLY

A deficiency of calcium is one cause and milk is rich in this mineral. Don't be embarrassed, because we all know that the shoemaker's children go barefoot. Poor circulation is another cause to be investigated.

INFESTED FLOUR

F. T. writes: Is it safe to use flour with maggots in it? I claim that cooking kills them and that the flour can be used.

REPLY

There's no doubt that cooking will kill the invaders, but many individuals would be revolted by the use of such flour.

VEINS AND THE HEART

N. W. writes: Will untreated varicose veins affect the heart?

REPLY

No. The tissues around the varicose vein will suffer because of impairment of the circulation of the blood returning to the heart.

Psychological Warfare, To Succeed, Must Offer Something To Oppressed Peoples; Experiment In Penetrating Iron Curtain With Balloons Is Important

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there in this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his dispatches from close to the Czech border.)

NEAR THE CZECHOSLOVAK BORDER—The current experiment in penetrating the iron curtain by balloons may be a great success or it may fail. It is too early yet to say. But the important thing is that it's an attempt by private individuals under the free-enterprise system to try out certain methods of psychological propaganda — or call it psychological warfare if you will—which governments will not and perhaps cannot tackle.

Today the State Department's propaganda effort is seriously hamstrung by congressional penny pinching, while the American military men who now dominate our foreign policy believe that the only way to stop Russia is to have more and bigger guns. They have little faith in psychological warfare. Accordingly, the National Security Council has ruled out any strong appeals to the people in the iron curtain countries to revolt, sabotage, or disrupt their Cominform governments.

Yet psychological warfare to be successful must offer something—a chance for freedom, for peace, more food or an end of oppression. American propaganda frequently fails because it offers nothing.

The citizen of Czechoslovakia is not interested in hearing foreign radio broadcasts tell him the Soviet system is evil. He knows the Soviet system is evil; what he wants to hear from the Voice of America are ways by which he can throw off the yoke of oppression. Such advice under the National Security Council's present policy cannot be given officially. Meanwhile, Soviet psychological warfare offers excitement, intrigue, revolt against colonial oppressors, and nose-thumbing at bourgeoise masters.

Stalin's Achilles' Heel

These are some of the reasons why private individuals tackled this experiment of trying to make the iron curtain a lace curtain. Personally I am convinced from my last winter's study of the iron curtain countries and from other information that it's not the atomic bomb but contact with free peoples that the Soviet fears most. The unrest of Soviet peoples is Stalin's real Achilles' heel. He's not worried over American air power—great as it is—or even over new atomic weapons, but he is worried over the general dislike of the satellite and Russian peoples for Moscow's unpopular regime.

Therefore, if we are to win the subjugated nations over to our side, we must inspire them, encourage them and above all, keep in contact with them. It was because Stalin mortally feared such contact that he erected the iron curtain and it is to hit this Achilles' heel that a group of private individuals and organizations has now launched messages of hope, friendship and encouragement by balloon into Czechoslovakia.

The people who had the courage to sponsor this project are the American Crusade for Freedom Organization, the Inter-American Federation of Free Trade Unions which has been fighting communism throughout Latin America, veterans or prisoners of war chiefly from Belgium, France, Holland and Italy, the General Federation of Women's Club with 5,500,000 members in 32 countries plus another five and half million in the United States, the AFL Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the CIO Canadian Congress of Labor, and the International Federation of Free Journalists, comprising about 1,000 newsmen exiled from Soviet countries.

The chief dynamo in this intricate operation has been Abbott Washburn, loaned by General Mills of Minneapolis to the Committee for Free Europe which has done such an important job of beaming broadcasts into Czechoslovakia and placed the Freedom Bell in Berlin last year. Harold Stassen, who heads the Crusade for Freedom, has also helped to mastermind the operation. At the initial balloon launching from Munich, Germany, were Boleslaw Wierzbianski of Poland, George Jonescu of the Rumanian Federation of Free Journalists, Frau Lotte Stoehr of Germany and Mrs. Robert Taylor, both of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

It is considered especially significant in Europe that these balloons are being aimed at Czechoslovakia after the imprisonment of William Oatis and that among their sponsors are the Federation of Free Journalists. Hitherto the United States' official policy has leaned toward paying virtual ransom money when its citizens have been seized by the Cominform. Thus, important concessions were given to Hungary to obtain Robert Vogelers release from jail.

However, it is now realized that the more you pay out in concessions to the Soviet the more Moscow demands in ransom money and the more it is inclined to maltreat American citizens and to increase the blackmail demands. America's cracking down on Czech trade is an indication of this new stiffening of policy by the U. S. and the current balloon operation supplements it. This may help to show the Cominform that, instead of taking the abuse of our citizens lying down, we intend to retaliate.

Story of Friendship

Around Europe—Germans crowd around the balloon truck convoy when it sets up operations at night like kids watching circus wagons unload at home . . . One trouble is to keep the crowds from smoking when near the hydrogen tanks . . . Radio Free Europe, operated partly by Czech refugees in Munich and financed by the Crusade for Freedom, has poured a daily barrage of messages to the Czech people giving them the story of friendship balloons . . . It suggests plastic pillow balloons be used for food containers . . . Leaflets are found inside the pillow balloons after they settle on the ground . . . The large rubber balloons burst at 30,000 feet altitude and the leaflets inside them are scattered gradually to the earth.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Candor and a wholesome respect for truth somehow have a way of breaking through artifices of political double-talk and the ambiguity of so-called diplomacy.

For General Ridgway's Supreme Allied Headquarters has finally cleared up in dramatic and unequivocal words the American as well as the UN position in Korea with a fateful warning to the Communists as follows:

"If the Communists again raise the standards of war, their soldiers will be met by the fury of the weapons of the United Nations forces . . .

"The UN command, if necessary, will continue to execute its mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Here is an admission at last of something the Senate Armed Services Committee was unable to elicit from the top military staff here or from the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson—namely, just what the U. N. forces in Korea had and still have as their mission in Korea. It now is stated to be a "mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Supersedes Earlier Declaration

Here is a statement to the whole world that the UN, including the American government, means to continue to use military force to achieve its objectives in securing peace for all Korea.

Here is a declaration which supersedes what was said last June by the Secretary of State and by UN spokesmen, namely, that the UN never intended to seek the liberation of all Korea by military means and sought only to repel aggression somewhere around the 38th Parallel.

Here is a warning—or some may call it a threat—directed to the Communists telling them what is in store for them if they don't agree to a cease-fire now.

Obviously, General Ridgway's headquarters spoke with the knowledge and concurrence of the authorities in Washington.

Just five months ago—March 24 to be exact—the same kind of statement was issued by General MacArthur urging a cease-fire agreement by military commanders in the field. He, too, used a threat—he said if the enemy didn't agree to a cease-fire, the United Nations might have to "depart from its tolerant effort to contain the war to the area of Korea through expansion of our military operations to his coastal areas and interior bases."

The MacArthur message was broadcast in the "Voice of the UN Command" radio program at that time, just as was General Ridgway's in the last 48 hours. General MacArthur based his action on two previous authorizations from Washington to arrange an armistice.

The purpose was then and is now to threaten the Communists with a hotter war if they do not agree to a cease-fire.

General Ridgway does not explicitly define what area he might fight in if the cease-fire fails, but he pointedly mentions "the fury of the weapons" of the UN command, which could mean the use of anything from conventional bombs to new type of atom bombs and artillery shells.

For threatening the enemy with military punishment, and for endeavoring to arrange a cease-fire in the field instead of through diplomatic channels, General MacArthur is alleged to have been dismissed—at least, that was one of the reasons stated after the inquiry was begun

Mission's Avowal Significant

But what has just happened shows that it could not have been any such reason. This is because what the UN command in Korea is doing today is along the same lines as General MacArthur pursued. Hence the record of the UN command as such is fortunately shown to be consistent throughout, and the Washington administration is to be congratulated for having endorsed five months late what it seemed to be repudiating last June.

The most significant revelation, however, is not just the use of a military threat against the Communists but the open avowal of the UN command's mission—that it is the liberation by military means of all Korea and that, if the cease-fire parleys fail, the mission will continue as before.

This undoubtedly means that, even after a cease-fire, there will be insistence on a liberation of all Korea or fighting will be resumed by the U. N. Such a result may not materialize soon, as negotiations could go on for a long, long time, but the record, in effect, establishes now the proposition that the armistice will not be accepted as a final settlement and that threats of a continuance of hostilities will be the UN position right along hereafter unless and until Korea is freed of hostile military forces and peace is established for the people of all Korea. It is a great step forward.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Margaret's Versatility

I see by the London "Sunday Dispatch" that Margaret Truman is a columnist. Into this calling she goes by proxy, speaking her column to one Stanley Frank. All-in-all, the young lady is doing remarkably well, making, in fact, a more telling record than the Roosevelt children.

Miss Truman is, in many respects, her father's best press agent. She describes him with deep sensitivity as a nervous father who tears programs at his daughter's concert. It is a touching scene of the natural, unaccustomed man who feels as most of us do about our children. Even presidents are human—which they must be or what else could they be?

In fact, most of this story is not about Margaret at all but about Harry before he ever became a president and was just a man, a husband, and a father of an only child in Independence, Missouri, where the Trumans lived with his wife's parents.

There he liked to play the piano while his sister, Mary, sang. Margaret calls it "an impromptu duet recital."

It is all so much like the lives we all lived back in the days before we became involved in international affairs and got to know the difference between the Russian Malik and the Lebanese Malik.

Those were the happy days and Harry Truman, like most Americans, was trying to earn a living. Times were not too good for him back there. He had not yet found himself. That was to come later in in association with Pendergast, but, in this article, Margaret Truman does not refer to such things.

She gives her own and her father's musical credo as follows:

"I must confess we're strictly a long-hair family from way back. We always have preferred classical to popular music.

"I don't want to sound stuffy about this, but I suppose the early indoctrination in serious music Dad gave me is the reason why I didn't moon over crooners and torchy lyrics during adolescence.

"Don't get me wrong. I love dancing—it's the only exercise I get now—and I've always been a Sinatra fan."

From Mozart to Sinatra is quite a hop, skip, jump or flop, whichever word you wish to use, but a good press agent should be modern and as like the common man as possible.

Maybe this gives the clue to Harry Truman's political strength: He is the ordinary man.

As Margaret describes him, he is one of the most ordinary of them. There is power in that in a country like ours, which reacts violently to great changes. After the extremely complex Franklin D. Roosevelt comes the simple, ordinary Harry S. Truman.

He is the same kind of a man from whom you buy your groceries. In fact, he is the same kind of person as most of us — knowing enough but not too much; understanding more than he knows; living with his family, bothered only with the little things in life, like his daughter calling everybody "dearie," which got him sore. You know how that is, the kids picking up a word and working it to death.

And then comes that heroic moment in every father's life when he tells his child, usually a son, that he will back him in anything he wants to do. By that time, the child is really an adult and will do as he chooses, anyhow. Margaret tells it this way:

"I'll back you in anything you want to do," Dad said, "I'm tickled to death that you're thinking of music. But first I want you go to college and get your degree."

By the time Harry Truman has to keep that promise, he has moved up from Independence, Missouri, and the Wallace household and is President of the United States. It is a tremendous transformation. The humble, little, ordinary man has become a great man. He no longer is limited to playing duets with his sister, Mary; the whole world is his sounding board and everything he says and does is important. He no longer needs to get by; he has everything.

This is a wonderful moment for Margaret Truman. Ordinarily, she would have had to be auditioned; run from one agency to another looking for work. Now all the world wants to know if the President's daughter really can sing. If Harry Truman did nothing else, he arranged it so that Margaret Truman had a short-cut to make good in her chosen field. No father could do more.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Eisenhower Magic

During the last month, the Capitol has been the scene of an astonishing reversal of form. In mid-July, the Congressional wiseacres, gloomily headed by Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland in person, began to predict the most drastic cuts in the President's $8.5 billion request for military and other foreign aid. Compared to the Senate, Lizzie Borden with her axe was said to be a mere mollycoddle.

The outlook was genuinely ominous. The estimates of probable "economies" ran from $2 billion to $3 billion, which would have represented a spectacular American retreat from former American policy. This in turn would surely have caused the British to retreat from their 4.7 billion pound defense program to the earlier and much easier 3.6 billion pound program. The French meanwhile would have comfortably refused to tackle their explosive manpower program. There would have been other "economies" and easy negligence by our other allies.

In short, by setting a bad but tempting example the Senatorial "economies" could well have brought the whole Western defense program crashing down in ruin. Yet until very recently, the most expert Congressional observers continued to insist that with hope of peace in Korea in the air, nothing would dissuade the Senate from a tremendous hacking and chopping operation.

Eisenhower's Influence

Now, on the contrary, the prophesies run all the other way. No more than routine cuts of from $700 million to $1 billion are now expected—and these were of course allowed for in advance when the appropriation requests were compiled. In short, we are to go forward with the task of rebuilding the strength of the West, instead of hurriedly retreating from it on the first whisper of good news.

In part, of course, this reversal has occurred because the good news has not been confirmed. There is no peace in Korea yet. In part, also, the first emotional response has died down, and senators and representatives have had time to look at the real facts. But it is difficult to avoid the conclusion, none the less, that the really major influence working to bring about this surprising Congressional reversal has been that of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Barring the extreme isolationists, the great mass of Republicans and Democrats genuinely and sincerely want to give Gen. Eisenhower whatever he needs to do his job He has explained his needs convincingly to two Congressional groups — a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a party of representatives belonging to the House Foreign Affairs, Appropriations and Armed Services committees. These men, bringing back the word, have greatly worked upon their colleagues. So have reports of the General's attitude through more public channels, such as his remark that the Republican-isolationists project to spread the foreign and military aid outlays over two years was a plan for "getting half the force at twice the expense".

Taft Against Slash

But the realy remarkable demonstration of the magic of the Eisenhower name was given by none other than Sen Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Although not publicity committed, Sen. Taft had himself been a member of the "make the money last two years" group. He was indeed, expected to be a leader of the economy bloc when the floor fight started.

Taft's political advisors appear, however, to have pointed out to him that if he took this customary course at the present juncture, he would be accused of crippling Gen. Eisenhower's effort Last week, therefore, to the astonishment of almost everyone in the Senate, Sen. Taft came out pubicly against any slashing of foreign military aid. Military aid constitutes the vast bulk of the total appropriation. No huge savings can be accomplished by the cuts Sen. Taft continued to advocate in ocerseas economic aid. Hence, in effect, the mere name of Gen. Eisenhower has driven Sen. Taft to change his mind and abandon his usual allies.

There have also been other, less appetizing tributes to the Eisenhower magic in recent weeks. One such was the remarkable performance of Sen. Taft's busy lieutenant Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, who returned from Europe to announce publicly that the General was an "indispensable man" on the other side of the Atlantic, and to pass the word in private that the h[illegible]ly robust Eisenhower health was failing sadly and fast. The plain truth is that while Gen. Eisenhower inspires respect and affection among most of members of Congress as among the vast majority of Americans, the mere thought of him reduces the Taft-ites to a jelly of terror.

The reason is simple enough. In Congress and out of Congress, the want of leadership in these last years has produced the sensation hyperbolically expressed by the politician who said bitterly, "I feel as though I were being nibbled to death by mice." Eisenhower is the antidote to that disagreeable sensation.

Subversion Works Both Ways

Russian emigres from many parts of the world were to meet in Munich today to establish a center with the avowed purpose of working for the overthrow of the present government in Moscow. Financing for the new organization is to come from the American Committee for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia, a private organization with headquarters in New York City.

The projected program of the "center for subversive activities against the Stalin regime" would appear to carry at least the tacit approval of the U. S. State Department. Munich lies in the American Zone of Western Germany. The Allied High Commissioners presumably could have refused permission for the meeting. Moreover, four of the delegates—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the Russian Provisional Government of 1917; Boris Nikolayevsky, a moderate Socialist leader; Vladimir Zenzinov, and Prof. I. Kurganov—were to have traveled from the United States with the knowledge and consent of the State Department.

As the cold war has grown progressively warmer, the passport division of the State Department has become less generous than in the past with travel permits to international conferences of which the Department disapproves. Paul Robeson, Howard Fast, and O. John Rogge led an American delegation to the pro-Soviet "World Congress of the Partisans of Peace" in Paris in April, 1949. Rogge—now registered as a representative of the Yugoslav government in the United States—spoke in the Kremlin at a similar meeting in Moscow in March, 1950. But in August, 1950, Robeson's passport was canceled. And in November, 1950, Howard Fast was denied a passport to attend a Red-sponsored "peace" meeting in England.

The gathering in Munich was planned to continue negotiations begun last January in Fuessen, Germany. Five groups of Russian emigres were to be represented.

The sponsoring American organization is not to be confused with the Friends of Fighters for Russian Freedom, organized in New York in February to enlist support in the United States for Russian anti-Communist elements. Sponsors of the latter group include Socialist Norman Thomas; Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor; Leo Cherne of Freedom House; Mrs. Ivan Tolstoy; Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College.

The groups meeting at Munich are the first to go forthrightly on record as advocating subversive activity in the Soviet Union. Today Washington is headquarters of a half-dozen or more national councils, committees, and similar groups representing unofficially the people of Eastern Europe now under Communist rule. They maintain contacts with the people behind the Iron Curtain and in some cases claim to have organized and nourished underground forces.

The Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement of 1933 included a pledge that neither country would tolerate within its territory any organization "which has as its aim the overthrow . . . or bring about by force of a change in the political or social order of the other." But Russia, with its Third Internationale, had violated that pledge long before the cold war began.

Termites Are Too Slow

The ways of the tax laws, and the U. S. Tax Court which interprets them, are sometimes strange and wonderful to behold. Take, for example, the court's views of termites.

Under the Internal Revenue Code, a taxpayer can take certain deductions for property losses on his income tax return, if the losses are not covered by insurance.

If your house burns down, for instance, and it is not covered by insurance, you have a deductible loss. The same holds if your rowboat or yacht is shipwrecked or your automobile smashed in a crash.

But if termites riddle the beams of your living room floor and you have to spend hundreds of dollars repairing the damage and getting rid of them, that's a different story.

At least, the U. S. Tax Court said so in a recent case. A man bought a house after it had been pronounced free of termites. A year later he found the termites had moved in on him and it cost him $1,800 to have the damage repaired and the house made termite-proof. But the court said no to his claim for a tax deduction.

The court ruled that a casualty, to be deductible under the law, had to be a "sudden casualty." Termites, of course, take a certain amount of time to get their dirty work done.

It's a good thing, at any rate, that the law courts do not follow the same sort of rules. A murder is still murder whether it is done with a hatchet or with small doses of poison over a long period of time.

Next Stop—The Moon

In spite of the dreams of the rocket enthusiasts, it is still a long, long way from the earth to the moon. At the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds the other day the experts made their most successful test. A new Viking rocket, fueled with four tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol, sped 135 miles into the upper atmosphere for a new record.

If the rocket had been able to maintain its top speed of 4,100 miles an hour for approximately 60 hours—or two days and a half—it would have reached the moon. But its huge load of fuel was burned up in a mere 75 seconds, although it coasted upward more than 100 miles in the thin air on the momentum it had achieved in the first great thrust. It takes a long time to slow down from a speed of 4,100 miles an hour.

However, if the moon is still a long way off, who would bet that it will not eventually be reached by man-made rockets, in view of this latest test? The first flight of an engine-powered plane, achieved by the Wright brothers, covered less than the length of a city block at an altitude only a few feet off the ground. In the half century since, the range of the airplane has been expanded at an utterly fantastic rate.

In view of that progress, who can doubt that another 25 or 50 years may see the development of a rocket capable of reaching the moon. How man would benefit from such a feat remains to be revealed.

Sweating It Out

Advertising has made us conscious of perspiration, especially when the secretion is excessive. But too much is better than too little because the process is normal and conducive to health and comfort. In this way we carry around our own air conditioning unit.

But when sweat is so abundant it drips off the body and saturates the clothing, the situation is far from comfortable. Now and then the condition is limited to one area such as the hands, which become so moist that everything that is touched becomes wet. It is embarrassing to shake hands and when writing, the skin sticks to the paper. If the feet are the source of trouble, the hose become discolored. Furthermore, perspiration often mixes with chemicals in the shoes and as a result, contact dermatitis follows. Moisture between the toes leads to maceration, which invites ringworm and other infections. Profuse sweating in the armpits has ruined many garments. An odor often is associated with perspiration, that is discernible for a considerable distance from the individual.

Overactivity of the sweat glands obviously is aggravated by warmth, activity, too many clothes, and fever. But there is more to the story. Heredity and over-indulgence in alcohol, coffee, or spicy food are other factors. Dysfunctions of the endocrine glands frequently play a role; over-activity of the thyroid gland is one example. Because the sweat glands are under the control of the nervous system the condition is worse during periods of excitement or anxiety. This probably gave rise to the expression among our service men, "sweating it out."

Various preparations have been suggested for generalized sweating. These include atropine, belladonna, sedatives, and the antihistaminics but the outcome is not always satisfactory. In severe cases X-ray treatment or sympathectomy has been tried but these heroic measures seldom are recommended. Psychotherapy is helpful when an emotional background is the causative factor.

For localized sweating one of the many anti-perspirants on the market usually is effective. The elimination of spicy foods and stimulants from the diet should prove helpful. Now and then tonic baths of sea salt or alum are useful. Other beneficial measures include dusting the skin with powder and foot baths of potassium permanganae or formaldehyde. The socks, underwear and outer clothing should be changed frequently. Clothing customs favor women, as they can dress in a minimum; men are less fortunate in this regard. The heavy sweater should avoid emotional and physical stresses.

BORROWED BLOOD

L. P. writes: How long does the blood of the donor stay in a person's body after a transfusion?

REPLY

Blood cells live four to eight weeks and most of the donor's blood will be gone by the end of this time. Some of the chemicals remain, however. Calcium, for example, may go into the bones and remain forever. On the other hand, if a transfusion is given because of hemorrhage, the blood may run out as fast as it goes in.

STIFF NECK

F. B. writes: What are the causes of stiff neck and what is the best way to treat it?

REPLY

The cause usually is myofibrositis or, in every day language, a cold in the muscles. Infection and exposure to drafts are the most likely precipitating factors. Heat, gentle massage, salicylic acid, d-tubocurarine, and tocopherol are used in treatment.

CRETINS

B. T. writes: What causes cretinism?

REPLY

For some reason the afflicted child's thyroid gland does not secrete its hormone. Vast improvement in the mental and physical condition follows early and adequate dosage of thyroid extract. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cretinism.

MILKMAN NEEDS MILK

B. T. writes: What causes the legs of a 57-year-old milkman to jump at night?

REPLY

A deficiency of calcium is one cause and milk is rich in this mineral. Don't be embarrassed, because we all know that the shoemaker's children go barefoot. Poor circulation is another cause to be investigated.

INFESTED FLOUR

F. T. writes: Is it safe to use flour with maggots in it? I claim that cooking kills them and that the flour can be used.

REPLY

There's no doubt that cooking will kill the invaders, but many individuals would be revolted by the use of such flour.

VEINS AND THE HEART

N. W. writes: Will untreated varicose veins affect the heart?

REPLY

No. The tissues around the varicose vein will suffer because of impairment of the circulation of the blood returning to the heart.

Psychological Warfare, To Succeed, Must Offer Something To Oppressed Peoples; Experiment In Penetrating Iron Curtain With Balloons Is Important

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there in this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his dispatches from close to the Czech border.)

NEAR THE CZECHOSLOVAK BORDER—The current experiment in penetrating the iron curtain by balloons may be a great success or it may fail. It is too early yet to say. But the important thing is that it's an attempt by private individuals under the free-enterprise system to try out certain methods of psychological propaganda — or call it psychological warfare if you will—which governments will not and perhaps cannot tackle.

Today the State Department's propaganda effort is seriously hamstrung by congressional penny pinching, while the American military men who now dominate our foreign policy believe that the only way to stop Russia is to have more and bigger guns. They have little faith in psychological warfare. Accordingly, the National Security Council has ruled out any strong appeals to the people in the iron curtain countries to revolt, sabotage, or disrupt their Cominform governments.

Yet psychological warfare to be successful must offer something—a chance for freedom, for peace, more food or an end of oppression. American propaganda frequently fails because it offers nothing.

The citizen of Czechoslovakia is not interested in hearing foreign radio broadcasts tell him the Soviet system is evil. He knows the Soviet system is evil; what he wants to hear from the Voice of America are ways by which he can throw off the yoke of oppression. Such advice under the National Security Council's present policy cannot be given officially. Meanwhile, Soviet psychological warfare offers excitement, intrigue, revolt against colonial oppressors, and nose-thumbing at bourgeoise masters.

Stalin's Achilles' Heel

These are some of the reasons why private individuals tackled this experiment of trying to make the iron curtain a lace curtain. Personally I am convinced from my last winter's study of the iron curtain countries and from other information that it's not the atomic bomb but contact with free peoples that the Soviet fears most. The unrest of Soviet peoples is Stalin's real Achilles' heel. He's not worried over American air power—great as it is—or even over new atomic weapons, but he is worried over the general dislike of the satellite and Russian peoples for Moscow's unpopular regime.

Therefore, if we are to win the subjugated nations over to our side, we must inspire them, encourage them and above all, keep in contact with them. It was because Stalin mortally feared such contact that he erected the iron curtain and it is to hit this Achilles' heel that a group of private individuals and organizations has now launched messages of hope, friendship and encouragement by balloon into Czechoslovakia.

The people who had the courage to sponsor this project are the American Crusade for Freedom Organization, the Inter-American Federation of Free Trade Unions which has been fighting communism throughout Latin America, veterans or prisoners of war chiefly from Belgium, France, Holland and Italy, the General Federation of Women's Club with 5,500,000 members in 32 countries plus another five and half million in the United States, the AFL Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the CIO Canadian Congress of Labor, and the International Federation of Free Journalists, comprising about 1,000 newsmen exiled from Soviet countries.

The chief dynamo in this intricate operation has been Abbott Washburn, loaned by General Mills of Minneapolis to the Committee for Free Europe which has done such an important job of beaming broadcasts into Czechoslovakia and placed the Freedom Bell in Berlin last year. Harold Stassen, who heads the Crusade for Freedom, has also helped to mastermind the operation. At the initial balloon launching from Munich, Germany, were Boleslaw Wierzbianski of Poland, George Jonescu of the Rumanian Federation of Free Journalists, Frau Lotte Stoehr of Germany and Mrs. Robert Taylor, both of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

It is considered especially significant in Europe that these balloons are being aimed at Czechoslovakia after the imprisonment of William Oatis and that among their sponsors are the Federation of Free Journalists. Hitherto the United States' official policy has leaned toward paying virtual ransom money when its citizens have been seized by the Cominform. Thus, important concessions were given to Hungary to obtain Robert Vogelers release from jail.

However, it is now realized that the more you pay out in concessions to the Soviet the more Moscow demands in ransom money and the more it is inclined to maltreat American citizens and to increase the blackmail demands. America's cracking down on Czech trade is an indication of this new stiffening of policy by the U. S. and the current balloon operation supplements it. This may help to show the Cominform that, instead of taking the abuse of our citizens lying down, we intend to retaliate.

Story of Friendship

Around Europe—Germans crowd around the balloon truck convoy when it sets up operations at night like kids watching circus wagons unload at home . . . One trouble is to keep the crowds from smoking when near the hydrogen tanks . . . Radio Free Europe, operated partly by Czech refugees in Munich and financed by the Crusade for Freedom, has poured a daily barrage of messages to the Czech people giving them the story of friendship balloons . . . It suggests plastic pillow balloons be used for food containers . . . Leaflets are found inside the pillow balloons after they settle on the ground . . . The large rubber balloons burst at 30,000 feet altitude and the leaflets inside them are then scattered gradually to the earth.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Candor and a wholesome respect for truth somehow have a way of breaking through artifices of political double-talk and the ambiguity of so-called diplomacy.

For General Ridgway's Supreme Allied Headquarters has finally cleared up in dramatic and unequivocal words the American as well as the UN position in Korea with a fateful warning to the Communists as follows:

"If the Communists again raise the standards of war, their soldiers will be met by the fury of the weapons of the United Nations forces . . .

"The UN command, if necessary, will continue to execute its mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Here is an admission at last of something the Senate Armed Services Committee was unable to elicit from the top military staff here or from the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson—namely, just what the U. N. forces in Korea had and still have as their mission in Korea. It now is stated to be a "mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Supersedes Earlier Declaration

Here is a statement to the whole world that the UN, including the American government, means to continue to use military force to achieve its objectives in securing peace for all Korea.

Here is a declaration which supersedes what was said last June by the Secretary of State and by UN spokesmen, namely, that the UN never intended to seek the liberation of all Korea by military means and sought only to repel aggression somewhere around the 38th Parallel.

Here is a warning—or some may call it a threat—directed to the Communists telling them what is in store for them if they don't agree to a cease-fire now.

Obviously, General Ridgway's headquarters spoke with the knowledge and concurrence of the authorities in Washington.

Just five months ago—March 24 to be exact—the same kind of statement was issued by General MacArthur uring a cease-fire agreement by military commanders in the field. He, too, used a threat—he said if the enemy didn't agree to a cease-fire, the United Nations might have to "depart from its tolerant effort to contain the war to the area of Korea through expansion of our military operations to his coastal areas and interior bases."

The MacArthur message was broadcast in the "Voice of the UN Command" radio program at that time, just as was General Ridgway's in the last 48 hours. General MacArthur based his action on two previous authorizations from Washington to arrange an armistice.

The purpose was then and is now to threaten the Communists with a hotter war if they do not agree to a cease-fire.

General Ridgway does not explicitly define what area he might fight in if the cease-fire fails, but he pointedly mentions "the fury of the weapons" of the UN command, which could mean the use of anything from conventional bombs to new type of atom bombs and artillery shells.

For threatening the enemy with military punishment, and for endeavoring to arrange a cease-fire in the field instead of through diplomatic channels, General MacArthur is alleged to have been dismissed—at least, that was one of the reasons stated after the inquiry was begun

Mission's Avowal Significant

But what has just happened shows that it could not have been any such reason. This is because what the UN command in Korea is doing today is along the same lines as General MacArthur pursued. Hence the record of the UN command as such is fortunately shown to be consistent throughout, and the Washington administration is to be congratulated for having endorsed five months late what it seemed to be repudiating last June.

The most significant revelation, however, is not just the use of a military threat against the Communists but the open avowal of the UN command's mission—that it is the liberation by military means of all Korea and that, if the cease-fire parleys fail, the mission will continue as before.

This undoubtedly means that, even after a cease-fire, there will be insistence on a liberation of all Korea or fighting will be resumed by the U. N. Such a result may not materialize soon, as negotiations could go on for a long, long time, but the record, in effect, establishes now the proposition that the armistice will not be accepted as a final settlement and that threats of a continuance of hostilities will be the UN position right along hereafter unless and until Korea is freed of hostile military forces and peace is established for the people of all Korea. It is a great step forward.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Margaret's Versatility

I see by the London "Sunday Dispatch" that Margaret Truman is a columnist. Into this calling she goes by proxy, speaking her column to one Stanley Frank. All-in-all, the young lady is doing remarkably well, making, in fact, a more telling record than the Roosevelt children.

Miss Truman is, in many respects, her father's best press agent. She describes him with deep sensitivity as a nervous father who tears programs at his daughter's concert. It is a touching scene of the natural, unaccustomed man who feels as most of us do about our children. Even presidents are human—which they must be or what else could they be?

In fact, most of this story is not about Margaret at all but about Harry before he ever became a president and was just a man, a husband, and a father of an only child in Independence, Missouri, where the Trumans lived with his wife's parents.

There he liked to play the piano while his sister, Mary, sang. Margaret calls it "an impromptu duet recital."

It is all so much like the lives we all lived back in the days before we became involved in international affairs and got to know the difference between the Russian Malik and the Lebanese Malik.

Those were the happy days and Harry Truman, like most Americans, was trying to earn a living. Times were not too good for him back there. He had not yet found himself. That was to come later in in association with Pendergast, but, in this article, Margaret Truman does not refer to such things.

She gives her own and her father's musical credo as follows:

"I must confess we're strictly a long-hair family from way back. We always have preferred classical to popular music.

"I don't want to sound stuffy about this, but I suppose the early indoctrination in serious music Dad gave me is the reason why I didn't moon over crooners and torchy lyrics during adolescence.

"Don't get me wrong. I love dancing—it's the only exercise I get now—and I've always been a Sinatra fan."

From Mozart to Sinatra is quite a hop, skip, jump or flop, whichever word you wish to use, but a good press agent should be modern and as like the common man as possible.

Maybe this gives the clue to Harry Truman's political strength: He is the ordinary man.

As Margaret describes him, he is one of the most ordinary of them. There is power in that in a country like ours, which reacts violently to great changes. After the extremely complex Franklin D. Roosevelt comes the simple, ordinary Harry S. Truman.

He is the same kind of a man from whom you buy your groceries. In fact, he is the same kind of person as most of us — knowing enough but not too much; understanding more than he knows; living with his family, bothered only with the little things in life, like his daughter calling everybody "dearie," which got him sore. You know how that is, the kids picking up a word and working it to death.

And then comes that heroic moment in every father's life when he tells his child, usually a son, that he will back him in anything he wants to do. By that time, the child is really an adult and will do as he chooses, anyhow. Margaret tells it this way:

"I'll back you in anything you want to do," Dad said, "I'm tickled to death that you're thinking of music. But first I want you go to college and get your degree."

By the time Harry Truman has to keep that promise, he has moved up from Independence, Missouri, and the Wallace household and is President of the United States. It is a tremendous transformation. The humble, little, ordinary man has become a great man. He no longer is limited to playing duets with his sister, Mary; the whole world is his sounding board and everything he says and does is important. He no longer needs to get by; he has everything.

This is a wonderful moment for Margaret Truman. Ordinarily, she would have had to be auditioned; run from one agency to another looking for work. Now all the world wants to know if the President's daughter really can sing. If Harry Truman did nothing else, he arranged it so that Margaret Truman had a short-cut to make good in her chosen field. No father could do more.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Eisenhower Magic

During the last month, the Capitol has been the scene of an astonishing reversal of form. In mid-July, the Congressional wiseacres, gloomily headed by Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland in person, began to predict the most drastic cuts in the President's $8.5 billion request for military and other foreign aid. Compared to the Senate, Lizzie Borden with her axe was said to be a mere mollycoddle.

The outlook was genuinely ominous. The estimates of probable "economies" ran from $2 billion to $3 billion, which would have represented a spectacular American retreat from former American policy. This in turn would surely have caused the British to retreat from their 4.7 billion pound defense program to the earlier and much easier 3.6 billion pound program. The French meanwhile would have comfortably refused to tackle their explosive manpower program. There would have been other "economies" and easy negligence by our other allies.

In short, by setting a bad but tempting example the Senatorial "economies" could well have brought the whole Western defense program crashing down in ruin. Yet until very recently, the most expert Congressional observers continued to insist that with hope of peace in Korea in the air, nothing would dissuade the Senate from a tremendous hacking and chopping operation.

Eisenhower's Influence

Now, on the contrary, the prophesies run all the other way. No more than routine cuts of from $700 million to $1 billion are now expected—and these were of course allowed for in advance when the appropriation requests were compiled. In short, we are to go forward with the task of rebuilding the strength of the West, instead of hurriedly retreating from it on the first whisper of good news.

In part, of course, this reversal has occurred because the good news has not been confirmed. There is no peace in Korea yet. In part, also, the first emotional response has died down, and senators and representatives have had time to look at the real facts. But it is difficult to avoid the conclusion, none the less, that the really major influence working to bring about this surprising Congressional reversal has been that of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Barring the extreme isolationists, the great mass of Republicans and Democrats genuinely and sincerely want to give Gen. Eisenhower whatever he needs to do his job He has explained his needs convincingly to two Congressional groups — a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a party of representatives belonging to the House Foreign Affairs, Appropriations and Armed Services committees. These men, bringing back the word, have greatly worked upon their colleagues. So have reports of the General's attitude through more public channels, such as his remark that the Republican-isolationists project to spread the foreign and military aid outlays over two years was a plan for "getting half the force at twice the expense".

Taft Against Slash

But the realy remarkable demonstration of the magic of the Eisenhower name was given by none other than Sen Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Although not publicity committed, Sen. Taft had himself been a member of the "make the money last two years" group. He was indeed, expected to be a leader of the economy bloc when the floor fight started.

Taft's political advisors appear, however, to have pointed out to him that if he took this customary course at the present juncture, he would be accused of crippling Gen. Eisenhower's effort Last week, therefore, to the astonishment of almost everyone in the Senate, Sen. Taft came out pubicly against any slashing of foreign military aid. Military aid constitutes the vast bulk of the total appropriation. No huge savings can be accomplished by the cuts Sen. Taft continued to advocate in overseas economic aid. Thus the mere name of Gen. Eisenhower has driven Sen. Taft to change his mind and abandon his usual allies.

There have also been other, less appetizing tributes to the Eisenhower magic in recent weeks. One of the reasons was the remarkable performance of Sen. Taft's busy lieutenant Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, who announced publicly that the General was an "indispensable man" on the other side of the Atlantic, and so tried to spread the word that the hardly robust Eisenhower health was failing sadly and fast. The plain truth is that while Gen. Eisenhower inspires respect and affection among most of members of Congress as among the vast majority of Americans, the mere thought of him reduces the Taft-ites to a jelly of terror.

The reason is simple enough. In Congress and out of Congress, the want of leadership in these last years has produced the sensation hyperbolically expressed by the politician who said bitterly, "I feel as though I was being nibbled to death by mice." Eisenhower is the antidote to that disagreeable sensation.

Truman Appeals To Top Senators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman called an unusual White House conference today in an attempt to get congressional approval for his full $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

Surrounded and supported by some of his top administrative aides, the President told four senior Senate leaders of both parties that any cut in military or economic aid funds will seriously interfere with the struggle against Communism.

The conference was unusual in that the President summoned both Democratic and Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. Unusual, too, was the time consumed. The session lasted an hour and a quarter.

Mr. Truman apparently was not given a hopeful prospect of getting all he wishes.

After the conference, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen he gave careful attention to pleas against major fund cuts but made no commitments. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted there probably would be sizable reductions.

Curbs Assailed In U. N.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France demanded today that the United Nations Security Council call on Egypt to end restrictions on Suez Canal shipping. They contended Egypt is interfering with the rights of other nations.

Egypt assailed the three-power resolution as "a flagrant violation of the purposes of the United Nations." She challenged the right of the sponsors and several other council members to vote since they themselves, as users of the canal, are parties to the dispute.

Disgusted Police Abandon Lassoes And Shoot Steer

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — Jeep riding airport police gave up in disgust today three days of attempts to capture an escaped steer that has been cavorting about Friendship Airport.

They finally abandoned their lassoes and settled on shooting the 500-pound steer and slitting its throat. After the blood letting, the animal was butchered under the supervision of the owner from whom it escaped, Walton D. Wilson, who has a farm near the airport.

Hero To Many Cubans Dies Of Bullet Wound

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 16 (AP) — Sen. Eduardo Chibas, a hero to many Cubans for his vehement attacks on the government, died today a suicide.

In homes throughout the island, people wept and put black crepe on their doors. Official and public functions were cancelled and radio stations suspended popular shows.

Cubans affectionately called him "El Loco" (The Crazy) for the sensational nature of his political antics. Many said today he had become a symbol of, if not a martyr to, good government.

Chibas, a bachelor, would have been 44 years old Aug. 26. He shot himself during a radio broadcast on Aug. 5. He said he wanted to give "one last alarm" to the people of Cuba and to "awaken the public against corrupt government."

100 Indonesian Reds Arrested

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 16 (AP) — Military police today arrested about 100 Communist suspects, including 16 members of parliament. Official sources implied the group was plotting, with help from Red China, to overthrow Indonesia's middle-road government.

Precise charges were not disclosed.

The lawmakers detained make up most of parliament's extreme left wing. Chinese newsmen, merchants and teachers likewise fell into the net. Some top Indonesian labor leaders were seized. Jakarta newspapers said several officials of the Labor Ministry were among them.

The arrests came after a wave of strikes by Red-led unions and a gunfight between security forces and a band of 150 machinegunners wearing hammer and sickle arm bands Aug. 6 at the port city of Tandjong Priok. More arrests followed published reports that Red Chinese were cooperating with Indonesian Communists in an attempt to oust Premier Soekiman's coalition cabinet.

U. N. Patrols Hit Red Positions, Withdraw

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP)—Allied patrols punched sharply into Red positions on the Central and Eastern Korean warfront Thursday, but withdrew under heavy fire.

Red resistance was toughest southwest of Kansong, near the east coast. There the Communists used machine guns, mortars and Russian-type self-propelled guns and 76 millimeter artillery.

Jail May Lose Its Night Warden; He May Be Paroled

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP) — The Anne Arundel County jail is in danger of losing its night warden. He may be paroled.

The "warden" works around the clock, seven days a week for $2 a day. Sheriff Joseph W. Alton doesn't know where he can find a replacement for that salary, stipulated by ancient law.

Blaine Decker, 38, is the perfect prisoner who runs the old jail smack in the heart of Annapolis. At nights he's the guard; during the day, he plans the menus, buys the food and cooks it.

Alton thinks Decker should be released now because "he has become pale and sickly" through working so hard. But Decker says he'll stick by his job until Alton can find another warden.

Civil Defense Training Center In Md. Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Purchase of a school site and 260 acres of land in nearby Maryland for a national civil defense training center was recommended to the Senate today by its Armed Services Committee.

Deputy Civil Defense Administrator J. J. Wadsworth told senators the site would be used for both a staff college and an eastern training center on civil defense.

Wadsworth said about $1,000,000 will be spent for purchase of the site and construction of additional buildings and facilities to train an estimated 3,000 civil defense workers annually.

Cadets' Exodus Is Slowed Down

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP) —The exodus of cadets marked for discharge from the Military Academy for violating the honor code almost halted today as review boards continued to process cases.

Only one boy departed today although 42 had gone in the two previous days.

Ninety originally were accused and tagged for expulsion for violating the honor system by exchanging academic information.

The abrupt slowdown in departures of the cadets involved gave rise to rumors that the scandal had entered a sensational new phase, but these rumors were denied by a West Point spokesman.

A public information officer said two review boards sitting on the cases have been kept busy, and that one is in session tonight.

Truman Appeals To Top Senators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman called an unusual White House conference today in an attempt to get congressional approval for his full $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

Surrounded and supported by some of his top administrative aides, the President told four senior Senate leaders of both parties that any cut in military or economic aid funds will seriously interfere with the struggle against Communism.

The conference was unusual in that the President summoned both Democratic and Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. Unusual, too, was the time consumed. The session lasted an hour and a quarter.

Mr. Truman apparently was not given a hopeful prospect of getting all he wishes.

After the conference, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen he gave careful attention to pleas against major fund cuts but made no commitments. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted there probably would be sizable reductions.

Curbs Assailed In U. N.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France demanded today that the United Nations Security Council call on Egypt to end restrictions on Suez Canal shipping. They contended Egypt is interfering with the rights of other nations.

Egypt assailed the three-power resolution as "a flagrant violation of the purposes of the United Nations." She challenged the right of the sponsors and several other council members to vote since they themselves, as users of the canal, are parties to the dispute.

Disgusted Police Abandon Lassoes And Shoot Steer

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — Jeep riding airport police gave up in disgust today three days of attempts to capture an escaped steer that has been cavorting about Friendship Airport.

They finally abandoned their lassoes and settled on shooting the 500-pound steer and slitting its throat. After the blood letting, the animal was butchered under the supervision of the owner from whom it escaped, Walton D. Wilson, who has a farm near the airport.

Hero To Many Cubans Dies Of Bullet Wound

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 16 (AP) — Sen. Eduardo Chibas, a hero to many Cubans for his vehement attacks on the government, died today a suicide.

In homes throughout the island, people wept and put black crepe on their doors. Official and public functions were cancelled and radio stations suspended popular shows.

Cubans affectionately called him "El Loco" (The Crazy) for the sensational nature of his political antics. Many said today he had become a symbol of, if not a martyr to, good government.

Chibas, a bachelor, would have been 44 years old Aug. 26. He shot himself during a radio broadcast on Aug. 5. He said he wanted to give "one last alarm" to the people of Cuba and to "awaken the public against corrupt government."

100 Indonesian Reds Arrested

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 16 (AP) — Military police today arrested about 100 Communist suspects, including 16 members of parliament. Official sources implied the group was plotting, with help from Red China, to overthrow Indonesia's middle-road government.

Precise charges were not disclosed.

The lawmakers detained make up most of parliament's extreme left wing. Chinese newsmen, merchants and teachers likewise fell into the net. Some top Indonesian labor leaders were seized. Jakarta newspapers said several officials of the Labor Ministry were among them.

The arrests came after a wave of strikes by Red-led unions and a gunfight between security forces and a band of 150 machinegunners wearing hammer and sickle arm bands Aug. 6 at the port city of Tandjong Priok. More arrests followed published reports that Red Chinese were cooperating with Indonesian Communists in an attempt to oust Premier Soekiman's coalition cabinet.

U. N. Patrols Hit Red Positions, Withdraw

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP)—Allied patrols punched sharply into Red positions on the Central and Eastern Korean warfront Thursday, but withdrew under heavy fire.

Red resistance was toughest southwest of Kansong, near the east coast. There the Communists used machine guns, mortars and Russian-type self-propelled guns and 76 millimeter artillery.

Jail May Lose Its Night Warden; He May Be Paroled

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP) — The Anne Arundel County jail is in danger of losing its night warden. He may be paroled.

The "warden" works around the clock, seven days a week for $2 a day. Sheriff Joseph W. Alton doesn't know where he can find a replacement for that salary, stipulated by ancient law.

Blaine Decker, 38, is the perfect prisoner who runs the old jail smack in the heart of Annapolis. At nights he's the guard; during the day, he plans the menus, buys the food and cooks it.

Alton thinks Decker should be released now because "he has become pale and sickly" through working so hard. But Decker says he'll stick by his job until Alton can find another warden.

Entertaining In Hollywood

By IRENE DUNNE

Recently, I entertained in Hollywood for Madame Perle Mesta, America's lady minister to Luxembourg. Many of my friends, remembering I had seconded Governor Earl Warren's presidential nomination at the last Republican convention, were surprised to find me going all out to host a party for a Democrat. But to me, this was not the least unusual. Madame Mesta is an old friend of mine.

IRENE DUNNE

In fact, some of my best friends are Democrats!

I hope this frank admission will not cause a full-scale investigation on the part of my Republican colleagues. To forestall such an inquiry, I'll admit it. At one time, I was a member of the Democratic party. I am not now a member of the Democratic party.

However, with a political background that includes membership in both major parties, I feel qualified to speak on the differences that exist between the Democrats and Republicans.

One thing the average citizen fails to realize is the language barrier between our two parties. Many Democrats are unable to understand a Republican speech in the House and vice versa. Words and phrases that sound alike have entirely different meanings, depending on which side of the political fence the speaker has chosen.

When I entertain Democrats we always carry on the conversation in their native tongue. When they refer to "the good old days," I realize they mean the early days of the depression when it was possible to blame everything on the Republicans. When Republicans drop in and mention "the good old days," I understand we're talking about that period when there was no excess profits tax and income tax was a myth.

In the Republican language, a "rugged individualist" is generally someone who, in the face of all the bureaus and controls, has managed to operate a successful business. In the Democratic grammar, a "rugged individualist" is a bureau head who manages to cut through the red tape by throwing out 14 dead files without going through as many channels.

To the Republicans, a "political machine" is what the Democrats have. But the term has an entirely different meaning for Democrats. To them, a "political machine" is what the Republicans have!

The ability to speak both Democrat and Republican has been extremely valuable to me in my social life. I never hesitate to include members of both parties whenever I entertain. Naturally, I try to exercise considerable political judgment in making introductions and in the seating arrangements. But playing politics in Hollywood is no new game.

Just as the vote-getting power of a Washington senator determines his political Hooper, so is the star judged by his followers at the box-office. The campaigning that goes on at Academy Award time often surpasses the national elections.

And although we recognize Washington as the center of political life, I nevertheless feel that official Washington could learn a lot by studying the ways of Hollywood. Washington needs more glamour!

For instance, take the news releases from our nation's capital. They're too full of facts and figures. If Washington would adopt the Hollywood system, there would be much more interest in politics. Permit me to illustrate my point with a few imaginary news items:

"President Harry Truman, currently featured in the White House, has a collection of 234 bow ties."

"Senator Smith, now appearing in a committee investigation of the shoe lace monopoly, refuses to continue in the role unless he has sole star billing."

"Congressman Jones announced today that his newest inquiry will be the most spectacular investigation ever staged in the nation's capital. Fourteen writers are working on the script and a Broadway expert has been signed to produce the proceedings."

"The Food Administration today blamed the decline in meat sales on the delay in projecting colored film on television."

Senator Kefauver learned the value of personal appearances during his recent nation-wide investigation of organized crime. Hollywood learned early in its history that taking stars on tour pays off.

Unfortunately, Senator Kefauver lacked an advance man. As a result, he missed dozens of guest appearances in each city, ad tie-ups, ground breakings, etc.

The opening of Congress each year receives scant attention across the country. It lacks the showman's touch. Add klieg lights, Bob Hope as master of ceremonies, a long list of guest stars and first thing you know, congressmen and senators will have fan clubs organized from coast to coast.

I am offering these suggestions in the national interest. As I said before, some of my best friends are Democrats.

BACK TO SCHOOL

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There's a psychological reason for getting your daughter into a girdle and bra about the time she reaches fifteen. They will help to make her feel more adult and therefore susceptible to serious training in the ways of womany charm. The correct garments will immediately smooth the appearance of her figure, and make her clothes look slicker, contributing thereby to a sense of well-being that will add to her poise—something of crucial importance in the teens.

Future Dividends

They will also improve her posture by gently reminding her to hold her tummy in and her shoulders level. And equally important, they will refine her figure as it develops helping to prevent many figure problems in the future.

From authorities on such matters comes the following advice on choosing supports for teen girls: Types for teens are so designed as not to bind the figure in any way. The best of these are made in slip-on girdle and pantie styes of lightweight, porous but firm, one and two-way stretch elastics with a fabric pane to flatten the abdomen. For the average teen figure, those garments that are cut high in the leg afford freedom of movement and those that dip in the back give hip control.

Individual problems such as fleshy hips, thighs and waistlines can be solved by teen girdles with extra control features in these areas. For the generally overweight miss, a girdle that is zipped up will give greater satisfaction in every way, but make sure the zipper is placed toward the center to avoid any chafing of the hipbone.

From the brassieres designed for teen wear, the minimum figure should choose the bandeau type. The average figure needs a bra that gives definition and support; and the developed bust needs one with uplift featurs and a wide supporting band.

Teen Underfashions

As with all foundations, the teen should have hers fitted, just as her mother and older sister do. No over-the-counter purchase can achieve the figure rightness that comes from a fitting.

Use the appeal of novety to encourage your teen to wear and take care of her underfashions. With such colors as white, licorice, nude, yellow, blue, and fireman's red from which to choose and with decorations of polka dots, bow knots, and embriodered flowers, it could take little persuasion to get your daughter intrested!

As with all foundations, the teen should have hers fitted, just as her mother and older sister do. No over-the-counter purchase can achieve the figure rightness that comes from a fitting.

Use the appeal of novety to encourage your teen to wear and take care of her underfashions. With such colors as white, licorice, nude, yellow, blue, and fireman's red from which to choose and with decorations of polka dots, bow knots, and embriodered flowers, it could take little persuasion to get your daughter intrested!

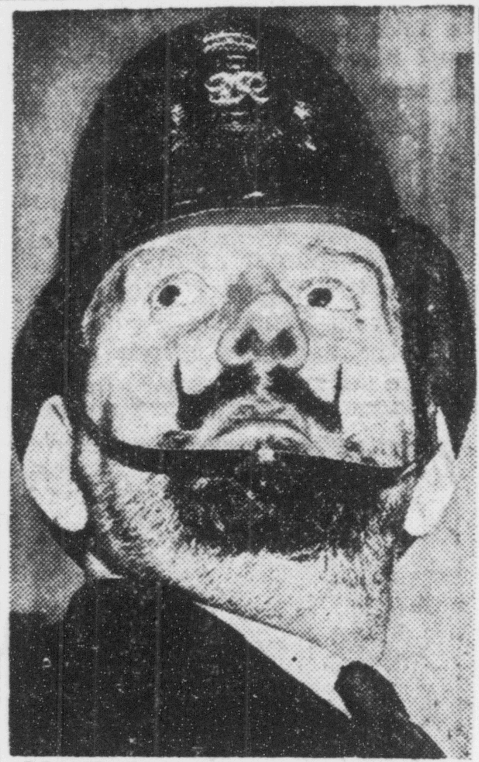
Narrow Escapes

John Wheeler

Every summer down at East-hampton, Long Island, they have a women's soft-ball game, when the girls put on shorts, because they think these make them look good. Some do. On the field, any resemblance to Joe DiMaggio or Ted Williams is purely co-incidental. There's a guy manages one of the teams, named Kip Farrington, who dresses himself up to look like Casey Stengel and tries to think like him, too. The final score is generally something around 31 to 24.

Two or three years ago, Farrington, after a little skull practice, imported a female pitcher from Philadelphia who was supposed to be hot stuff and must have read of the antics of "Bugs" Raymond and "Rube" Waddell, for she got a snoot full before the game started. It turned out she was also a flier and had arrived in her own plane. Along about the fifth inning she had her ears knocked back and was taken out. She immediately lost interest in the contest and consoled herself at the bar.

After the last girl had slid home on her shorts, the ringer cranked up her airplane and flew over the field. My missus and I were standing with Grantland Rice and his wife on an elevated tee when she circled the first time, coming pretty close, and we thought she had gone on her way, until she came around again and pretty nearly knocked our hats off. Next trip, she flew right at us and wasn't fooling. We all hit the ground on our stomachs, and you could almost feel the wheels. I got up spitting out grass and rough language. One little slip, and we might as well have been in a sausage grinder. It was reported later she lost her license as an aviator, and she never deserved one as a pitcher.



CONSTABLE Frederick Crost is photographed while on traffic duty on a London thoroughfare. He is believed to be city's only bearded bobby. (International Exclusive)

Under the heading of narrow escapes was batting against Walter Johnson, the old Washington hurler. He had a fast ball which would knock a steer down if hit in the head, and lots of the boys used to get sick with what Damon Runyon called the German quinsy on days he was scheduled to work. However, because of good control, he never killed any batters.

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce of the National Geographic is one of the distinguished, aging editors of this country. Recently, I took a trip with him in a private airplane, and we got talking about Carl Fisher, the man who developed Miami Beach from a swamp into the winter playground and backdrop for cheesecake photographs.

The good coctor was visiting his friend, Mr. Fisher, in Indianapolis years ago and had lunch with two barnstorming aviators in the days when the machines had no windshields and were very low cut in front. One of them invited the editor to take a flight, and, prodded by his host, he accepted. Naturally, he observed his pilot carefully and was somewhat shocked and anxious when he counted seven highballs he swallowed during the meal. With great trepidation, Dr. La Gorce got into the plane, and Fisher came over to shake his hand before the takeoff. By way of reassurance, he remarked,

"Jack, stop worrying. If you don't come back, I'll take care of your family."

The pilots put on a terrific show, buzzing each other, turning upside down, and playing leap frog.

"It cured me of flying for a long time," concluded my friend as he looked out at the whirling propellers of our steady ship and took a sip of his scotch and soda. "A week later, one pilot was killed and three weeks later the other."

I used to know a screwball around New York who was a professional dancer at night and sold a contrivance I think called a "foot-mobile" in the daytime. It had a litte motor, and the rider stood up on it balancing himself with the handle bars.

We stopped to see him perform one evening, and later decided to go up to Central Park to find out how the machine worked. Someone persuaded me to get on it, which seemed to be a good idea then, and everything went all right until "we" (the vehicle and I like Lindbergh used to say "we") hit a downgrade. I didn't know how to stop it, so decided to dismount as "we" crashed into an iron fence. It tore off a linen suit I was wearing, and the doctors were pasting skin on me for a week. I think it was Winston Churchill who once said,

"Live boldly, dread naught."

I might add a postscript—"Don't deliberately try to knock your brains out."

Jets To Feature Revival Of Air Races At Detroit

DETROIT (INS)—The National Air Races, featuring the nation's speediest jets seeking to eclipse world records, will be renewed in Detroit this Saturday and Sunday after a one-year lapse.

Held in Cleveland in recent years, the races were discontinued in 1949 following the fatal crash of famed flyer Bill Odom.

This year's aero extravaganza will be dominated by the U.S. Air Force which will attempt to smash all previous records in the famous Bendix Transcontinental, and the Allison and Thompson trophy races.

Only one race, the crowd pleasing Continental closed-course contest for "homemade" midget ships, is open to civilian flyers.

A feature of the National Air Races since 1931, the Bendix will be held Saturday. Seven of the Air Force's current best jet fighters and bombers will roar into the skies from the Muroc Air Base in California.

The winning ship is expected to make the 2,000-mile trip in three hours and 15 minutes, arriving at the Detroit-Wayne Major Airport at about 2 p.m. (EST). The standing record, held by Maj. Vernon A. Ford, of three hours, 45 minutes, 51 seconds was established in 1949.

The Allison Jet Trophy race, a comparative newcomer in the 30 year history of the air races, will be a contest between four Republic Thunderjets racing nonstop from Detroit to Indianapolis and back. The run will be made in about 50 minutes.

The Thompson Trophy race, taking place Sunday afternoon over a measured 100 kilometer course, pits the Sabrejet, piloted by 32-year-old Col. Fred Ascani of Rockford, Ill., against time and against the present world record held by Great Britain.

John Douglas Derry established the recordd in 1948 in a De Haviland jet with the then-astonishing speed of 605.230 miles per hour.

Since the record is expected to change hands this year great care has been taken to lay out a course for the Thompson that will be accepted throughout the world.

Perhaps the most spectacular event for the spectators is the civilian's lone opportunity to show his flight prowess — the Continental Motors Trophy race.

The last race of the air show, the Continental is over a 2½ mile long octagonal course marked by pylons on the turns. The midget planes speed 15 laps around the course in front of the grand stands for a purse of $25,000.

The colorful race attracts some of the nation's finest pilots and plane builders and last year's heat record of 188 miles per hour is expected to fall.

In addition to the races, the more than 200,000 persons expected to be in attendance will be treated to the most varied and complete array of military air power ever before displayed in the history of the world.

Truck Overloading Campaign Is Urged

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — The Maryland Motor Truck Association wants the state to wage a 24-hour-a-day campaign against overloaded trucks with the aim of "eliminating completely" such law violations.

A resolution calling for the campaign was presented to the State Roads Commission by J. Marshall Stewart, Joseph Davidson and Robert W. Furtick.

The resolution said "the very few operators who have continued to overload are reflecting unfavorably on the good name and reputation of the motor carrier industry as a whole."

The line of greatest frequency of the aurora borealis, or "northern lights," runs through northern Norway, across central Hudson Bay, around to Point Barrow, Alaska, and through northern Siberia. One may see as many as 243 auroras in a year along this line, says the National Geographic Society.

Accused Rapist Sent To Mental Hospital

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—A Virginia farmhand accused of raping two baby nieces was committed to Spring Grove State Hospital yesterday.

Williard Lee Gray, 37, was found innocent of the charges by reason of insanity at the time his two-and-three-year-old nieces were raped in their home at Pasadena in 1949.

After hearing testimony of two state psychiatrists and studying reports of two mental hospital superintendents, Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson found Gray now is legally sane, But he held the sharp-featured 145-pound man is "mentally defective."

The Thompson Trophy race, taking place Sunday afternoon over a measured 100 kilometer course, pits the Sabrejet, piloted by 32-year-old Col. Fred Ascani of Rockford, Ill., against time and against the present world record held by Great Britain.

John Douglas Derry established the recordd in 1948 in a De Haviland jet with the then-astonishing speed of 605.230 miles per hour.

Since the record is expected to change hands this year great care has been taken to lay out a course for the Thompson that will be accepted throughout the world.

Perhaps the most spectacular event for the spectators is the civilian's lone opportunity to show his flight prowess — the Continental Motors Trophy race.

The last race of the air show, the Continental is over a 2½ mile long octagonal course marked by pylons on the turns. The midget planes speed 15 laps around the course in front of the grand stands for a purse of $25,000.

The colorful race attracts some of the nation's finest pilots and plane builders and last year's heat record of 188 miles per hour is expected to fall.

In addition to the races, the more than 200,000 persons expected to be in attendance will be treated to the most varied and complete array of military air power ever before displayed in the history of the world.

Truck Overloading Campaign Is Urged

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — The Maryland Motor Truck Association wants the state to wage a 24-hour-a-day campaign against overloaded trucks with the aim of "eliminating completely" such law violations.

A resolution calling for the campaign was presented to the State Roads Commission by J. Marshall Stewart, Joseph Davidson and Robert W. Furtick.

The resolution said "the very few operators who have continued to overload are reflecting unfavorably on the good name and reputation of the motor carrier industry as a whole."

The line of greatest frequency of the aurora borealis, or "northern lights," runs through northern Norway, across central Hudson Bay, around to Point Barrow, Alaska, and through northern Siberia. One may see as many as 243 auroras in a year along this line, says the National Geographic Society.

Accused Rapist Sent To Mental Hospital

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—A Virginia farmhand accused of raping two baby nieces was committed to Spring Grove State Hospital yesterday.

Williard Lee Gray, 37, was found innocent of the charges by reason of insanity at the time his two-and-three-year-old nieces were raped in their home at Pasadena in 1949.

After hearing testimony of two state psychiatrists and studying reports of two mental hospital superintendents, Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson found Gray now is legally sane, But he held the sharp-featured 145-pound man is "mentally defective."

Royal CUSTARD FLAVOR DESSERT MIX — COOKS IN 7 MINUTES — CONTAINS NO EGGS • JUST ADD MILK

CAN'T FAIL!

Appetizing Vegetable Dinner

Make the most of the fresh vegetables now flooding the produce markets by serving a vegetable plate for dinner. As a suggestion, feature tomatoes baked with a meatless stuffing of rice cereal and canned broiled mushrooms. Add green beans and carrots for flavor and color interest.

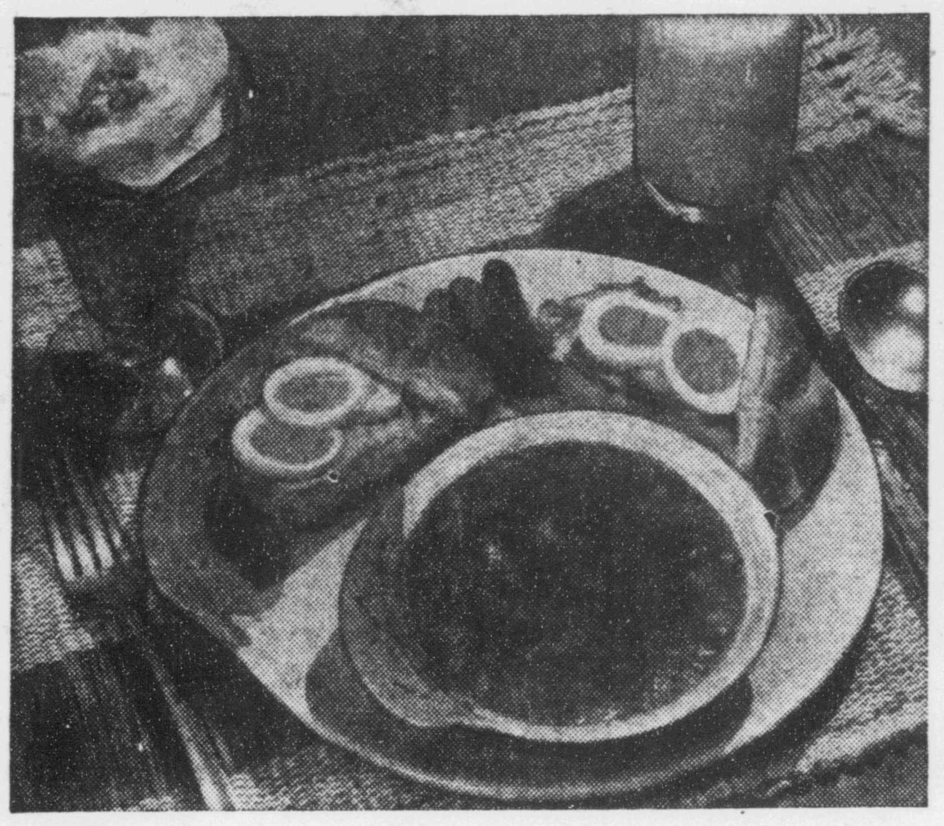
Rice Stuffed Tomatoes

Six large red tomatoes; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons minced onion; 3 oz. can broiled mushrooms; ⅔ cup water; 1 bouillon cube; ¼ cup granulated rice cereal; ½ cup soft grated cheese; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; ⅛ teaspoon oregano.

Cut slice from the top of each tomato. Scoop out the pulp and reserve. Melt butter in saucepan and add the onion. Cook over moderate heat for 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Add tomato pulp, broth from can of mushrooms, water and bouillon cube. Bring to boil. Sprinkle in rice cereal and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Lower heat and let simmer for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in cheese and seasonings. Reserving 6 of the mushrooms for garnish, coarsely chop the rest and add to the rice mixture. Pile the filling into the tomatoes. Place a mushroom on top of each tomato. Place tomatoes in shallow greased baking dish or muffin pan and bake in moderately hot oven, 375° F, until tomatoes are done, about 20 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Kitchen-Cool Meals



HOW about this for lunch today? A big bowl of vegetable-beef soup, egg and lettuce sandwich, and a banana nut sundae. It's a treat on a summer day.

Pork And Bean Tip

You'll find that pork and beans in tomato sauce are available in cans of two sizes. Here's the way to figure servings. The 1-pound can contains 1¾ cups of pork and beans, enough for 2 or 3 servings. The 1-pound-7-ounce can has 2½ cups, enough for 3 to 5 servings.

Spaghetti 'N Onions

Prepared spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese— mixer with plenty of browned onion and green peper rings — is a supper to shout about. Cut rings about ¼-inch thick; brown in a little hot shortening in a skillet. Mix with the heated spaghetti.

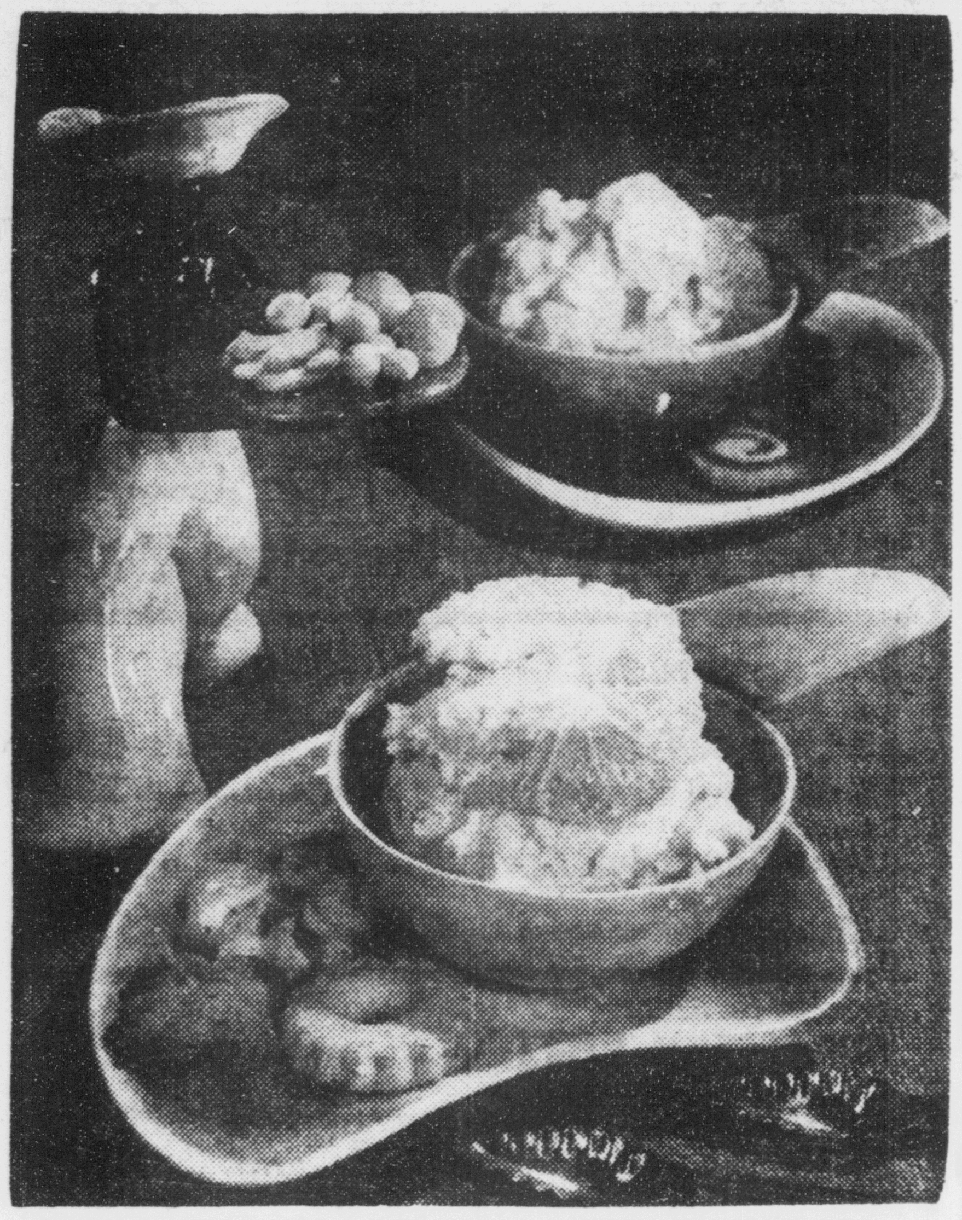
Bridge Prize



You'll get first prize as the favorite hostess when you serve this Tropical Freeze. The flavor is so intriging that all your friends will clamor for the recipe—the texture is so light and rich that they will be sure it took hours to make. Actually, you can make this exciting ice cream within a few minutes. Make it the day before and it will be ready to serve—no second beating or extra work. An unusual dessert dish will further enhance Tropical Freeze so don't be afraid to use a different type of dish—the one illustrated is really a cup and saucer.

Tropical Freeze

⅜ cup fresh orange juice
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup pineapple juice
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream

Combine fruit juices, peel and juices. Whip cream until stiff; fold juice mixture into whipped cream. Pour into freezer tray and freeze, stirring it once when half frozen. Makes approximately six servings.

Ambrosia Jiffy Frosting

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup coconut
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¼ cup finely chopped orange pulp

Melt butter; add brown sugar, coconut and orange peel. Blend in finely chopped orange (made by peeling a California orange and then chopping it into small pieces). Spread the mixture over cakes that have already been baked, place under broiler as far from heat as possible. Broil a few seconds or until topping bubbles and coconut starts to brown.

Summertime Salad With Special Dressing

Summertime Crab Meat Salad

1 cup tomato juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
dash cayenne
1 cup mayonnaise
1 6½-oz. can crab meat
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
Salad greens

Add tomato juice, Worcestershire sauce and cayenne to mayonnaise. Beat until smooth with rotary beater. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Combine crab meat, celery and olives. Add dressing just before serving; mix and serve on salad greens. Six servings.

Ambrosia Jiffy Cakes

1⅓ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
¼ cup shortening
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup fresh orange juice

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spices. Cream shortening with orange peel, adding sugar gradually, and creaming until fluffy. Add egg and beat until well blended. Combine milk and orange juice. Add flour mixture alternately with liquid, beginning and ending with flour. Put paper muffin cups into muffin pans and fill each cup ⅔ full. Makes 13 or 14 medium-sized cup cakes. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for about 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Top with Ambrosia Jiffy Frosting.

Use Variety Cool Drinks

Variety in the summer drinks you serve marks you as a good hostess. And to be able to offer your guests a choice of long coolers is a gesture in the grand manner. It's simpler than it sounds if you have a supply of ingredients chilling in the refrigerator ready for instant use.

GINGER TEA

1 teaspoon tea
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
ginger ale

Steep tea in boiling water five minutes. Strain in tall glasses over ice cubes, add lemon juice and chilled ginger ale.

FRUIT BLEND

½ cup grapefruit juice
½ cup orange juice
½ cup loganberry juice
½ cup pineapple juice
1 bottle ginger ale

Combine and chill ingredients, adding ginger ale just before serving. Serves 4.

COFFEE SPARKLE

½ cup strong, cold coffee
2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
2 tablespoons cream
Sparkling water

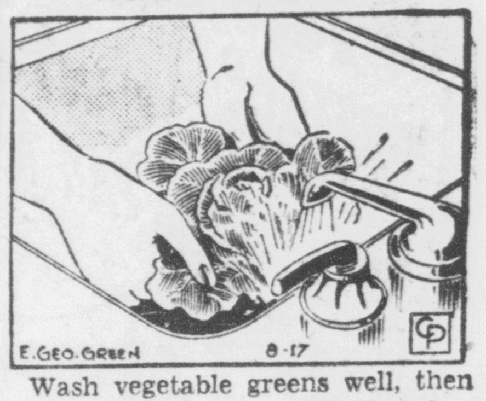
GINGER PINEAPPLE SODA

½ cup crushed pineapple
few drops almond flavoring
1 pint vanilla ice cream
ginger ale

Combine crushed pineapple and flavoring. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Add a scoop of ice cream to each glass. Fill glasses with ice cold ginger ale. Stir gently to mix.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Wash vegetable greens well, then drain thoroughly before using. Water left on them will dilute the dressing.

EASY SUMMER ENTERTAINING — Three suggestions for easy summer entertaining are, as shown, a platter of cold cuts, jumbo tomatoes stuffed with ham salad and a quick meat sauce to serve with spaghetti. Use a variety of cold cuts on the platter and a pretty garnish, such as these perky spiced crab apples. Coarsely chopped ripe olives added to the spaghetti meat sauce give it interesting flavor and texture.

Quick Meat Dishes For Summer Parties

More time to be friendly is what the homemaker of today enjoys. With party dishes so easy to prepare, she can entertain whenever the mood strikes her.

Hostesses who like to save time keep a mile of quick-to-fix party dishes, with footnotes on appropriate menus to go with them. Three good ideas for such a file, especially for summer entertaining, are ham salad in tomato shells, spaghetti with a deluxe meat sauce and a handsome platter of cold cuts. They're easy to prepare, economical and favorites with every one.

HAM SALAD IN TOMATO FLOWERS

2 cups diced ham
1 cup finely diced celery
French dressing
2 teaspoons sweet pickle relish
2 hard cooked eggs
Mayonnaise
Salt and pepper
4 large ripe tomatoes

Combine ham and celery and over them pour enough French dressing to moisten. Let stand in refrigerator ½ hour; stir occasionally. Add relish, coarsely chopped eggs and enough mayonnaise to moisten slightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Peel tomatoes and cut almost through into 6 sections so that they open like flowers. Pile ham salad into center of each tomato and serve with garnish of parsley or watercress. Smart menu—Accompany with frozen French fries, green peas, hot corn meal muffins. Serve orange ice for dessert topped with chocolate sauce.

COLD CUTS PLATTER SOPHISTICATE

Make a pretty platter of cold cuts by arranging a row of summer sausage and a row of luncheon meat (or spiced ham) and cheese in alternating slices. Flank these with a row of well drained spiced crab apples. Add to this cold cuts assortment, if you like, using bologna, soft salami and liver sausage.

Pretty menu—With the cold cuts, serve chilled potato salad or macaroni salad, a jellied fruit mold, hot "brown and serve" rolls and lemon or chocolate chiffon pie (Macaroni Salad is made by following a potato salad recipe. Allow sufficient time for either salad to stand in the refrigerator before serving so that the flavors will blend thoroughly.) Chopped ripe olives used in this meat sauce add flavor and interesting texture.

DELUXE SPAGHETTI MEAT SAUCE

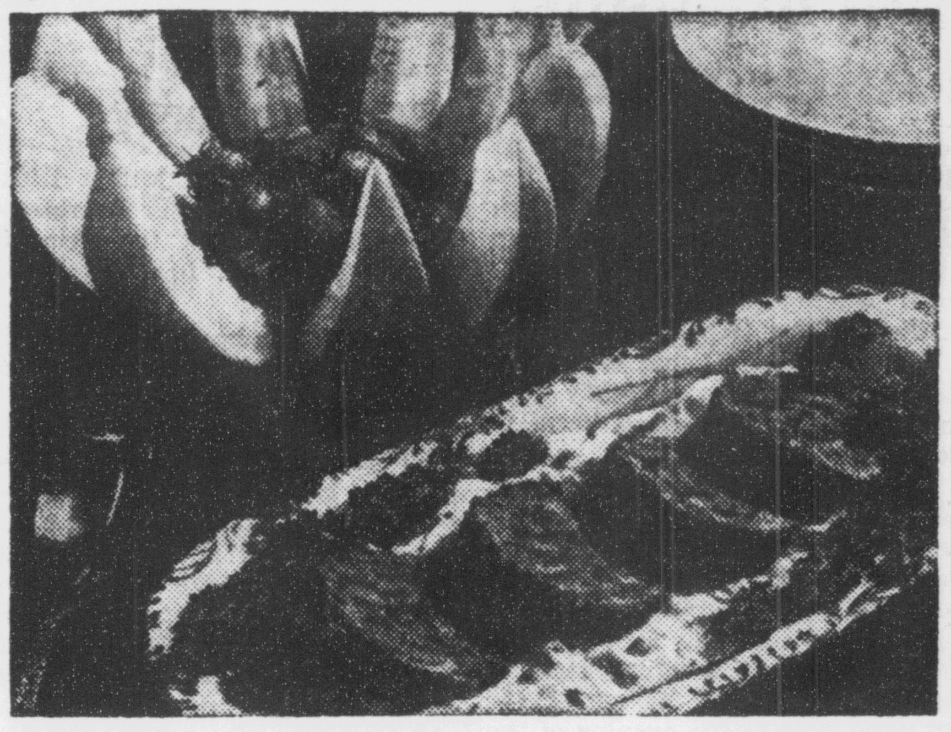
1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons fat
1 medium onion
1 clove garlic
1 large can tomatoes (3½ cups)
1 can tomato paste
Salt, pepper, sugar
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ to 1 cup sliced ripe olives

In a heavy deep pan heat fat and in it cook chopped onions until a light brown. Push to one side, add beef and sear thoroughly. Add minced garlic, tomatoes, tomato paste, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon sugar. Cook, covered, over low heat for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add chili powder and Worcestershire sauce and cook another 15 minutes. Add olives and a little water if sauce has become too thick. Add extra salt, if necessary, and serve over hot cooked spaghetti.

Add Flavor With Bacon Drippings

You don't know what you're missing if you haven't made a habit of using flavor-rich bacon drippings in your cooking. They're easy to store in a covered container in your refrigerator and add tastiness to any number of dishes. Green beans flavored with bacon drippings long have been a traditional part of southern hospitality. Bacon drippings are excellent for frying many foods such as sliced cooked potatoes, sliced fresh tomatoes, sliced onion, apple rings, chicken, eggs, French toast, fish and bananas. Sacllopeded potatoes and Spanish rice are other dishes which are improved flavorwise with bacon drippings.

Special For Summer Brunch



Summer days are lazy days and just the time for brunch. How nice it is to get up late enough to serve breakfast and lunch at the same time and have time to prepare the specials that make brunch a treat.

Make a deluxe beginning with honeydew melon, cut flower-shaped and filled with juicy red strawberries, or other berries in season. Follow the first course with another special,—Tangy Corned Beef Hash in Olive Sauce. It's easily and quickly prepared with canned corned beef hash and condensed cream of mushroom soup. Complete the menu with your favorite hot bread or toast, jelly and coffee.

Tangy Corned Beef Hash In Olive Sauce

2 tablespoons butter, or margarine
1teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
1 1-1lb. can corned beef hash
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives

Melt butter in skillet; add Worcestershire sauce and sliced corned beef hash. Brown slices on each side and remove to serving platter. Heat soup and olives together in the skillet. Serve on platter around corned beef hash. Four servings.

1 can tomato paste
Salt, pepper, sugar
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ to 1 cup sliced ripe olives

In a heavy deep pan heat fat and in it cook chopped onions until a light brown. Push to one side, add beef and sear thoroughly. Add minced garlic, tomatoes, tomato paste, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon sugar. Cook, covered, over low heat for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add chili powder and Worcestershire sauce and cook another 15 minutes. Add olives and a little water if sauce has become too thick. Add extra salt, if necessary, and serve over hot cooked spaghetti.

Add Flavor With Bacon Drippings

You don't know what you're missing if you haven't made a habit of using flavor-rich bacon drippings in your cooking. They're easy to store in a covered container in your refrigerator and add tastiness to any number of dishes. Green beans flavored with bacon drippings long have been a traditional part of southern hospitality. Bacon drippings are excellent for frying many foods such as sliced cooked potatoes, sliced fresh tomatoes, sliced onion, apple rings, chicken, eggs, French toast, fish and bananas. Saclloped potatoes and Spanish rice are other dishes which are improved flavorwise with bacon drippings.

The schedule for judging livestock at the Cumberland Fair next week has been announced by R. F. McHenry, county farm agent.

Four experts in this field have been obtained to classify the large number of entries this year.

They include Dr. Joseph Pou, the newly appointed head of the Dairy Department at the University of Maryland; Fred Downey, of Williamsport, Md.; M. E. Gannon, of the livestock department at the University of Maryland, and Charles E. Shaw, of Hagerstown.

Tuesday at 9 a. m. Downey will judge Guernsey dairy cattle; Shaw, Jersey dairy cattle, and Gannon, Shropshire sheep.

At 1 p. m., Dr. Pou will judge Ayshire and Holstein dairy cattle and Gannon will merit the Aberdeen Angus beef cattle.

Wednesday, at 9 a. m. Dr. Pou will start judging the 4-H exhibits while Gannon will judge the Future Farmers of America hog exhibit.

All day Thursday the Future Farmers of America boys of Allegany and Garrett counties will have a judging and training program.

McHenry reported the last entries in the dairy cattle section are 15 head of Holsteins by A. Doty Remsburg, of Jefferson, Md.

A total of $2,040 in premiums will be awarded to beef cattle exhibitors at the fair.

There will be $680 in prizes in each of the three major breeds, Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn.

Ribbons will be awarded to the champion and reserve champion bull of each breed as well as to the champion and reserve champion female.

First prize money to the beef cattle owners will total $765. Second prize premiums will aggregate $612. The total prize money for third place winners will total $408. The fourth place total will be $255.

15,500 Enrollment In County High Schools Is Anticipated

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, said yesterday that all county high schools will be crowded when the new term starts Thursday, September 6.

Enrollment is expected to be approximately 15,500 students, Kopp said.

In the elementary schools the plan to have rooms standardized at 30 pupils each starting this year will have to be held off until the current school building program is completed.

The new school in Mt. Savage will not be ready until at least February, according to Kopp. Beall High School in Frostburg will handle students from the Mt. Savage area.

In Cumberland both Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools will be crowded, Kopp said. Fort Hill enrollment will be much larger than last year. Four classes will again have to be conducted at Pennsylvania Avenue School to take care of the overflow from Fort Hill.

The new school being erected in Lonaconing will not be ready until the opening of the school term in September, 1952.

Kopp said that all children must be vaccinated and beginners must be six years of age on or before January 1, 1952 in order to be enrolled in the first grade.

Kopp said that only a few vacancies exist in the teaching staff of county schools and he expects to fill these prior to the opening of the new term.

Local 1874 Seeks Wage Hike Approval

Papers were filed with the Wage Stabilization Board in Washington, yesterday by Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, in which approval is asked for the granting of the six cents of the 10 cents increase won in a new contract with the Celanese.

The six cents represents the amount above the percentage in a wage hike allowed in the WSB formula. The union seeks approval of the governmental agency in having the wage increase placed into effect.

Dick Will Rule On Truck Weight Cases Here Today

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick will rule today on four overloading charges involving the Cement Products Company, Inc., 405 Henderson Avenue.

Testimony was heard Tuesday but a decision was withheld. Charged are four truckers of the firm:

Va., overweight of 2,500 pounds on registration.

All four were arrested July 16 but hearings were postponed twice.

Defense Attorney Clarence Lippel pointed out the trucks were hauling cement to the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto for emergency war work at the time of the alleged violations.

Attack On Flies Told By Bissell

Entomologist Gives Extermination Methods

If you've been fighting a losing war with flies this summer, maybe you'd better change your plan of attack and add a few new weapons. T. L. Bissell, Extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, suggests getting behind your enemy's lines, and destroying his food supply, through sanitation. After the clean-up, bombard flies with one of the new effective chemical sprays.

This way you get the flies going and coming, Bissell says. When straw and manure piles are cleared away, rubbish and garbage removed, the pesky insect is left without his favorite eating and breeding grounds. DDT is still the best all-around spray, Bissell says, but there are other sprays that will do some jobs better.

There are two publications available at your County Agent's office which will outline the best way to get rid of flies, and the recommended sprays for each job. One is Fly Control, Extension Bulletin 136. The other is Control of Biting Flies on Horses and Cattle, a Department of Entomology mimeo.

AT THE LOS ANGELES Hall of Records, movie producer-writer Preston Sturges, 52, and his leading lady, Sandy Mellen, 21, pose for the news cameramen after they had obtained a marriage license. Sturges revealed they have been going together for a year. (International)

Wiley Ford Pastor To Become Elder

Rev. Vernon R. Beckman, pastor of the Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren, will be ordained to the eldership Monday at 8 p. m. at the Church.

Elder Joseph Whitacre and M. L. Riggleman, members of the district ministerial board, will be in charge of the service.

Rev. Beckman, who attended Bethany Bible School in Chicago and Elizabethtown (Pa.) College, was licensed in the minstry on September 8, 1946 at the age of 18. He delivered his first sermon at Eglon, W. Va., a month later and in September 12, 1948 was ordained into the ministry after returning to Bethany Bible School.

Rev. Beckman became pastor at Wiley Ford in September, 1949 and is the youngest Church of the Brethren pastor in the district and one of the youngest in the entire church.

The U. S. government has never issued any gold certificates below $10 denominations.

Sen. O'Conor's Stand Greeted Favorably

Edward Hardcastle, local district manager for the National Federation of Independent Business, has written to Senator Herbert R. O'Conor concerning the latter's opposition to additional federal judgeships in Maryland and his suggestion that the Federal Courts here and in Denton be closed.

Hardcastle wrote: "Your stand, as a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, will be greeted with satisfaction by many businessmen in the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland. Any senator who, after studying a situation, recommends reduction in government expense and also, as you do, less government in business should be thanked by his constituents.

"This letter is purely a personal one, but from hundreds of contracts with businessmen, I know many would like to join with me in thanking you for your consideration of the reduction of the cost of government."

Wasted Timber

ROSEBERG, Ore.—(INS)—About 60 per cent of the timber felled in Oregon is wasted according to a Department of Interior report prepared by Oregon State College. This finding was made by Prof. Chester O. Broders of OSC after a two-months survey in the Southern Oregon area around Roseberg.

Ballistic Workers Plan Annual Picnic

The Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will hold its annual picnic for employes, their families and guests tomorrow in Chalybeate Park, near Bedford, Pa.

Sponsored by the Recreation Club, the outing will get underway at noon. Games for children and adults will begin at 1:30 p.m. A softball game between the lab team and the C. and P. Telephone Company delegation at 3:30 p.m. will highlight the program.

Members of the C. and P. team will be guests. More than 500 persons are expected to attend.

John Drummond, president of the Recreation Club and general chairman of the picnic committee, said transportation will be furnished for employes. A bus will leave the Baltimore Avenue entrance of Central YMCA at 11 a.m.

Attack On Flies Told By Bissell

Entomologist Gives Extermination Methods

If you've been fighting a losing war with flies this summer, maybe you'd better change your plan of attack and add a few new weapons. T. L. Bissell, Extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, suggests getting behind your enemy's lines, and destroying his food supply, through sanitation. After the clean-up, bombard flies with one of the new effective chemical sprays.

This way you get the flies going and coming, Bissell says. When straw and manure piles are cleared away, rubbish and garbage removed, the pesky insect is left without his favorite eating and breeding grounds. DDT is still the best all-around spray, Bissell says, but there are other sprays that will do some jobs better.

There are two publications available at your County Agent's office which will outline the best way to get rid of flies, and the recommended sprays for each job. One is Fly Control, Extension Bulletin 136. The other is Control of Biting Flies on Horses and Cattle, a Department of Entomology mimeo.

AT THE LOS ANGELES Hall of Records, movie producer-writer Preston Sturges, 52, and his leading lady, Sandy Mellen, 21, pose for the news cameramen after they had obtained a marriage license. Sturges revealed they have been going together for a year. (International)

Wiley Ford Pastor To Become Elder

Rev. Vernon R. Beckman, pastor of the Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren, will be ordained to the eldership Monday at 8 p. m. at the Church.

Elder Joseph Whitacre and M. L. Riggleman, members of the district ministerial board, will be in charge of the service.

Rev. Beckman, who attended Bethany Bible School in Chicago and Elizabethtown (Pa.) College, was licensed in the minstry on September 8, 1946 at the age of 18. He delivered his first sermon at Eglon, W. Va., a month later and in September 12, 1948 was ordained into the ministry after returning to Bethany Bible School.

Rev. Beckman became pastor at Wiley Ford in September, 1949 and is the youngest Church of the Brethren pastor in the district and one of the youngest in the entire church.

The U. S. government has never issued any gold certificates below $10 denominations.

Sen. O'Conor's Stand Greeted Favorably

Edward Hardcastle, local district manager for the National Federation of Independent Business, has written to Senator Herbert R. O'Conor concerning the latter's opposition to additional federal judgeships in Maryland and his suggestion that the Federal Courts here and in Denton be closed.

Hardcastle wrote: "Your stand, as a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, will be greeted with satisfaction by many businessmen in the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland. Any senator who, after studying a situation, recommends reduction in government expense and also, as you do, less government in business should be thanked by his constituents.

"This letter is purely a personal one, but from hundreds of contracts with businessmen, I know many would like to join with me in thanking you for your consideration of the reduction of the cost of government."

Wasted Timber

ROSEBERG, Ore.—(INS)—About 60 per cent of the timber felled in Oregon is wasted according to a Department of Interior report prepared by Oregon State College. This finding was made by Prof. Chester O. Broders of OSC after a two-months survey in the Southern Oregon area around Roseberg.

Ballistic Workers Plan Annual Picnic

The Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will hold its annual picnic for employes, their families and guests tomorrow in Chalybeate Park, near Bedford, Pa.

Sponsored by the Recreation Club, the outing will get underway at noon. Games for children and adults will begin at 1:30 p.m. A softball game between the lab team and the C. and P. Telephone Company delegation at 3:30 p.m. will highlight the program.

Members of the C. and P. team will be guests. More than 500 persons are expected to attend.

John Drummond, president of the Recreation Club and general chairman of the picnic committee, said transportation will be furnished for employes. A bus will leave the Baltimore Avenue entrance of Central YMCA at 11 a.m.

North Carolina Opens New Type Health Program

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — (AP) — Something new in medicine, a coordinated state-wide health program, is nearing completion with headquarters at the University of North Carolina.

The university headquarters will be a division of health education. It comprises acres of new buildings, a new four-year medical school, new dental school, new school of nursing and enlarged schools of public health, and pharmacy. Also a new university hospital.

The four-year medical school is one of four under development in the United States since the end of World War Two. It is an extension of the University's two year medical school which was started in 1879. The students went elsewhere for their final training.

The new medical school started in temporary quarters this year, with 58 students, selected from more than 400 applicants. The 400 qualified in scholastic achievements but there was not room for them. Scores of others wrote about entering, but did not try to qualify. The new school hopes later to raise its yearly quota of freshmen to 70 or 75 which is the average for the nation's medical schools. Most of the applicants this year came from the South.

The new dental school is number 40 in the nation. It had the same rush of applicants as the medical school, around 400. Thirty-nine were admitted, one a women. The dental school is housed temporarily in quonset huts.

The nursing school will admit its first class of 50 this fall.

The school of public health was organized in 1936 to train health personnel.

The school of pharmacy was organized in 1880, and is one of 75 in the nation.

The State of North Carolina supports the health program and a new organization, the Medical Foundation of North Carolina, is assisting.

Non-skid chains for automobiles were invented by Charles Algernon Parsons, English inventor and shipbuilder.

18th Century Venetian Palace Being Restored

VENICE—(AP)—Venetians are preparing for Europe's most fabulous party since the war.

It will be the housewarming on Sept. 3 for the 18th Century Labia Palace, now being restored to its ancient spendor.

Three thousand socially elite guests have been invited to dress in expensive 18th Century costumes and dance, watch entertainment and dine on rare delicacies through the night.

Almost all of the guests will be descendants of 18th Century nobility. They will include the Aga Khan, members of the French Royal Houses of Bourbon and De Guise, surviving members of the Hapsburg and Hohenzollern families, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, among many others prominent in international society.

The host is the tremendously wealthy Spanish-born Don Carlos de Bestegui of Paris, who has summered in Venice for 25 years.

Bestegui bought the Labia Palace two years ago for $500,000. He is said to be spending $6,250,000 restoring the dazzling 18th Century splendor of the place.

Carpenters, architects and decorators have been swarming over the ancient building. Barges are carrying bales of expensive fabrics through the canals to the palace.

Eviction notices have been served on a few poor families who had been living in the palace basement and top floor since they lost their own homes in the war.

But the host has plans for the poor, too. While the chic international set dance inside the palace, Bestegui will give a fiesta for the population of Venice on the grounds of the estate. Wine and cake, in the 18th Century style, will be served to the crowd and there will be fireworks and music.

Bestegui, who once lived in Mexico, has a reputation as colorful as the party he is planning. Recently he bought an $80,000 motor boat, which he keeps moored on the Canareggio that runs by his palace. He maintains a shiny black personal gondola with two personal gondoliers. He is always accompanied by his own French waiter, a cook and a butler.

There are no available estimates on the size of Bestegui's fortune. He has interests in many countries, including heavy investments in airlines. His party guests are to receive special discounts on their airline tickets, he has announced.

The word "housewife" has been in the English language since early times. It appears in literature of 1225 in the form of "husewif."

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — (AP) — Something new in medicine, a coordinated state-wide health program, is nearing completion with headquarters at the University of North Carolina.

The university headquarters will be a division of health education. It comprises acres of new buildings, a new four-year medical school, new dental school, new school of nursing and enlarged schools of public health, and pharmacy. Also a new university hospital.

The four-year medical school is one of four under development in the United States since the end of World War Two. It is an extension of the University's two year medical school which was started in 1879. The students went elsewhere for their final training.

The new medical school started in temporary quarters this year, with 58 students, selected from more than 400 applicants. The 400 qualified in scholastic achievements but there was not room for them. Scores of others wrote about entering, but did not try to qualify. The new school hopes later to raise its yearly quota of freshmen to 70 or 75 which is the average for the nation's medical schools. Most of the applicants this year came from the South.

The new dental school is number 40 in the nation. It had the same rush of applicants as the medical school, around 400. Thirty-nine were admitted, one a women. The dental school is housed temporarily in quonset huts.

The nursing school will admit its first class of 50 this fall.

The school of public health was organized in 1936 to train health personnel.

The school of pharmacy was organized in 1880, and is one of 75 in the nation.

The State of North Carolina supports the health program and a new organization, the Medical Foundation of North Carolina, is assisting.

Non-skid chains for automobiles were invented by Charles Algernon Parsons, English inventor and shipbuilder.

18th Century Venetian Palace Being Restored

VENICE—(AP)—Venetians are preparing for Europe's most fabulous party since the war.

It will be the housewarming on Sept. 3 for the 18th Century Labia Palace, now being restored to its ancient spendor.

Three thousand socially elite guests have been invited to dress in expensive 18th Century costumes and dance, watch entertainment and dine on rare delicacies through the night.

Almost all of the guests will be descendants of 18th Century nobility. They will include the Aga Khan, members of the French Royal Houses of Bourbon and De Guise, surviving members of the Hapsburg and Hohenzollern families, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, among many others prominent in international society.

The host is the tremendously wealthy Spanish-born Don Carlos de Bestegui of Paris, who has summered in Venice for 25 years.

Bestegui bought the Labia Palace two years ago for $500,000. He is said to be spending $6,250,000 restoring the dazzling 18th Century splendor of the place.

Carpenters, architects and decorators have been swarming over the ancient building. Barges are carrying bales of expensive fabrics through the canals to the palace.

Eviction notices have been served on a few poor families who had been living in the palace basement and top floor since they lost their own homes in the war.

But the host has plans for the poor, too. While the chic international set dance inside the palace, Bestegui will give a fiesta for the population of Venice on the grounds of the estate. Wine and cake, in the 18th Century style, will be served to the crowd and there will be fireworks and music.

Bestegui, who once lived in Mexico, has a reputation as colorful as the party he is planning. Recently he bought an $80,000 motor boat, which he keeps moored on the Canareggio that runs by his palace. He maintains a shiny black personal gondola with two personal gondoliers. He is always accompanied by his own French waiter, a cook and a butler.

There are no available estimates on the size of Bestegui's fortune. He has interests in many countries, including heavy investments in airlines. His party guests are to receive special discounts on their airline tickets, he has announced.

The word "housewife" has been in the English language since early times. It appears in literature of 1225 in the form of "husewif."

Princess Anne Mighty Confined On First Birthday

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON—(AP)—At the age of one year, Princess Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise is a sociable little girl completely surrounded by a play pen.

She is the daughter of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, and that makes her third in succession to the British throne.

But the little Princess doesn't know that. Of far more concern than what the future may hold for her is the matter of another tooth which may be at the point of making an appearance. At any rate, there is an itching. A survey on the eve of her birthday established a total of six teeth which look nice when the Princess smiles.

Other data: Blue eyes. Soft and curly hair. Happy disposition. Good health.

It seems likely that she'll grow up to be a blonde.

At the age of one the youngest Princess is somewhat wobbly. She pulls herself up by the slats of the play pen, but it's an uncertain business and she comes down with frequent thuds. She is at the beginning of what Princess Elizabeth calls the crawling stage, and by the looks of things she will be a nimble crawler soon. She is also at the button-opening stage, her nannies often discovering that the Princess has undone herself.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are doing what little they can to shield their children from the excitements of the razzle-dazzle of royal life. They insist that the Princess and her two and three-quarters year old brother, Prince Charles, who is No. 2 in succession parade, should live as normal infants. So the curiosity of the crowds is discouraged. But for the birthday Princess Elizabeth has permitted the revelation of some nursery secrets.

So it is disclosed that Princess Anne gurgles — almost intelligibly. She manages to say "mama" and "papa," which are the terms used in the Windsor households. She says "Cha," and that means "Charles."

The Princess' favorite color is white, but she didn't have anything to do with its choice. It happens that, mostly, she wears clothing Prince Charles has discarded, and when he was just a youngster he wore white.

Anne's favorite toy is a duck that squawks, and next in the Princess' heart is a teddy bear named Brumas. It is the name of a famous young bear born in the London Zoo.

The children share a nursery where the bosses are two nannies who are Scotswomen, Helen Lightbody and Mabel Anderson. And Charles, who now scampers about almost as fast as the Scotswomen can follow, is proud of Anne, drags in visitors and commands them to admire her.

A birthday party? Princess Elizabeth thinks her children are too young to care for one.

And it's a home without pet names. The children are Anne and Charles. That's what they'll be called, insists Elizabeth, who in her own childhood chose a lilting nickname for herself—"Lilibet." It has stuck.

Recon Boys Get More Protection

FORT BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Uncle Sam is giving more and more protection to his "seeing eye" boys, the fellows who fly the reconnaissance planes for aerial photographs behind the enemy lines.

This was disclosed during a lull in Exercise Southern Pine, the biggest Air Force-Army joint maneuver since World War II.

An announcement from Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon, commanding the Tactical Air Command, said that tactical reconnaissance units will soon be equipped with new RF-84-F aircraft.

The RF-84-F is a long range, high or low altitude, day or night, tactical reconnaissance plane. Unlike "reece" aircraft of the past, the pilot can now fight back if he is intercepted by the enemy.

Airspeeds in excess of 700 miles per hour and four machine guns mounted in the wings equal the performance of the best jet fighters. Dive brakes make the planes highly maneuverable and they are capable of flying higher than nine miles.

The announcement said that Tactical Air Command will receive the first RF-84-F's next year and will assign them to reconnaissance wings presently using RF-80 "Shooting Stars." One such unit, the 117th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing from Lawson Air Force Base, Georgia, is now taking part in Exercise Southern Pine.

MIDLAND CHURCH BEGINS EXPANSION—The Grace Methodist Church of Midland has begun an expansion program which will cost between $10,000 and $15,000. The picture shows workmen in the first phase of the project which is the excavation beneath the main auditorium and one church school room. Upon completion of the construction work the interior of the church will be redecorated and remodeled. The expansion program is necessary because of the increase in membership of the church and the growing enrollment of the church school, Rev. Louis Emerick, pastor, announces.

Expansion Program Starts At Grace Methodist Church

MIDLAND—The congregation of Grace Methodist Church has begun an expansion program which will ultimately cost between $10,000 and $15,000 and which is made necessary by the increase in the membership of the church and the growing enrollment of the Church School.

Later the interior of the church will be redecorated and remodeled. HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (INS)—Farley Granger is the third star added to "Hans Christian Andersen" already lighted up with Danny Kaye and Ballet Star Moira Shearer. Farley plays Moira's husband—Danny, of course, being Hans.

Before Sam Goldwyn took off for Honolulu he called Farley into his office, told him about his new assignment and wished him a happy vacation in Europe. From all the back slapping and hand shakes, you'd never have guessed that Sam had suspended him six months ago and is supposed not to approve of Farley's romance with Shelley Winters.

Maybe Farley's knockout performance in Sam's "I Want You" had something to do with it.

Robert Cummings

Another top Hollywood actor lost to Broadway. Robert Cummings co-stars with Ann Sothern in "More Than Love," the L. Bus-Fekete-Mary Helen Fay play, formerly called "The Philemon Complex." Like Ann Bob has been looking for a good New York show for some time and he believes the Richard Krakeur production is it.

Bob was supposed to fly to New York—but after he telephoned Krakeur and told him it's only a few weeks until he becomes a papa again, the producer gave him permission to remain here until the end of the month.

All the well-known and semi-well-known actresses who tested for Mary in Cathedral Films' "Life Of Christ" have lost out to an unknown. The beautiful and tender role goes to Eileen Rowe, a 21-year-old girl, born in Los Angeles.

I guess it isn't exactly accurate to call her an "unknown" since she has appeared at the Pasadena playhouse and, briefly, on Broadway.

But, the point is she has never made a picture which the Rev. James K. Friedrich, producer of the religious spectacle, believes is important in making the characterization believable.

• — • — •

Vivian Blaine's dressing room was jammed with flowers and candy for her opening day on "Skirts Ahoy" with Esther Williams.

But, her biggest kick was a letter signed by all the Guys And Dolls of her broadway hit, "Guys And Dolls," wishing her lots of success in her picture but not so much that she doesn't come back to the show.

They also sent an honest-to-goodness WAVE uniform (she plays a WAVE in the movie) tailored to her measurements in which Vivian Looks like a "doll"—plug.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May failure to eat be neurotic?

Answer: Just as much as over-eating. According to Dr. Franklin S. DuBois, writing in the Journal of Insurance Medicine, the condition known as "anorexia nervosa." in which the patient is unable to eat or retain food and may actually starve, is basically a compulsion neurosis. Physical treatment may be necessary, but psychotherapy is the real remedy. Just as over-eating may involve an effort to make up for other forms of pleasure which a person feels deprived of, so rejection of food may be an unconscious symbol of resisting the temptation to enjoy delights which are thought of as dangerous or forbidden.

May neurosis raise your I.Q.?

Answer: It may at least seem to do so. Some psychiatrists maintain that it is better not to be too clever because people of superior intelligence appear less happy and more subject to neurosis than their relatively dull or even stupid neighbors. But rather than assume that intelligence causes neurosis, I would suggest that the tension and anxiety which a neurosis creates drive the person to develop whatever intelligence he has more fully than he otherwise would. The heroic struggle to overcome neurotic feelings of inferiority probably accounts for many brilliant intellectual achievements.

Is a person with a "mental history" employable?

Answer: There is no fixed rule about it, says Dr. Roland P. Mackay, University of Illinois psychiatrist, in Industrial Medicine It makes a great difference what the nature of the mental illness has been, and each case should be decided on its merits with the advice of the psychiatrists by whom the person has been treated. But having a job can itself be a great aid to complete recovery and the average neurotic usually is urged to keep on working while he is under treatment. No one can be really well-adjusted who has not learned to do his or her share of the world's work.

The Life And Times Of Doodles Weaver

Doodles Weaver, a new comic you will find on NBC-TV at 10 p.m. EDT Saturdays, is the brother of Pat Weaver, vice president in charge of television at NBC. Some people say that this is how he got the job. Then others say no, it wasn't that way at all. And me. I'm neutral. I fail to understand how half the comics get on television in the first place, and I'm not going to start speculating about the heraldry of any lone comic. First thing you know I'd be speculating about all of them and that way lies madness.

John Crosby

Doodles is what they call a wacky - type comedian, something he's been training for a long time. He's the son of a wealthy West Coast executive and his talent for screwball antics started young. Used to show up in night clubs in fright wigs which panicked the girls and just possibly the boys. In 1937, he was suspended from Stanford University for a prank on a train homebound from the Rose Bowl. Went through the train, shouting—"Everybody up. Next stop Palo Alto." It was 3 o'clock in the morning and Palo Alto was some hours away. The passengers didn't think it was funny. Weaver still has that sort of trouble, no matter how hard he works.

So much for his education and his ancestry. Now to the "Doodles Weaver Show" which is more or less a continuation of his early formative years. In other words, madcap, a gentle and possibly misleading word for it. Mr. Weaver is a wild-eyed, mussy man who scratches his ears, bares his teeth, waves his arms like windmills and, in general, tries to intimidate you into laughing. Sometimes he succeeds.

The show itself is a shapeless affair which may open with a passage at arms between Doodles and his orchestra leader, Milton de Lugg. Bedlam ensues. The band plays. Jokes fly. "Have an accident?"—"No thanks. I just had one." Marian Colby, a gradaute of "Broadway Open House" who should be used to this sort of thing by now, then appears and sings a song. Mr. Weaver reappears and sings a travesty on all singing.

A sketch intervenes. Well, I've seen a lot of sketches in places ranging from the Winter Garden to the defunct Minsky's. These are broader in interpretation and general technique than anything you'd find even at the last-named theaters. The general outlines of each sketch you'll recognize. The card-playing sketch for example, which Ken Murray has been depending on for some time. The barber shop sketch which everyone has been depending on for centuries.

But somehow, as I say, the point and pith of these ancient routines has been blunted or widened to the point where they don't seem to mean anything. To me, at least. Or perhaps I'm just temperamentally unfitted for zany humor. Just possibly that lack in my character makes me unfit for this job because zany humor is on the rise, folks. A man has got to smell a gift cigar awfully carefully these days if he's allergic to explosions.

There are half a dozen TV shows that are given over to general wackiness, and it's symptomatic of the times that many of them are doing pretty well. I had thought that the day when a comedian could get a laugh by donning fright wigs or wearing baggy pants had passed. It is in full bloom again.

In the event that you're not shaken by the fright wigs, they have ahother device for extracting laughter on this show. They dress up young men as women, a sure-fire boff. The Princeton Triangle Club has been doing this for a good many years now, but then Princeton is more or less forced into it. Girls aren't allowed there. But girls are allowed on television and I think they play the role better.

I said that I'd never seen sketches quite as shapeless as Mr. Weaver's but now that I stop to think a bit, I take it all back. At a boy's camp I attended at the age of 13, we used to put on sketches like that every Saturday night, and they were every bit as weird as his. We used to make them up as we went along.

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

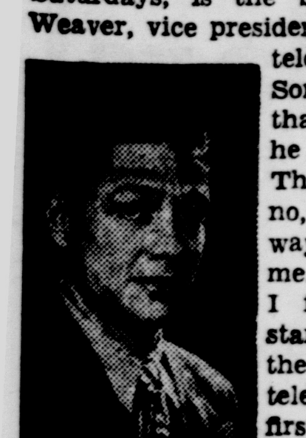
The Life And Times Of Doodles Weaver

Doodles Weaver, a new comic you will find on NBC-TV at 10 p.m. EDT Saturdays, is the brother of Pat Weaver, vice president in charge of television at NBC. Some people say that this is how he got the job. Then others say no, it wasn't that way at all. And me. I'm neutral. I fail to understand how half the comics get on television in the first place, and I'm not going to start speculating about the heraldry of any lone comic. First thing you know I'd be speculating about all of them and that way lies madness.



John Crosby

Doodles is what they call a wacky - type comedian, something he's been training for a long time. He's the son of a wealthy West Coast executive and his talent for screwball antics started young. Used to show up in night clubs in fright wigs which panicked the girls and just possibly the boys. In 1937, he was suspended from Stanford University for a prank on a train homebound from the Rose Bowl. Went through the train, shouting—"Everybody up. Next stop Palo Alto." It was 3 o'clock in the morning and Palo Alto was some hours away. The passengers didn't think it was funny. Weaver still has that sort of trouble, no matter how hard he works.

So much for his education and his ancestry. Now to the "Doodles Weaver Show" which is more or less a continuation of his early formative years. In other words, madcap, a gentle and possibly misleading word for it. Mr. Weaver is a wild-eyed, mussy man who scratches his ears, bares his teeth, waves his arms like windmills and, in general, tries to intimidate you into laughing. Sometimes he succeeds.

The show itself is a shapeless affair which may open with a passage at arms between Doodles and his orchestra leader, Milton de Lugg. Bedlam ensues. The band plays. Jokes fly. "Have an accident?"—"No thanks. I just had one." Marian Colby, a gradaute of "Broadway Open House" who should be used to this sort of thing by now, then appears and sings a song. Mr. Weaver reappears and sings a travesty on all singing.

A sketch intervenes. Well, I've seen a lot of sketches in places ranging from the Winter Garden to the defunct Minsky's. These are broader in interpretation and general technique than anything you'd find even at the last-named theaters. The general outlines of each sketch you'll recognize. The card-playing sketch for example, which Ken Murray has been depending on for some time. The barber shop sketch which everyone has been depending on for centuries.

But somehow, as I say, the point and pith of these ancient routines has been blunted or widened to the point where they don't seem to mean anything. To me, at least. Or perhaps I'm just temperamentally unfitted for zany humor. Just possibly that lack in my character makes me unfit for this job because zany humor is on the rise, folks. A man has got to smell a gift cigar awfully carefully these days if he's allergic to explosions.

There are half a dozen TV shows that are given over to general wackiness, and it's symptomatic of the times that many of them are doing pretty well. I had thought that the day when a comedian could get a laugh by donning fright wigs or wearing baggy pants had passed. It is in full bloom again.

In the event that you're not shaken by the fright wigs, they have ahother device for extracting laughter on this show. They dress up young men as women, a sure-fire boff. The Princeton Triangle Club has been doing this for a good many years now, but then Princeton is more or less forced into it. Girls aren't allowed there. But girls are allowed on television and I think they play the role better.

I said that I'd never seen sketches quite as shapeless as Mr. Weaver's but now that I stop to think a bit, I take it all back. At a boy's camp I attended at the age of 13, we used to put on sketches like that every Saturday night, and they were every bit as weird as his. We used to make them up as we went along.

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

British Once Accused Hoover As German Spy

NEW YORK—(AP)—Herbert Hoover says the British once suspected him of working for the Germans as head of the Belgian relief program in the first World War.

Both England and Germany repeatedly probed the staff of the commission for relief in Belgium for spies, Hoover said, but British naval authorities directed their suspicions at him personally.

America's only living ex-president, writing his memoirs in Collier's magazine, recalled the incident with a pointed reference to Winston Churchill. He said:

"At one point the British authorities (Winston Churchill was then First Lord of the Admiralty) went so far as to file with the foreign offices charges of corruption against me and intimated that I was possibly even an agent working for the Germans."

In a previous article, Hoover said that Churchill was "violently opposed" to the Belgian relief program in the first World War and also helped block a similar program in the second World War.

The charges against him, Hoover said, were investigated by the British in "tedious hearings (which) ended in exoneration and eulogy for our work."

Hoover said that for many years after it was also charged that food destined for Belgium ended up in German hands. This he denied, pointing out that if there were any basis for the charge, the British and French governments would not have allowed the program to continue. Hoover added:

"It remained for Americans—and ministers of the gospel at that—conducting British propaganda during World War II to defame, by foul lies, one of the greatest expressions of American humanism in our history."

The golden jubilee of the founding of the Australian Commonwealth is being celebrated in 1951.

Both England and Germany repeatedly probed the staff of the commission for relief in Belgium for spies, Hoover said, but British naval authorities directed their suspicions at him personally.

America's only living ex-president, writing his memoirs in Collier's magazine, recalled the incident with a pointed reference to Winston Churchill. He said:

"At one point the British authorities (Winston Churchill was then First Lord of the Admiralty) went so far as to file with the foreign offices charges of corruption against me and intimated that I was possibly even an agent working for the Germans."

In a previous article, Hoover said that Churchill was "violently opposed" to the Belgian relief program in the first World War and also helped block a similar program in the second World War.

The charges against him, Hoover said, were investigated by the British in "tedious hearings (which) ended in exoneration and eulogy for our work."

Hoover said that for many years after it was also charged that food destined for Belgium ended up in German hands. This he denied, pointing out that if there were any basis for the charge, the British and French governments would not have allowed the program to continue. Hoover added:

"It remained for Americans—and ministers of the gospel at that—conducting British propaganda during World War II to defame, by foul lies, one of the greatest expressions of American humanism in our history."

The golden jubilee of the founding of the Australian Commonwealth is being celebrated in 1951.

90,000 To See Cleveland Browns Play College All-Stars

NFL Champions Are Favorites In 18th Battle

Kickoff At Soldier Field, Chicago, Set For 8:30 Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—The awesome Cleveland Browns, champions of professional football, tonight were installed as 14-point favorites to defeat the College All-Stars of 1950 in the 18th annual game tomorrow night.

The contest, inaugurating the 1951 gridiron season, will be witnessed by upwards of 90,000 spectators in flood-lighted Soldiers Field, with millions viewing the battle on television sets or listening to radios. A total of 528 radio stations, a record for the event, will carry description of the contest coast-to-coast. Television will be presented by 46 stations.

The kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The Browns defeated only six times in five years of championship competition, will enter the contest with tremendous confidence. The All-Stars will be a particular target for the professionals since the Collegians triumphed over the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-7, a year ago. A defeat always stirs the revengeful spirit of the professionals.

Herman Hickman

Paul Brown

We are not ready to play our best football game," said head coach Paul Brown of the professional champions true to the best tradition of his profession, "but we'll do the best we can."

Browns Near 2,000 Points

In five seasons, the Browns have won 64, lost six and tied three. They have scored 1,977 points against 867 and would consider it a crowning achievement if they could make their 2,000th point against the All-Stars. In their spectacular career, the Browns have played before 3,222,539 fans.

Northwestern's Otto Graham, a superlative forward passer, and possibly the finest T-formation quarterback in history, is the Browns' star. His generalship, running and passing have spearheaded the Browns' attack.

In desire for victory, the Browns

Oakland Wins Over Swanton

Glaze Cops 11th, 7-1, Amvets Tie For Lead

Oakland's Amvets tied Friendsville for the leadership of the second half championship race in the Mountain Top Baseball League by downing the Swanton Dodgers yesterday at Swanton by the score of 7-1 in a game halted in the top of the 7th inning by darkness.

Oakland scored five runs in the 7th but lost them when the score reverted to the sixth stanza.

Sanders' triple scored Swanton's lone tally in the third inning — the first tally registered against Oakland after 30 scoreless innings. The string included three nine-inning shutouts over Bittinger, Friendsville and Kitzmiller and one scoreless inning against Loch Lynn.

Bob Glaze went the route for Oakland and posted his 11th victory against three losses.

Only one of the eight runs scored by the teams was earned. That was Oakland's marker in the 5th stanza.

Evans collected two hits and Joe Kahl and Jimmy Lyons belted triples for the Amvets. Craver racked up three of the Dodgers' five bingles.

Friendsville and Oakland head the race with 5-1 records. Score:

Moose Tossers Meet Centerville Saturday

The Centerville Reds will play hosts to the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose in an Interstate Baseball League contest Saturday at 3 p. m., E.S.T., at Centerville, Pa.

Cumberland leads the league with a 15-4 record. Centerville occupies third place with a 15-4 mark.

Fairmont Nine Wins

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16. (AP)—A victorious Fairmont, W. Va., Little League baseball team tonight beat the Hamilton Township, N. J., Little Leaguers 2-0 to advance to the little world series next week.

A home run in the six inning by Merlin Davidson pulled the game out of the fire for the Fairmont boys. Davidson got his round trip with two outs and two strikes against him in the last inning.

Fairmont now will go to Williamsport, Pa., to meet the Region 5 winner in an eight team tournament.

Ray Boone, Cleveland Indian shortstop, came up to the big leagues as a catcher.

Byrne Of St. Louis Halts Indians' Win Streak, 4-0

Breaks String At 13, Cutting Tribe's Lead

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Southpaw Tommy Bryne proved a giant killer today as the last-place St. Louis Browns whitewashed Cleveland 4-0, snapping the Indians' victory string at 13 and narrowing their league lead to 1½ games over the Yankees.

Byrne gave up only two hits in seven innings and batted in all the Brownie runs. He was forced out in the eighth frame with a pulled muscle in his back.

Cleveland's Larry Doby got one of the hits off Byrne—a first inning double on which Doby suffered a pulled muscle in his left leg.

He didn't know how it happened but club physicians said later they didn't regard it as serious.

The Browns got at the Indians' starter, Mike Garcia, for eight hits in six innings. It was Garcia's eighth loss against 16 triumphs.

Byrne, who before today had a record of 3-6, strode to the plate with the bases loaded in the second inning and cracked out a single that was good for two runs.

The Browns made it 3-0 in the fourth when Fred Marsh doubled, took third on an infield out and scored as Byrne grounded out. Jennings doubled in the sixth and rode home on Byrne's single to center.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's leftfielder who had hit safely in 23 straight games, was shut out in today's contest. Box:

Indictments Mount As Grand Jury Hears Bradley Basketeers

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) — A grand jury today voted more indictments in the college basketball scandal but details were not immediately made public.

The announcement followed a grand jury appearance of Bradley University players.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who made the announcement, would not disclose how many persons had been indicted, what the charges were or give any indication as to the identity of those named.

He said he would hold a news conference tomorrow morning and that the indictments also will be filed then.

His announcement followed a four-hour session of the grand jury during which 18 witnesses appeared. These included five Bradley University players who voluntarily came to New York for questioning.

The players were questioned about 20 minutes each, Hogan said.

Policemen also were among those who testified, Hogan said.

The five Bradley players are Eugene Melchiorre, William Mann, George M. Chianakas, Aaron Preece and Charles Grover. They allegedly were offered bribes to lose a game to Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, in 1949.

Maglie Bags 17th Victory Over Dodgers

Giants Sweep Series Of Three Games, 2-1

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Sal Maglie today to make a clean sweep of the three-game series and bounce back to within nine and a half games of first place.

A wild pitch by Don Newcombe with two out in the seventh inning permitted Bobby Thomson to score with the deciding run.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead in the first when Eddie Stanky led off with a single and raced home on Monte Irvin's triple.

Billy Cox' home run into the lower right field stands in the eighth inning accounted for Brooklyn's sole run. Maglie retired the side in order in the ninth to register his 17th victory and third over the Dodgers. He has lost five.

Newcombe, removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, allowed four hits in the seven innings he toiled. Reliever Clyde King gave up a fifth hit in the eighth. Newcombe was charged with his sixth loss against 16 wins. Box:

Herman Ball Says Rams "Darn Good" After Skins Lose

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP)—The bedazzling Los Angeles Rams were whetting the knife today for the second course on their pre-season football menu—the Chicago Bears.

After the 58-14 carving they performed on the Washington Redskins here last night, the Rams are being billed once again as formidable contenders for the National League championship, although much is going to depend on what happens next Thursday night.

That's when Coach George Halas brings in his seasoned midway monsters to test the Ram Rookies who played cat-and-mouse with the Redskins and left 91,985 customers gaping in amazement. The consensus:

Never have the Rams looked so good in early-season play.

"I think the Rams are a darn good ball club," dourly remarked the Redskin coach, Herman Ball. "If they don't repeat (for the Western Division championship) I'll be surprised."

30 Wins, 18 Shutouts

By C. V. BURNS

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, rounding out his first season as an umpire in the Appalachian League, has worked behind the plate in a no-run, no-hit contest, a 28-0 affair and a 24-15 tilt in which 39 hits were made, 18 walks issued and 21 players stranded on the bases.

And he's getting a big kick out of it all.

"Sparky" was picked up as the second best arbiter in the league for the annual all-star game and worked first base in that contest.

"Some funny things happen in baseball and they aren't in the rule book," Chisholm writes.

"They have all kinds of stunts for drawing crowds in this league, such as plug casting events, cow milking and Gertie Goose who comes out and lays the goose eggs for the visiting team. I'm getting plenty of experience in promotion work'

Chisholm says he hopes to advance to a league of "B" classification next year.

"Give my regards to all my friends and show Charley Hornbrook the clipping about the fellow he selected as—the umpire most likely not to succeed," Chisholm concludes.

Calvin Collis of Bunker Hill, Berkeley county, W. Va., who participates in registered shoots at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, will compete in the champion of champions event at the 52nd Grand American Trapshoot to be held next week at Vandalia, Ohio, according to Tony Francis, of Westernport.

Collis qualified to shoot it out with the champions of the other states when he copped the West Virginia singles title at Ridgeley last month by hitting 195 out of 200 targets from 16 yards

Edgar McDonald, of Headsville, Mineral county, who has been shooting for 25 years and has participated in many Grand American events, and Harold A. Downey Martinsburg, state handicap champion, also will be on the firing line in Ohio where 2,000 of the nation's best shots will vie.

McDonald is the 1951 doubles and all-around champion of West Virginia.

Fans attending the Hot Stove League all-star game last Friday night at Penn Avenue Field saw plenty of smoke but it didn't come from a stove.

Kickoff At Soldier Field, Chicago, Set For 8:30 Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—The awesome Cleveland Browns, champions of professional football, tonight were installed as 14-point favorites to defeat the College All-Stars of 1950 in the 18th annual game tomorrow night.

The contest, inaugurating the 1951 gridiron season, will be witnessed by upwards of 90,000 spectators in flood-lighted Soldiers Field, with millions viewing the battle on television sets or listening to radios. A total of 528 radio stations, a record for the event, will carry description of the contest coast-to-coast. Television will be presented by 46 stations.

The kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The Browns defeated only six times in five years of championship competition, will enter the contest with tremendous confidence. The All-Stars will be a particular target for the professionals since the Collegians triumphed over the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-7, a year ago. A defeat always stirs the revengeful spirit of the professionals.

Paul Brown

We are not ready to play our best football game," said head coach Paul Brown of the professional champions true to the best tradition of his profession, "but we'll do the best we can."

Browns Near 2,000 Points

In five seasons, the Browns have won 64, lost six and tied three. They have scored 1,977 points against 867 and would consider it a crowning achievement if they could make their 2,000th point against the All-Stars. In their spectacular career, the Browns have played before 3,222,539 fans.

Northwestern's Otto Graham, a superlative forward passer, and possibly the finest T-formation quarterback in history, is the Browns' star. His generalship, running and passing have spearheaded the Browns' attack.

In desire for victory, the Browns

Glaze Cops 11th, 7-1, Amvets Tie For Lead

Oakland's Amvets tied Friendsville for the leadership of the second half championship race in the Mountain Top Baseball League by downing the Swanton Dodgers yesterday at Swanton by the score of 7-1 in a game halted in the top of the 7th inning by darkness.

Oakland scored five runs in the 7th but lost them when the score reverted to the sixth stanza.

Sanders' triple scored Swanton's lone tally in the third inning — the first tally registered against Oakland after 30 scoreless innings. The string included three nine-inning shutouts over Bittinger, Friendsville and Kitzmiller and one scoreless inning against Loch Lynn.

Bob Glaze went the route for Oakland and posted his 11th victory against three losses.

Only one of the eight runs scored by the teams was earned. That was Oakland's marker in the 5th stanza.

Evans collected two hits and Joe Kahl and Jimmy Lyons belted triples for the Amvets. Craver racked up three of the Dodgers' five bingles.

Friendsville and Oakland head the race with 5-1 records. Score:

Fairmont Nine Wins

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16. (AP)—A victorious Fairmont, W. Va., Little League baseball team tonight beat the Hamilton Township, N. J., Little Leaguers 2-0 to advance to the little world series next week.

A home run in the six inning by Merlin Davidson pulled the game out of the fire for the Fairmont boys. Davidson got his round trip with two outs and two strikes against him in the last inning.

Fairmont now will go to Williamsport, Pa., to meet the Region 5 winner in an eight team tournament.

Ray Boone, Cleveland Indian shortstop, came up to the big leagues as a catcher.

Byrne Of St. Louis Halts Indians' Win Streak, 4-0

Breaks String At 13, Cutting Tribe's Lead

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Southpaw Tommy Bryne proved a giant killer today as the last-place St. Louis Browns whitewashed Cleveland 4-0, snapping the Indians' victory string at 13 and narrowing their league lead to 1½ games over the Yankees.

Byrne gave up only two hits in seven innings and batted in all the Brownie runs. He was forced out in the eighth frame with a pulled muscle in his back.

Cleveland's Larry Doby got one of the hits off Byrne—a first inning double on which Doby suffered a pulled muscle in his left leg.

He didn't know how it happened but club physicians said later they didn't regard it as serious.

The Browns got at the Indians' starter, Mike Garcia, for eight hits in six innings. It was Garcia's eighth loss against 16 triumphs.

Byrne, who before today had a record of 3-6, strode to the plate with the bases loaded in the second inning and cracked out a single that was good for two runs.

The Browns made it 3-0 in the fourth when Fred Marsh doubled, took third on an infield out and scored as Byrne grounded out. Jennings doubled in the sixth and rode home on Byrne's single to center.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's leftfielder who had hit safely in 23 straight games, was shut out in today's contest. Box:

Aussies Reach Quarter Finals In Net Tourney

Three Foreign Teams Advance In Doubles

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, Australia's crack tandem, were the most decisive victors today as the eight outstanding seeded teams, including two other foreign pairs, swarmed into the men's national doubles tennis quarter-final round.

Sedgman and McGregor, whose 12-tournament streak including Australian, French and Wimbledon championship was snapped at the Newport Casino last week, overwhelmed St. Louis' Dave Mesker and Edwin Wesley, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, in their third-round national engagement.

Veterans Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Bill Talbert of New York, seeking their fifth national team titles, qualified for the round of eight with an easy 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 win over Jiro Kumamaru of Japan, and Grant Golden of Chicago.

Second-seeded Budge Patty of Los Angeles, and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, advanced on a 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Californian youngsters Conway Catton and Fred Hagist.

Mervyn Rose and Don Candy of Australia kept pace by besting Jerry Dewitt of San Francisco, and Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Philadelphia's Vic Seixas who came to Longwood boasting of the win over Sedgman and McGregor, eliminated Nadin Hajjar of Lebanon, and Don Kaiser of Louisville, Ky., 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

England's Tony Mottram and Syd Levy of South Africa, put out Robert Braithwaite of Erie, Pa. and Richard Cain of Kalamazoo, Mich., 6-3, 6-2, 6-3 and, with much difficulty, Fred Fisher of Seattle, and Sidney Schwartz of Brooklyn, sidelined Japan's Goro Rujikura and Fumitera Nakano, 15-13, 8-6, 6-3.

The other quarter finals berth went to Earl Cochell of Los Angeles and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., the fourth seedings, when they sidelined Pablo Eisenberg of Millburn, N. J., and Tom Lewyn of Scarsdale, N. Y., 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Indictments Mount As Grand Jury Hears Bradley Basketeers

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) — A grand jury today voted more indictments in the college basketball scandal but details were not immediately made public.

The announcement followed a grand jury appearance of Bradley University players.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who made the announcement, would not disclose how many persons had been indicted, what the charges were or give any indication as to the identity of those named.

He said he would hold a news conference tomorrow morning and that the indictments also will be filed then.

His announcement followed a four-hour session of the grand jury during which 18 witnesses appeared. These included five Bradley University players who voluntarily came to New York for questioning.

The players were questioned about 20 minutes each, Hogan said.

Policemen also were among those who testified, Hogan said.

The five Bradley players are Eugene Melchiorre, William Mann, George M. Chianakas, Aaron Preece and Charles Grover. They allegedly were offered bribes to lose a game to Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, in 1949.

Maglie Bags 17th Victory Over Dodgers

Giants Sweep Series Of Three Games, 2-1

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Sal Maglie today to make a clean sweep of the three-game series and bounce back to within nine and a half games of first place.

A wild pitch by Don Newcombe with two out in the seventh inning permitted Bobby Thomson to score with the deciding run.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead in the first when Eddie Stanky led off with a single and raced home on Monte Irvin's triple.

Billy Cox' home run into the lower right field stands in the eighth inning accounted for Brooklyn's sole run. Maglie retired the side in order in the ninth to register his 17th victory and third over the Dodgers. He has lost five.

Newcombe, removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, allowed four hits in the seven innings he toiled. Reliever Clyde King gave up a fifth hit in the eighth. Newcombe was charged with his sixth loss against 16 wins. Box:

Herman Ball Says Rams "Darn Good" After Skins Lose

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP)—The bedazzling Los Angeles Rams were whetting the knife today for the second course on their pre-season football menu—the Chicago Bears.

After the 58-14 carving they performed on the Washington Redskins here last night, the Rams are being billed once again as formidable contenders for the National League championship, although much is going to depend on what happens next Thursday night.

That's when Coach George Halas brings in his seasoned midway monsters to test the Ram Rookies who played cat-and-mouse with the Redskins and left 91,985 customers gaping in amazement. The consensus:

Never have the Rams looked so good in early-season play.

"I think the Rams are a darn good ball club," dourly remarked the Redskin coach, Herman Ball. "If they don't repeat (for the Western Division championship) I'll be surprised."

30 Wins, 18 Shutouts

By C. V. BURNS

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, rounding out his first season as an umpire in the Appalachian League, has worked behind the plate in a no-run, no-hit contest, a 28-0 affair and a 24-15 tilt in which 39 hits were made, 18 walks issued and 21 players stranded on the bases.

And he's getting a big kick out of it all.

"Sparky" was picked up as the second best arbiter in the league for the annual all-star game and worked first base in that contest.

"Some funny things happen in baseball and they aren't in the rule book," Chisholm writes.

"They have all kinds of stunts for drawing crowds in this league, such as plug casting events, cow milking and Gertie Goose who comes out and lays the goose eggs for the visiting team. I'm getting plenty of experience in promotion work'

Chisholm says he hopes to advance to a league of "B" classification next year.

"Give my regards to all my friends and show Charley Hornbrook the clipping about the fellow he selected as—the umpire most likely not to succeed," Chisholm concludes.

Calvin Collis of Bunker Hill, Berkeley county, W. Va., who participates in registered shoots at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, will compete in the champion of champions event at the 52nd Grand American Trapshoot to be held next week at Vandalia, Ohio, according to Tony Francis, of Westernport.

Collis qualified to shoot it out with the champions of the other states when he copped the West Virginia singles title at Ridgeley last month by hitting 195 out of 200 targets from 16 yards

Edgar McDonald, of Headsville, Mineral county, who has been shooting for 25 years and has participated in many Grand American events, and Harold A. Downey Martinsburg, state handicap champion, also will be on the firing line in Ohio where 2,000 of the nation's best shots will vie.

McDonald is the 1951 doubles and all-around champion of West Virginia.

Fans attending the Hot Stove League all-star game last Friday night at Penn Avenue Field saw plenty of smoke but it didn't come from a stove.

Upon investigation the umpires discovered the third base coach was smoking a cigar.

The guy with the smoking El Ropo in his mouth was informed by the arbiters that

Amvets Capture Rec League Lead

Top Cunningham's In 7 To 6 Thriller

Manager Donald Palmer's Amvets took over sole possession of first place in the Men's Division of the City Recreation Softball League by edging Cunningham's Grocery yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 7-6.

It marked the third time that the Amvets had turned the trick and gave them a half game lead over the Grocers in an interesting race. The Amvets have won 21 and lost 4 while Cunningham's record is 21 wins and five defeats.

Jack Stotler gained the nod over George Harris in yesterday's duel. Cunningham's made it close by scoring two runs in the last of the 7th on a pair of passes coupled with two hits.

Stotler's circuit blast in the 6th inning was the margin of victory. Dick Leo of the Amvets also smashed a four-bagger in the second frame.

Jim Fradiska of the Amvets and Wharton of Cunningham's led the stickers with two hits each.

Trozzo's Spots won via the forfeit route from Undergarment yesterday.

In a Wednesday game at Stitcher Field, Undergarment outslugged Asplundh, 17-11. The scores:

Young Jockeys Are Suspended

Questioned On Doping Parties With Girls

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—Two young jockeys have been suspended from riding here after being questioned by Baltimore police in connection with a series of alleged dope parties involving teen-age girls.

The suspended Jockeys, Thomas H. Kane, 20, of Baltimore, and James C. Meyerhoeffer, 21, of Washington, are expected to be state's witnesses in the trial of another jockey.

Standing trial will be Frank Novella, 21, of Lawrence, Mass. He is charged with giving dope to teen-age girls at a Baltimore hotel.

Also under arrest on similar charges are James McDermott, 21-year-old jockey from Louisville, Ky., and Sonny Dion, a race horse exercise rider.

The stewards said Kane and Meyerhoeffer have been suspended until they are "completely cleared."

Kane had 16 mounts during the 10-day meeting at Fairgo last month. He rode three wins, one second and three third place horses.

Baseball Most Dangerous Sport In New York City For 32 Years

43 Deaths Reported, Tops Football, Boxing

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP) — Baseball—not boxing or football—has been the most dangerous sport in New York City for the last 32 years.

Dr. Tomas A. Gonzales of the New York chief medical examiner's office said baseball injuries brought death to 43 players from 1918 through 1950 — as many as football and boxing deaths combined.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, he presented this review of 104 fatal injuries resulting from sports activities during the period:

Baseball 43 deaths, football 22, boxing 21, basketball 1, handball 3, soccer 2, wrestling 2, cricket 1, golf 1 polo 1 and relay races 1.

His report showed:

Nearly all the baseball fatalities occurred in amateur and semi-professional ranks. A player hit on the head by a pitched ball marked the only death in major league baseball.

A thrown or hit ball caused the bulk of the baseball deaths. A few suffered fatal injuries in collisions between players in falls or when sliding into base. Head injuries resulted in 25 deaths. Infectious processes were involved in 13 deaths.

Most of the football fatalities resulted from direct violence in line play, in blocking and in tackling. Infection following injury was the principal single factor, accounting for 10 deaths. Head injuries caused 4 deaths and spinal 3. Intra-abdominal injuries caused four deaths and tetanus one.

Blows on the head or impact with the ring floor caused most of the boxing deaths. Hemorrhages following head injuries were blamed in 15 deaths.

Soldiers Win 45th

FORT MEADE, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—George Thomas of Baltimore struck out 16 tonight as he pitched Fort Meade to a 6-4 victory over northeast body works of Washington. Thomas who pitched for Montreal of the International League last year before entering the army. It was the 45th victory for Fort Meade which has lost only four games.

Cards Beat Dickson

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16 (AP) — An outburst of six runs in the seventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 9 to 6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

Stan Musial's 27th home run of the season — an inside the park variety — with two aboard in the sixth frame accounted for the other Cardinal tallies.

The Pirates scored twice each in the fifth, sixth and ninth innings, collecting 10 hits off four Cardinal hurlers. The Cards garnered 12 hits off Murry Dickson and reliefer Ted Wilks. Dickson was charged with the loss, his 11th. He was seeking his 17th win. Box:

Trout Whips Chisox

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—(AP)—Paul "Dizzy" Trout was the whole show as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, here today to earn a draw in the two-game series.

Trout supplied the winning margin of his eighth triumph, a neat six-hitter, by hitting his first 1951 home run. It was a line drive into the lower deck of the left field pavilion to open the fifth inning.

The victim of Trout's game-winning round tripper was Joe Dobson, the veteran White Sox righthander. It marked the second time in successive starts Dobson has been beaten 2-1 by a rival pitcher's home run.

Last Saturday night in Cleveland Dobson was draped with a 2-1 loss to the first-place Indians when Burly Early Wynn blasted a seventh inning round tripper. Box:

Amvets Capture Rec League Lead

Top Cunningham's In 7 To 6 Thriller

Manager Donald Palmer's Amvets took over sole possession of first place in the Men's Division of the City Recreation Softball League by edging Cunningham's Grocery yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 7-6.

It marked the third time that the Amvets had turned the trick and gave them a half game lead over the Grocers in an interesting race. The Amvets have won 21 and lost 4 while Cunningham's record is 21 wins and five defeats.

Jack Stotler gained the nod over George Harris in yesterday's duel. Cunningham's made it close by scoring two runs in the last of the 7th on a pair of passes coupled with two hits.

Stotler's circuit blast in the 6th inning was the margin of victory. Dick Leo of the Amvets also smashed a four-bagger in the second frame.

Jim Fradiska of the Amvets and Wharton of Cunningham's led the stickers with two hits each.

Trozzo's Spots won via the forfeit route from Undergarment yesterday.

In a Wednesday game at Stitcher Field, Undergarment outslugged Asplundh, 17-11. The scores:

AMVETS .... 011 131 0—7 8 2
CUNNINGHAM'S ...... 003 001 2—6 6
Stotler and Martin. Harris and Miller.

UNDERGARMENT .. 133 510 4—17 16 4

Young Jockeys Are Suspended

Questioned On Doping Parties With Girls

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—Two young jockeys have been suspended from riding here after being questioned by Baltimore police in connection with a series of alleged dope parties involving teen-age girls.

The suspended Jockeys, Thomas H. Kane, 20, of Baltimore, and James C. Meyerhoeffer, 21, of Washington, are expected to be state's witnesses in the trial of another jockey.

Standing trial will be Frank Novella, 21, of Lawrence, Mass. He is charged with giving dope to teen-age girls at a Baltimore hotel.

Also under arrest on similar charges are James McDermott, 21-year-old jockey from Louisville, Ky., and Sonny Dion, a race horse exercise rider.

The stewards said Kane and Meyerhoeffer have been suspended until they are "completely cleared."

Kane had 16 mounts during the 10-day meeting at Fairgo last month. He rode three wins, one second and three third place horses.

43 Deaths Reported, Tops Football, Boxing

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP) — Baseball —not boxing or football—has been the most dangerous sport in New York City for the last 32 years.

Dr. Tomas A. Gonzales of the New York chief medical examiner's office said baseball injuries brought death to 43 players from 1918 through 1950 — as many as football and boxing deaths combined.

Writing in the Jourial of the American Medical Association, he presented this review of 104 fatal injuries resulting from sports activities during the period:

Baseball 43 deaths, football 22, boxing 21, basketball 1, handball 3, soccer 2, wrestling 2, cricket 1, golf 1 polo 1 and relay races 1.

His report showed:

Nearly all the baseball fatalities occurred in amateur and semi-professional ranks. A player hit on the head by a pitched ball marked the only death in major league baseball.

A thrown or hit ball caused the bulk of the baseball deaths. A few suffered fatal injuries in collisions between players in falls or when sliding into base. Head injuries resulted in 25 deaths. Infectious processes were involved in 13 deaths.

Most of the football fatalities resulted from direct violence in line play, in blocking and in tackling. Infection following injury was the principal single factor, accounting for 10 deaths. Head injuries caused 4 deaths and spinal 3. Intra-abdominal injuries caused four deaths and tetanus one.

Blows on the head or impact with the ring floor caused most of the boxing deaths. Hemorrhages following head injuries were blamed in 15 deaths.

Cards Beat Dickson

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16 (AP) — An outburst of six runs in the seventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 9 to 6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

Stan Musial's 27th home run of the season — an inside the park variety — with two aboard in the sixth frame accounted for the other Cardinal tallies.

The Pirates scored twice each in the fifth, sixth and ninth innings, collecting 10 hits off four Cardinal hurlers. The Cards garnered 12 hits off Murry Dickson and reliefer Ted Wilks. Dickson was charged with the loss, his 11th. He was seeking his 17th win. Box:

Trout Whips Chisox

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—(AP)—Paul "Dizzy" Trout was the whole show as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, here today to earn a draw in the two-game series.

Trout supplied the winning margin of his eighth triumph, a neat six-hitter, by hitting his first 1951 home run. It was a line drive into the lower deck of the left field pavilion to open the fifth inning.

The victim of Trout's game-winning round tripper was Joe Dobson, the veteran White Sox righthander. It marked the second time in successive starts Dobson has been beaten 2-1 by a rival pitcher's home run.

Last Saturday night in Cleveland Dobson was draped with a 2-1 loss to the first-place Indians when Burly Early Wynn blasted a seventh inning round tripper. Box:

Heat Got Ya? Wanta Cool Off? Then Forget About Light Foods

By IRWIN ALPERT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS)—August heat got ya? Wanta cool off?

Well, forget about those "light" lettuce-and-tomato and salad dishes and help yourself to a real sizzling hot steak, with potatoes—that is, if the family pocketbook can stand it.

That advice was offered today by one of the country's top experts on weather and what to do about it—Yale Professor Dr. Lovic P. Herrington, research director of the John B. Pierce Foundation which studies heat, ventilation, and health.

Dr. Herrington says the practice of eating light foods to keep from sweltering is purely the invention of summer weather escapists who live in regions where it really gets hot only about a dozen times a year.

The climatoligist, a native of Waynesboro, Ga., where the mercury usually hogs the 95 degree mark, asserts that the salad blueplate may be all right for rabbits, and leisurely clubwomen bent on keeping away from the stove—but for beating the heat, he'll take his steak well done, thank you.

The Yale weather expert says the salad as a meal just doesn't provide the proteins needed for a good day's work—and that's as true in December as it is in July.

Moreover, he explained, it's all in the skin, not the mind. If you eat hot, protein-rich foods, your blood circulation is better. When it gets too hot outside, the blood rushes to the vessels in the outer skin layer for a cooling-off period. You cool off in the process. Simple.

Dr. Herrington's other tips: Wear lightweight clothing, particularly garments with open weave and ventilated pockets. The advantage of "air-conditioned" pockets is that when you walk, air is pumped up over the legs and filters out through the pocket area. Dr. Herrington warns, however, that the pockets mst be made of sufficiently tough material to prevent the loss of money or personal effects.

Another Herrington suggestion is to wear ventilated shoes with light socks. Light shades in clothing, preferably white, also helps to cheat old Sol. A light blue, or white can reject up to as much as 50 per cent of the sun's heat.

Avoid garters — if possible — because they slow up circulation, and good circulation keeps the skin temperature down when the thermometer is going up.

And unless the sun is really out with a vengeance, don't wear a hat. It cuts down the evaporative surface of the head so that you don't perspire as well.

And perspiration, explains Dr. Herrington, is like the evaporative cooling process of an air-conditioning unit. If you perspire normally, says the professor, it should be equal to the effect of two, or even three refrigerators functioning at top level.

Heat Got Ya? Wanta Cool Off? Then Forget About Light Foods

By IRWIN ALPERT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS)—August heat got ya? Wanta cool off?

Well, forget about those "light" lettuce-and-tomato and salad dishes and help yourself to a real sizzling hot steak, with potatoes—that is, if the family pocketbook can stand it.

That advice was offered today by one of the country's top experts on weather and what to do about it—Yale Professor Dr. Lovic P. Herrington, research director of the John B. Pierce Foundation which studies heat, ventilation, and health.

Dr. Herrington says the practice of eating light foods to keep from sweltering is purely the invention of summer weather escapists who live in regions where it really gets hot only about a dozen times a year.

The climatoligist, a native of Waynesboro, Ga., where the mercury usually hogs the 95 degree mark, asserts that the salad blueplate may be all right for rabbits, and leisurely clubwomen bent on keeping away from the stove—but for beating the heat, he'll take his steak well done, thank you.

The Yale weather expert says the salad as a meal just doesn't provide the proteins needed for a good day's work—and that's as true in December as it is in July.

Moreover, he explained, it's all in the skin, not the mind. If you eat hot, protein-rich foods, your blood circulation is better. When it gets too hot outside, the blood rushes to the vessels in the outer skin layer for a cooling-off period. You cool off in the process. Simple.

Dr. Herrington's other tips: Wear lightweight clothing, particularly garments with open weave and ventilated pockets. The advantage of "air-conditioned" pockets is that when you walk, air is pumped up over the legs and filters out through the pocket area. Dr. Herrington warns, however, that the pockets mst be made of sufficiently tough material to prevent the loss of money or personal effects.

Another Herrington suggestion is to wear ventilated shoes with light socks. Light shades in clothing, preferably white, also helps to cheat old Sol. A light blue, or white can reject up to as much as 50 per cent of the sun's heat.

Avoid garters — if possible — because they slow up circulation, and good circulation keeps the skin temperature down when the thermometer is going up.

And unless the sun is really out with a vengeance, don't wear a hat. It cuts down the evaporative surface of the head so that you don't perspire as well.

And perspiration, explains Dr. Herrington, is like the evaporative cooling process of an air-conditioning unit. If you perspire normally, says the professor, it should be equal to the effect of two, or even three refrigerators functioning at top level.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Virginia Kinser, who passed away August 14, 1950, and her birthday is August 17.

I miss the many things I used to do for you,
Miss your gentle voice,
I cannot help but ask, why did it have to be.
But God alone knows best,
And so he beckoned you to come,
To your eternal rest.

MRS. DORIS FIELDS,
MISS ELIZABETH KINSER

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, W. F. Alexander, who passed away August 17, 1941.

He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. W. F. Alexander, sons, and family

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Virginia Kinser, who passed away August 14, 1950, and her birthday is August 17.

I miss the many things I used to do for you,
Miss your gentle voice,
I cannot help but ask, why did it have to be.
But God alone knows best,
And so he beckoned you to come,
To your eternal rest.

MRS. DORIS FIELDS,
MISS ELIZABETH KINSER

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, W. F. Alexander, who passed away August 17, 1941.

He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. W. F. Alexander, sons, and family

The convention in Baltimore next week was discussed and the majority of members reported plans to attend.

Mrs. Nell Doty invited the group to a dinner meeting at her home in LaVale, September 11.

Concluding the evening the hostess served refreshments indoors. The room was decorated with assorted flowers.

Members attending were Mrs. Pearl Allen, Mrs. Ada Conley Long, Mrs. Effie Vogel, Mrs. Martha, McNary, Mrs. Catherine Barnard, Mrs. Ovelia Walker, Mrs. George Banzoff, Mrs. Marie Kelly and Mrs. Doty.

Wave Of Upsets Hits JC Tourney

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 16 (AP) — The defending champion, the medalist and the No. 1 darkhorse all were ushered to the sidelines today as a wave of upsets hit the third and fourth rounds of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National Junior Golf Tournament.

Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Mass., seeking his second consecutive title, was a 1-up fourth round victim of 16-year-old Jimmy Deemer of Blacksburg, Va.

Medalist Teddy White, from Roswell, N. M., was humbled, 2 and 1, by Bobby Goetz, Lynn, Mass., native who now lives in Wichita, Kas. Earlier, Goetz downed Don Krieger, Portland, Ore., 3 and 2.

Tommy Morrow, Louisiana State University golf teammate of Merrins, didn't even get to the fourth round. A well-liked contender off his play earlier in the week, he ran into Buddy Manderson, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and was put out, 1-up.

Manderson then went on to wallop Lester Ward of Badin, N. C., 9 and 7.

Maxim, Murphy Fit For Go Next Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Both champion Joey Maxim and challenger Irish Bob Murphy are fit and have nerves like icebergs, Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York State Athletic Commission said today.

Dr. Nardiello made the usual examination of the two today. Except for the weighing in, it is the final medical inspection the two will get before they climb into the Madison Square Garden ring on Wednesday for their 15-round championship bout.

such a practice was not good baseball etiquette and he immediately disposed of the blazing weed.

It was a most embarrassing moment for the well known agriculturist who happens to be managing teams in two leagues this season.

The Middle Atlantic League is back where it started 26 years ago. Oil City has thrown in the sponge leaving Elmer Daily's circuit with only five clubs. New Castle, Erie, Niagara Falls, Butler and Lockport are the survivors.

In 1925 when the league was born there were only five charter members—Wheeling, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Johnstown and Cumberland. Scottdale became the sixth member of the circuit on July 4.

One ace was scored in the recent hole-in-one tournament at the Mt. Pleasant Country Club in Baltimore. There were over 12,000 shots taken at the hole.

Figures on the hole-in-one tournament conducted by a New York newspaper reveal that there's been only six aces scored in the event's 18-year-old history.

Cpl. Melvin Washington is home on a 14-day furlough from Pine Camp, near Watertown, N. Y.

He's been in the service a year and he tells us that he's won nine of 10 bouts, including the middleweight title of Pine Camp.

Before he joined up with Uncle Sam, Washington engaged in 50 amateur matches and two pro bouts.

When Al Sheetz shut out the K. of C. softball team on Tuesday by the score of 13-0 it was the 18th time in two seasons he has blanked the opposition in a Rocking Chair League tilt.

His record this year is 15-0 and seven were shutouts. Last season he won 15 and lost 2 and 11 were shutouts. He has whitewashed the enemy 18 times in scoring 30 wins in two years in the RCL.

Al's most remarkable performance came in the 1950 playoffs when he won the title for the Eagles by beating the Moose 1-0 and 5-0 and the Elks 4-0 and 6-0. Eight of his shutout wins last year were registered in the last nine games. That guy must be good.

The Parkville Post nine of Baltimore county which won the American Legion junior baseball championship of Maryland by whipping Westernport 10-9, and Silver Spring 9-4 and 6-0, is the first team outside of Baltimore to represent the Old Line State since 1934 when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 of this city swept everything to cop national honors in Chicago.

Maryland's first national championship team was B. & O. Post, Baltimore, in 1930.

Parkville, winner of 22 out of 23 games, has qualified for the regional tournament which opens Saturday at Parkersburg, W. Va.

NFL Champions

will start a veteran eleven, which in three weeks of training at Bowling Green, Ohio, has rounded into almost championship condition.

Graham's pass targets will be Mac Speedie and Dante Lavelli, sensational ends, plus the offensive halfbacks. Graham will receive needed protection from a shifty, hard blocking line that will outweigh the collegians.

Coach Herman Hickman of Yale has put his all-stars through a three weeks' rugged practice period at their training base, Delafield, Wis.

Hickman will pin his hopes on the performances of Kyle Rote, dashing Southern Methodist halfback, a solid 200-pounder, and Wilwred "Whizzer" White, Arizona halfback, who led the nation in rushing last fall with 1,502 yards in ten games.

Don Dufek, Michigan, and Sonny Grandelius, Michigan State, will carry the offensive burden at fullback.

The stars have excellent men to return kicks and to defend against deep passes. Chuck Ortman, Michigan and Ken Konz, Louisiana State, are specialists in this department.

Williams At Quarter

Notre Dame's Bob Williams and Fran Nagle, Nebraska, each a superlative forward passer, will direct the team from quarterback.

Jerry Groom, Notre Dame center, who shares the leadership of the Collegians with Bud Mc Fadin, Texas, is regarded as a superior player. Bob Gain, Kentucky tackle, and Al Carapella, a tackle, Miami, are other merited players.

The All-Stars have an unusual group of pass receivers. Bucky Curtis, Vanderbilt, is one of the greatest pass receivers in collegiate history. At the other end the All-Stars will have Bob Wilkinson, who broke records at UCLA. Don Stonesifer of Northwestern, holder of the Big Ten pass catching record for one game; Alan Pfeifer, Fordham, and Henry Minarik, Michigan State, are also outstanding receivers.

Market Advances Slightly With Railroads Exception

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—In its second straight day of recovery, the stock market advanced moderately today, but the rise was hampered by several tired areas.

Steels, motors, oils, utilities, rubbers, radio-television, and aircrafts all made good progress, and there were a number of outstanding individual performers.

The railroads were prominent because of their inability to hold to their early gains. And there was a lot of profit-taking in chemicals and gold mining shares.

American Telephone hit a new high of 162⅜ and closed up 1¾ at 162⅛. It was the 13th most active issue.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue up ⅝ at 22⅜. It was closely followed by International Telephone up ½ at 17¼.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $96.70 with the industrial component up 40 cents, rails down 10 cents, and utilities up 20 cents.

The volume of trading expanded to 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,340,000 shares yesterday. The breadth of the market also expanded to 1,112 individual issues traded against 1,070 issues yesterday. There were 625 stocks advancing and 240 declining with 40 new highs and only two new lows for the year.

The strength of the market was shown by the fact that only one of the 15 most active issues declined—Warner Bros. down ⅛ at 14⅛.

Following Radio and International Telephone in the list were Benguet Mining up ⅛ at 1¾, Standard Oil of Ohio up 1⅜ at 42⅜, Canadian Pacific (which has big oil holdings) up ¼ at 28, Fedders-Quigan up ⅜ at 12⅞, and Remington Rand up ⅜ at 20⅛.

PPP Has Lawn Party

Mrs. Ralph Lndamood, entertained members of the Past Presidents Parley American Legion Auxiliary, with a lawn party, earlier in the week at her home, Michigan Avenue.

The convention in Baltimore next week was discussed and the majority of members reported plans to attend.

Mrs. Nell Doty invited the group to a dinner meeting at her home in LaVale, September 11.

Concluding the evening the hostess served refreshments indoors. The room was decorated with assorted flowers.

Members attending were Mrs. Pearl Allen, Mrs. Ada Conley Long, Mrs. Effie Vogel, Mrs. Martha, McNary, Mrs. Catherine Barnard, Mrs. Ovelia Walker, Mrs. George Banzoff, Mrs. Marie Kelly and Mrs. Doty.

Wave Of Upsets Hits JC Tourney

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 16 (AP) — The defending champion, the medalist and the No. 1 darkhorse all were ushered to the sidelines today as a wave of upsets hit the third and fourth rounds of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National Junior Golf Tournament.

Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Mass., seeking his second consecutive title, was a 1-up fourth round victim of 16-year-old Jimmy Deemer of Blacksburg, Va.

Medalist Teddy White, from Roswell, N. M., was humbled, 2 and 1, by Bobby Goetz, Lynn, Mass., native who now lives in Wichita, Kas. Earlier, Goetz downed Don Krieger, Portland, Ore., 3 and 2.

Tommy Morrow, Louisiana State University golf teammate of Merrins, didn't even get to the fourth round. A well-liked contender off his play earlier in the week, he ran into Buddy Manderson, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and was put out, 1-up.

Manderson then went on to wallop Lester Ward of Badin, N. C., 9 and 7.

Maxim, Murphy Fit For Go Next Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Both champion Joey Maxim and challenger Irish Bob Murphy are fit and have nerves like icebergs, Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York State Athletic Commission said today.

Dr. Nardiello made the usual examination of the two today. Except for the weighing in, it is the final medical inspection the two will get before they climb into the Madison Square Garden ring on Wednesday for their 15-round championship bout.

such a practice was not good baseball etiquette and he immediately disposed of the blazing weed.

It was a most embarrassing moment for the well known agriculturist who happens to be managing teams in two leagues this season.

The Middle Atlantic League is back where it started 26 years ago. Oil City has thrown in the sponge leaving Elmer Daily's circuit with only five clubs. New Castle, Erie, Niagara Falls, Butler and Lockport are the survivors.

In 1925 when the league was born there were only five charter members—Wheeling, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Johnstown and Cumberland. Scottdale became the sixth member of the circuit on July 4.

One ace was scored in the recent hole-in-one tournament at the Mt. Pleasant Country Club in Baltimore. There were over 12,000 shots taken at the hole.

Figures on the hole-in-one tournament conducted by a New York newspaper reveal that there's been only six aces scored in the event's 18-year-old history.

Cpl. Melvin Washington is home on a 14-day furlough from Pine Camp, near Watertown, N. Y.

He's been in the service a year and he tells us that he's won nine of 10 bouts, including the middleweight title of Pine Camp.

Before he joined up with Uncle Sam, Washington engaged in 50 amateur matches and two pro bouts.

When Al Sheetz shut out the K. of C. softball team on Tuesday by the score of 13-0 it was the 18th time in two seasons he has blanked the opposition in a Rocking Chair League tilt.

His record this year is 15-0 and seven were shutouts. Last season he won 15 and lost 2 and 11 were shutouts. He has whitewashed the enemy 18 times in scoring 30 wins in two years in the RCL.

Al's most remarkable performance came in the 1950 playoffs when he won the title for the Eagles by beating the Moose 1-0 and 5-0 and the Elks 4-0 and 6-0. Eight of his shutout wins last year were registered in the last nine games. That guy must be good.

Wagering at Hagerstown's 10-day race meeting was up $1,227,932 this year. In 1950 it was off $501,590.

The Parkville Post nine of Baltimore county which won the American Legion junior baseball championship of Maryland by whipping Westernport 10-9, and Silver Spring 9-4 and 6-0, is the first team outside of Baltimore to represent the Old Line State since 1934 when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 of this city swept everything to cop national honors in Chicago.

Maryland's first national championship team was B. & O. Post, Baltimore, in 1930.

will start a veteran eleven, which in three weeks of training at Bowling Green, Ohio, has rounded into almost championship condition.

Graham's pass targets will be Mac Speedie and Dante Lavelli, sensational ends, plus the offensive halfbacks. Graham will receive needed protection from a shifty, hard blocking line that will outweigh the collegians.

Coach Herman Hickman of Yale has put his all-stars through a three weeks' rugged practice period at their training base, Delafield, Wis.

Hickman will pin his hopes on the performances of Kyle Rote, dashing Southern Methodist halfback, a solid 200-pounder, and Wilwred "Whizzer" White, Arizona halfback, who led the nation in rushing last fall with 1,502 yards in ten games.

Don Dufek, Michigan, and Sonny Grandelius, Michigan State, will carry the offensive burden at fullback.

The stars have excellent men to return kicks and to defend against deep passes. Chuck Ortman, Michigan and Ken Konz, Louisiana State, are specialists in this department.

Williams At Quarter

Notre Dame's Bob Williams and Fran Nagle, Nebraska, each a superlative forward passer, will direct the team from quarterback.

Jerry Groom, Notre Dame center, who shares the leadership of the Collegians with Bud Mc Fadin, Texas, is regarded as a superior player. Bob Gain, Kentucky tackle, and Al Carapella, a tackle, Miami, are other merited players.

The All-Stars have an unusual group of pass receivers. Bucky Curtis, Vanderbilt, is one of the greatest pass receivers in collegiate history. At the other end the All-Stars will have Bob Wilkinson, who broke records at UCLA. Don Stonesifer of Northwestern, holder of the Big Ten pass catching record for one game; Alan Pfeifer, Fordham, and Henry Minarik, Michigan State, are also outstanding receivers.

Market Advances Slightly With Railroads Exception

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—In its second straight day of recovery, the stock market advanced moderately today, but the rise was hampered by several tired areas.

Steels, motors, oils, utilities, rubbers, radio-television, and aircrafts all made good progress, and there were a number of outstanding individual performers.

The railroads were prominent because of their inability to hold to their early gains. And there was a lot of profit-taking in chemicals and gold mining shares.

American Telephone hit a new high of 162⅜ and closed up 1¾ at 162⅛. It was the 13th most active issue.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue up ⅝ at 22⅜. It was closely followed by International Telephone up ⅛ at 17¼.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $96.70 with the industrial component up 40 cents, rails down 10 cents, and utilities up 20 cents.

The volume of trading expanded to 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,340,000 shares yesterday. The breadth of the market also expanded to 1,112 individual issues traded against 1,070 issues yesterday. There were 625 stocks advancing and 240 declining with 40 new highs and only two new lows for the year.

The strength of the market was shown by the fact that only one of the 15 most active issues declined—Warner Bros. down ⅛ at 14⅛.

Following Radio and International Telephone in the list were Benguet Mining up ⅛ at 1¾, Standard Oil of Ohio up 1⅜ at 42⅝, Canadian Pacific (which has big oil holdings) up ¼ at 28, Fedders-Quigan up ⅝ at 12⅞, and Remington Rand up ⅜ at 20⅛.

Dickson Given Promotion In Engineer Corps

Will Join North Atlantic Division

Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project, has been promoted to construction management engineer in the North Atlantic Division of the Corps of Engineers.

He will leave here August 24 for a two-weeks vacation before reporting to New York September 10 to assume his new duties.

The work will include setting up construction procedures on projects undertaken in the North Atlantic area.

Dickson and three other members of the staff of the Corps of Engineers here were honored last night at a dinner at Minke's, Christie Road.

They were W. Earl Minnicks, inspector on the flood project, who is to be assigned to Okinawa with the Corps of Engineers.

James C. Riple, inspector, who is being transferred to Camp Ritchie construction work.

Harry Dowin, inspector, who is also to go to Camp Ritchie.

Here Since 1949

Dickson came to Cumberland in March, 1949, as project engineer for the local flood control project and has seen the work through virtually all of its first two phases.

After graduating from Columbia University in 1922, Dickson worked for seven years at the Fairchild Engineering Corporation, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., then became superintendent of highways in Eastchester, N. Y., later serving in the real estate division of Westchester County.

After joining the Corps of Engineers in 1936, he was assistant resident engineer on the Whitney Point Dam in New York.

His next job, was field engineer on the $17,000,000 bomber base at Syracuse, N. Y. Working on a round-the-clock schedule, the work was completed in 12 weeks.

On Hospital Job

He next went to Utica, N. Y., where he was field engineer for the construction of the $10,000,000 job of building Rhodes General Hospital.

At West Point Military Academy, he superivsed the construction of Polalopan Dam and Thayer Hotel and then went to New York to help build the Almond Dam with Donald E. Mather, who retired here recently after serving as area engineer.

Following a brief period in civilian work with a Fago Construction Corporation, and a big housing project at Rockville, Md., Dickson was recalled to government service in 1948 as an expert for the government in a $759,000,000 construction claim.

Following this work, he came to Cumberland to become resident engineer for the huge flood control job.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson live at 400 Washington Street.

Reds Seek New Bail Reduction

Judge To Consider Petition Of Three

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 — (AP) — Three Communists charged with conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government today took up a Federal Judge's offer to further reduce their bail.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut lowered the bails from $75,000 to $20,000 on Tuesday. He added that if they couldn't obtain that much money he would consider a petition for less.

Mrs. Philip Frankfeld, Roy Wood and George Meyers, now in Baltimore City jail, asked for such consideration.

The three were among six arrested recently by the FBI. They all have had connections with the Communist Party in Maryland.

Maurice Braverman, an attorney in Communist court suits, was released when he furnished $5,000 bond, lowered from $75,000 by Judge Chesnut.

The other two are Mrs. Frankfeld's husband and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg. They were arrested in New York and are being brought here. Frankfeld's bail is $30,000 and Mrs. Blumberg's $20,000.

U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn announced he will oppose any further bail reduction. He said it already has been "cut to an irreducible minimum."

Delegate See Arrives Here With New Seeing-Eye Dog

Charles M. See, Allegany County's sightless member of the House of Delegates, arrived at Queen City Station about 5:30 p. m. yesterday and stepped off of B&O Train No. 9 with a brand new pair of eyes.

The eyes belong to Mady, 29-month old German Shepherd dog, which See acquired during four weeks of intensive training at Seeing Eye Incorporated near Morristown, N. J.

See, who has been a member of the House of Delegates since his first successful election in 1938, left Cumberland for New Jersey July 21.

Dog Is Well Trained

Since that time See has been undergoing a rigid training program with his new dog. When he left the train here yesterday he explained that his day in New Jersey began at 6 a. m. and ended about 8 p. m. He appeared to have lost some weight while away although he hadn't been checked on the scales since his departure from Cumberland.

Mady, the legislator's new dog, seemed to be friendly with See's wife and other relatives who met him at the station. However, Charles cautioned all of them not to touch the dog's harness. She has been taught that the harness belongs only to her and her master. See observed that she almost bit one friendly man on the train who unintentionally touched the harness.

The local man was one of 22 students at the school in New Jersey the past four weeks. They were divided into three different classes. He was in a class which included three men and three women. See remarked that they came from about 15 states and Canada's pro-

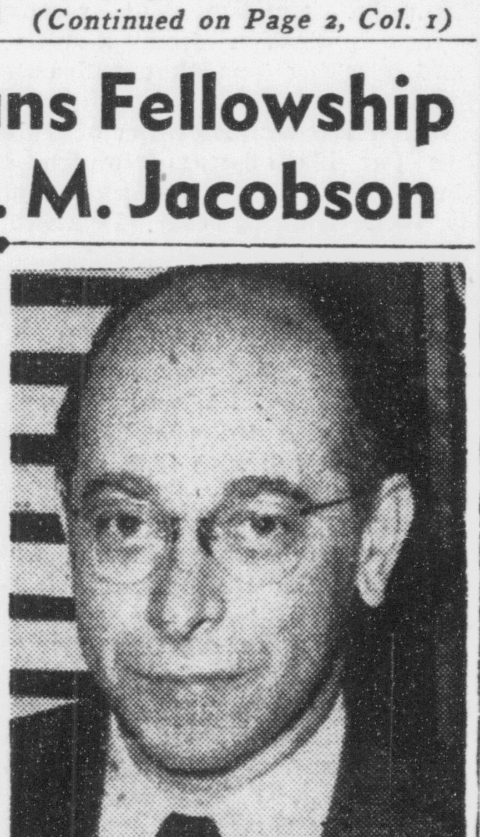
He will go to Chicago in June, 1952, to officially accept his Fellowship in ceremonies planned there, although his membership in the select medical group is effective immediately.

Dr. Jacobson, whose offices are located at 50 Pershing Street, has been a practicing physician here for over 15 years. He is a native of Baltimore and was graduated from City College of Baltimore high school before studying medicine at the University of Maryland.

He was graduated from the university's school of pharmacy and studied at the College Park school of medicine where he graduated in the class of 1931.

Several years ago Dr. Jacobson was inducted a Fellow in the American College of Physicians at a convocation in New York City and has contributed numerous medical articles and literature toward this Fellowship.

In addition Dr. Jacobson holds a Fellowship of the American College of Cardiology and is a diplomat of the American Board of Internal Medicine.



DR. S. M. JACOBSON

A member of the medical advisory board of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, of which he is the founder and a past president, Dr. Jacobson recently received his membership card in the International Society of Internal Medicine.

This latter group of medical men meets once every two years in different countries throughout the world, Dr. Jacobson explained, and will meet in London, England, in 1952. YMCA Rec Club Elects Council And Officers

Francis Aronholt Heads Teen-Agers

Election of Council members and officers of Central YMCA's Rec Club was held with the teen-age organization naming Francis Aronholt president for the coming school year, Winfield H. Adam, executive secretary of the "Y", said last night.

The club, chartered in October of 1943, is one of the oldest groups in the city for children between the ages of 14 and 18 and has been operating continuously since 1943.

12 Council Members

Besides the president, Marian Lippel was named secretary, Mary Hafer, assistant treasurer, and Nancy Hamilton, treasurer.

The organization is operated by an elected council of 12 members, six from Fort Hill High School and six from Allegany High School. Three members from each school must be boys and the other three from each school must be girls, Adam explained.

The Rec Club holds its election of council members each year in July and the council in turn names its presiding officers. Members of the council serve from election until they are graduated from high school, while the presiding officials are named for one year only.

The recent council election found eight new members taking office with four holdover councilors. Returning to the council are Francis Aronholt, Donna Cochenour, Marian Lippel, and Diane Warden.

Eight Councilmen Named

Newly elected councilmen are Eddie Andrews, Jim Mulligan, Jo Ann Blamble, Mary Hafer, Nancy Hamilton, Gene Alderton, Mike Smith and Bill Swarer. These eight councilmen were selected on a ballot which contained 16 names with any member in good standing in the YMCA club eligible to cast votes.

The first Rec affair under supervision of the new council will be held tonight at the "Y" with dancing to music by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra. Mothers of council members will act as chaperones.

Among the regularly scheduled activities of the club which meets each Friday night are bowling, dancing, movies, lobby games and other attractions.

Adam said attendance in 1950 for these Rec Club affairs totaled approximately 10,000 teen-agers.

Weather

Lazily relaxed along a cool mountain stream under a shady tree was probably the wish of the average Cumberlander yesterday. Residents of the Queen City sweltered in the heat of the second hottest afternoon of the season. The high temperature registered at the weather station in Constitution Park was 96, the low 63 and at 8 o'clock last night mercury registered 81 degrees. The humidity at the same time was 55 per cent. Relief is in sight according to the forecaster. Today the weatherman promises fair weather but not quite so warm.

Juvenile Court Jurisdiction Is Challenged

Writ Filed Against Magistrate Thompson

A contention that Allegany County Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson acted without jurisdiction and in violation of a section of the Public Local Laws of Maryland was set forth in a petition and affidavit for a writ of certiorari filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The equity case was filed for Robert W. Moorehead, who had been convicted of non-support. It was filed by his attorney, William L. Wilson, Jr.

Court Order Filed

Also filed with the petition and affidavit was an order from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris calling upon the clerk of court to issue a writ of certiorari, stipulating that the writ be served upon Magistrate Thompson on or before August 20 and that the matter included in the petition be heard in Circuit Court at 10 a. m. August 28. The court clerk issued the writ yesterday.

In his petition, Wilson listed recent events involving his client. He said that last November 3 Moorehead was tried before former Juvenile Court Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem on a charge of non-support of his wife, Betty L. Moorehead, and a two-year old daughter. Magistrate Stakem, the petition states, sentenced Moorehead to six months in the Maryland House of Correction, but placed him on parole provided that he pay $13.50 per week for the support of his wife and child.

On March 9 of this year Betty L. Moorehead filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking a divorce and alimony. That case still is pending. Moorehead was brought before Magistrate Thompson July 2 on a charge of violating his parole. On that date, the petition continues, Moorehead was found guilty but again was paroled. On July 23 Moorehead again was brought before Magistrate Thompson on a charge of violating his parole and this time was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Charges Cited

Wilson contended that Magistrate Thompson was without jurisdiction to handle the cases against Moorehead either on July 2 or July 23 in view of the fact that the equity case of March 9 in Circuit Court still was pending. He further asserts that Magistrate Thompson violated Section 374AA of Article 1 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland by failure to inform Moorehead of his right to trial by jury.

Moorehead is confined in the County jail.

State PSC Fails To Restrict Use Of Natural Gas

Cumberland Area Under Curtailment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—Maryland's Public Service Commission today took the state out from under natural gas restrictions laid down yesterday by the Federal Government.

It was done by adopting a resolution which said:

"This commission has the authority to restrict the use of natural gas and is exercising that authority to the extent necessary to accomplish the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950."

Virginia Serves Notice

The Petroleum Administration for defense announced in Washington yesterday it would restrict the expansion of natural gas for house heating and some commercial uses in 15 eastern states. The purpose is to save natural gas for defense.

It was done under the powers PAD was given in the Defense Production Act. The act has a provision, however, that the Federal Government cannot issue such a regulation where state commissions have the necessary authority and exercise it.

Virginia already has served notice it would not abide by the Federal regulations. A spokesman for the West Virginia Public Service Commission said today it objects to the order.

So far, the Maryland Commission has taken no action on its own motion to head off expansion of natural gas use in the state.

Utility companies servicing the Hagerstown and Cumberland areas have imposed restrictions on their customers with the approval of the commission.

Promote Gas Equipment

Pending before the commission is a petition by an affiliate of the Columbia Gas System asking the commission to force the Washington Gas Light Company to curtail expansion of its service in Maryland.

Washington Gas Light buys natural gas wholesale from the Columbia Gas System and distributes it in the Maryland suburbs of Washington.

Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, which serves Baltimore and a large surrounding area, last year converted its system to natural gas bought from Columbia. The gas company and dealers in heating equipment ever since had been carrying on an extensive advertising campaign to promote installation of gas heating equipment in new homes and conversion of coal and oil furnaces to gas.

Flood Control ChannelWork Set In April

Hull Is Slated To Head Project

The third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project is slated to get underway here by next April.

The job will include widening and deepening the bed of Wills Creek. Construction will begin in the Narrows.

On the basis of the $1,000,000 alloted to the project by a Senate vote Wednesday, some $700,000 would be available for actual construction.

Since all of the work on the next phase will be concentrated in a relatively small area, the Corps of Engineers is planning to assign only a few men to supervise the work.

In general, the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, is planning to use local men on the job.

Slated as resident engineer for the phase is Walter L. Hull, with John H. Kington as assistant engineer. Both of the men will probably serve also as inspectors, with Arthur R. Tyler as full time inspector.

The first phase of the work, begun early in 1949, consisted chiefly of sewer and flood conduit work at a cost of about $319,000.

The present phase, which is slated for completion early in December, will cost about $1,890,000.

One part of the project, the Valley Street work, is virtually completed.

The $500,000 Valley Street job was begun January 16, 1950. It includes a large detention dam to collect surface water in that area and large pressure conduits leading to a huge outlet structure at the Valley Street bridge.

The Cumberland Contracting Company this week began resurfacing Valley Street, which has been torn up during the heavy construction work.

Beeman Held For Grand Jury In Wife's Death

No Bond Is Set For Knife Slayer

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, of Midland, was taken to the Allegany County Jail to be held without bond for action of the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of murdering his 18-year-old wife, after he waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

The stocky prisoner, handcuffed and somber, was escorted to court by Deputy Sheriff William Chappell after going to the State's Attorney's office. State Police Criminal Investgator William F. Baker was also present.

Beeman did not stand when his name was called by Magistrate William J. Gunter. Dressed in blue jeans and a short-sleeved gray sport shirt, Beeman sat listening to Magistrate Gunter advise him, he could have a preliminary hearing to determine if the court should hold him "for the grand jury."

He was also told that he could waive a hearing and be committed to jail for action of the October term of Circuit Court.

"I'll waive it, sir," Beeman said.

Hagerstown Man Is Named New "Y" Program Secretary

R. L. Lewis Assumes His Duties Sept. 1

Ralph L. Lewis, Hagerstown, has been appointed new program secretary of Central YMCA, effective September 1, Lynn C. Lashley, president, announced last night.

Lewis, a veteran of three years in the army, has had considerable experience in YMCA program work, Lashley said, and will have charge of all programs other than the physical department at the local "Y".

Native Of New Jersey

His work, a new department in the Cumberland organization, will consist of general program duties, activities with the Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y and the furthering and betterment of the Y's youth development, Lashley continued.

A native of Irvington, N. J., Lewis is married and the father of two daughters, one six years old and the other three months. He received his bachelor of arts from Columbia University in 1936 and took graduate work at Teachers College at Columbia and the University of Chicago.

Lewis's experience in YMCA work includes head of boys program and club work at Elizabeth, N. J., YMCA; assistant boys' work secretary at the "Y" in Washington, D. C., from September, 1938 to November, 1943.

Hi-Y Conference Leader

He did special assignment work in boys' department in a new YMCA building in Duluth, Minn., and returned to Washington as the head of the central branch program there. In May of 1948 he became the program secretary of the Hagerstown YMCA. Lewis served in the Pacific Theater of Operations from November, 1943 to October, 1946 as assistant chief in the information and education section of headquarters with the rank of master sergeant.

The new program secretary is a member of the Hagerstown Optimist Club and served on Boy Scout training council in Hagerstown district at one time. One of his first duties here will be the continuance of his work as conference leader for the fifth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y officers training camp at Pleasant Valley Camp near Grantsville, September 7, 8 and 9.

Budget Calling For $1.31 City Tax Rate Is Proposed

Formal Action On Plan Slated Monday

The Mayor and Council will vote formally Monday on a 1951-53 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31.

Three of the five members of the body indicated approval of the figures calling for a four cent boost in the tax rate yesterday after Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, presented the data at an executive meeting.

The other two members asked to be allowed further time to study the proposed ordinance setting the levy for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The new tax rate actually will use only four and three-fourths of the five cent boost authorized by the General Assembly which granted wage boosts to police and firemen and provided for the transfer of fire department personnel into the state pension system.

The city, in carrying out the intent of the Assembly after the bill was vetoed by the governor, is actually spending slightly more than the levy boost granted by the state, officials said.

The tax rate was kept at the $1.31 mark by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service, officials said.

Other Boosts Provided

The new budget will also provide for an increase in pay for other city employes.

In order to keep within the 95-cent operating limit as permitted by Maryland law, other expenses have been pared. The contingent fund, which allows for $25,000, has been cut to $16,595.59. In the current budget, $22,000 is provided in the contingent fund.

The budget for the Recreation Department is $21,000. This is an increase of a $1,000 over what had been planned. In addition to the $21,000, the Recreation Department also has access to various receipts, such as those taken in at Constitution Park and Penn Avenue Field. The department received $3900,0 last year

Increase For Police

The biggest appropriation increase in the new budget goes to the Police Department. Under the proposed budget, the Police Department will receive $179,000 as compared to $162,000 provided by the past appropriation.

Salaries will cost about $11,500 more than last year. Included is $1,000 for a Radar speed meter, $1,500 for traffic lights, $1,000 for FBI training for one man, $2,000 for auto replacement and a uniform allowance.

The Fire Departmet budget will go up to $166,406 from last year's $159,000, chiefly as a result of salary boosts.

The budget does not, however, include funds for equipment replacement. Last year, $15,000 was provided for a new fire truck.

The Street and Alley and Street Paving fund total $116,500 in order to take advantage of $58,000 of state shared income which must be matched and must be used for that purpose.

The operation of the City Warehouse is cut $2,000.

Will Raise $855,430

Altogether, the new tax rate will raise $855,430 for city coffers. Bank stock revenue amounts to $13,000 and other forms of revenue are anticipated follow:

Allegany county, $7,630; general licenses, $63,000; general and special income, $38,000; interest on taxes, $3,000; permits, $1,800; police fines, $16,000; weights, $400; bingo tax, $12,000; state admission tax, $4,500; state auto license fees, $23,000; state franchise tax, $1,800; state gasoline and auto tax, $58,000; state income tax, $40,000; state racing income, $40,000; surplus, $85,000. This gives a total budget figure of $1,262,560.

Frostburg Man Hurt

J. W. Shea, 77, of 73 West Main Street, Frostburg, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday. He was transferred from Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Hospital attaches said Shea fell off a 15-foot high roof while painting, and suffered possible skull and leg fractures. His condition was reported as fairly good.

Mercury Soars To 96, Second Time This Year

Mercury soared to a high of 96 yesterday afternoon marking the second time this year such a recording has been registered at Constitution Park. The afternoon was sweltering and the residents of Cumberland sought every means of relief from the heat.

On July 22 the thermometer registered 96 and on July 27 the mercury soared to 95 and humidity which was 71 per cent caused that date to be the most uncomfortable day of the year. The mercury also stood at 95 on two other days this year, June 3 and August 15.

Some relief is in sight though and the weatherman promises fair weather today but not qute as warm.

Youths Waive Indictment In Crime Series

Action May Speed Brothers' Trial

A petition and suggestion agreeing to waive indictment was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday for wto teen-age brothers accused with two other youths in a series of crimes in the Westernport area.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., attorney for Paul Russell Taylor, 15, and William David Taylor, 18, agreed in his petition to try the cases on criminal informations, supplied by the state's attorney, but provided that the cases are tried by petit jury.

It is expected that the waiving of indictment will enable the cases to be tried later this month or early in September rather than having to wait until the next grand jury meets October 1, court attaches noted.

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, said Edward J Ryan, the attorney for two other youths charged in the same cases, has also agreed to submit the cases to court on criminal information. No date has been set as yet for the hearings.

Besides the Taylor brothers, the accused are John Francis Humes, 15, of Kolberg Hill, Westernport, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25, of Westernport. The two Taylors are also of Westernport, but William David Taylor has been serving a three-year term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for attempted arson at the Harris Powder Company near Westernport.

The four youths were held as a result of lie detector tests taken earlier this month.

Hearing of the cases on information will make unnecessary the calling of the grand jury as first contemplated. Three murder cases are scheduled for the October term and the state's attorney's office had felt that the recall of the grand jury would be required in order to avoid a jam at the session.

Woman Injures Arm

A Cumberland housewife was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday for injuries received when she caught her arm in the wringer of a washing machine.

Chief Virgil A. Parker and Louis Hartung of the city fire department answered an emergency call at 10:23 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Willard Weisenberg, 401 Springdale Street, but she had been released upon their arrival.

Dickson Given Promotion In Engineer Corps

Will Join North Atlantic Division

Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project, has been promoted to construction management engineer in the North Atlantic Division of the Corps of Engineers.

He will leave here August 24 for a two-weeks vacation before reporting to New York September 10 to assume his new duties.

The work will include setting up construction procedures on projects undertaken in the North Atlantic area.

Dickson and three other members of the staff of the Corps of Engineers here were honored last night at a dinner at Minke's, Christie Road.

They were W. Earl Minnicks, inspector on the flood project, who is to be assigned to Okinawa with the Corps of Engineers.

James C. Riple, inspector, who is being transferred to Camp Ritchie construction work.

Harry Dowin, inspector, who is also to go to Camp Ritchie.

Here Since 1949

Dickson came to Cumberland in March, 1949, as project engineer for the local flood control project and has seen the work through virtually all of its first two phases.

After graduating from Columbia University in 1922, Dickson worked for seven years at the Fairchild Engineering Corporation, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., then became superintendent of highways in Eastchester, N. Y., later serving in the real estate division of Westchester County.

After joining the Corps of Engineers in 1936, he was assistant resident engineer on the Whitney Point Dam in New York.

His next job, was field engineer on the $17,000,000 bomber base at Syracuse, N. Y. Working on a round-the-clock schedule, the work was completed in 12 weeks.

On Hospital Job

He next went to Utica, N. Y., where he was field engineer for the construction of the $10,000,000 job of building Rhodes General Hospital.

At West Point Military Academy, he superivsed the construction of Polalopan Dam and Thayer Hotel and then went to New York to help build the Almond Dam with Donald E. Mather, who retired here recently after serving as area engineer.

Following a brief period in civilian work with a Fago Construction Corporation, and a big housing project at Rockville, Md., Dickson was recalled to government service in 1948 as an expert for the government in a $759,000,000 construction claim.

Following this work, he came to Cumberland to become resident engineer for the huge flood control job.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson live at 400 Washington Street.

Reds Seek New Bail Reduction

Judge To Consider Petition Of Three

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 — (AP) — Three Communists charged with conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government today took up a Federal Judge's offer to further reduce their bail.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut lowered the bails from $75,000 to $20,000 on Tuesday. He added that if they couldn't obtain that much money he would consider a petition for less.

Mrs. Philip Frankfeld, Roy Wood and George Meyers, now in Baltimore City jail, asked for such consideration.

The three were among six arrested recently by the FBI. They all have had connections with the Communist Party in Maryland.

Maurice Braverman, an attorney in Communist court suits, was released when he furnished $5,000 bond, lowered from $75,000 by Judge Chesnut.

The other two are Mrs. Frankfeld's husband and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg. They were arrested in New York and are being brought here. Frankfeld's bail is $30,000 and Mrs. Blumberg's $20,000.

U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn announced he will oppose any further bail reduction. He said it already has been "cut to an irreducible minimum."

Delegate See Arrives Here With New Seeing-Eye Dog

Charles M. See, Allegany County's sightless member of the House of Delegates, arrived at Queen City Station about 5:30 p. m. yesterday and stepped off of B&O Train No. 9 with a brand new pair of eyes.

The eyes belong to Mady, 29-month old German Shepherd dog, which See acquired during four weeks of intensive training at Seeing Eye Incorporated near Morristown, N. J.

See, who has been a member of the House of Delegates since his first successful election in 1938, left Cumberland for New Jersey July 21.

Dog Is Well Trained

Since that time See has been undergoing a rigid training program with his new dog. When he left the train here yesterday he explained that his day in New Jersey began at 6 a. m. and ended about 8 p. m. He appeared to have lost some weight while away although he hadn't been checked on the scales since his departure from Cumberland.

Mady, the legislator's new dog, seemed to be friendly with See's wife and other relatives who met him at the station. However, Charles cautioned all of them not to touch the dog's harness. She has been taught that the harness belongs only to her and her master. See observed that she almost bit one friendly man on the train who unintentionally touched the harness.

The local man was one of 22 students at the school in New Jersey the past four weeks. They were divided into three different classes. He was in a class which included three men and three women. See remarked that they came from about 15 states and Canada's pro-

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, local heart and chest specialist, has been notified by the Board of Regents that he has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Chest Physicians.

He will go to Chicago in June, 1952, to officially accept his Fellowship in ceremonies planned there, although his membership in the select medical group is effective immediately.

In addition Dr. Jacobson holds a Fellowship of the American College of Cardiology and is a diplomat of the American Board of Internal Medicine.

DR. S. M. JACOBSON

A member of the medical advisory board of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, of which he is the founder and a past president, Dr. Jacobson recently received his membership card in the International Society of Internal Medicine.

YMCA Rec Club Elects Council And Officers

Francis Aronholt Heads Teen-Agers

Election of Council members and officers of Central YMCA's Rec Club was held with the teen-age organization naming Francis Aronholt president for the coming school year, Winfield H. Adam, executive secretary of the "Y", said last night.

The club, chartered in October of 1943, is one of the oldest groups in the city for children between the ages of 14 and 18 and has been operating continuously since 1943.

12 Council Members

Besides the president, Marian Lippel was named secretary, Mary Hafer, assistant treasurer, and Nancy Hamilton, treasurer.

The organization is operated by an elected council of 12 members, six from Fort Hill High School and six from Allegany High School. Three members from each school must be boys and the other three from each school must be girls, Adam explained.

The Rec Club holds its election of council members each year in July and the council in turn names its presiding officers. Members of the council serve from election until they are graduated from high school, while the presiding officials are named for one year only.

The recent council election found eight new members taking office with four holdover councilors. Returning to the council are Francis Aronholt, Donna Cochenour, Marian Lippel, and Diane Warden.

Eight Councilmen Named

Newly elected councilmen are Eddie Andrews, Jim Mulligan, Jo Ann Blamble, Mary Hafer, Nancy Hamilton, Gene Alderton, Mike Smith and Bill Swarer. These eight councilmen were selected on a ballot which contained 16 names with any member in good standing in the YMCA club eligible to cast votes.

The first Rec affair under supervision of the new council will be held tonight at the "Y" with dancing to music by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra. Mothers of council members will act as chaperones.

Among the regularly scheduled activities of the club which meets each Friday night are bowling, dancing, movies, lobby games and other attractions.

Adam said attendance in 1950 for these Rec Club affairs totaled approximately 10,000 teen-agers.

Weather

Lazily relaxed along a cool mountain stream under a shady tree was probably the wish of the average Cumberlander yesterday. Residents of the Queen City sweltered in the heat of the second hottest afternoon of the season. The high temperature registered at the weather station in Constitution Park was 96, the low 63 and at 8 o'clock last night mercury registered 81 degrees. The humidity at the same time was 55 per cent. Relief is in sight according to the forecaster. Today the weatherman promises fair weather but not quite so warm.

Juvenile Court Jurisdiction Is Challenged

Writ Filed Against Magistrate Thompson

A contention that Allegany County Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson acted without jurisdiction and in violation of a section of the Public Local Laws of Maryland was set forth in a petition and affidavit for a writ of certiorari filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The equity case was filed for Robert W. Moorehead, who had been convicted of non-support. It was filed by his attorney, William L. Wilson, Jr.

Court Order Filed

Also filed with the petition and affidavit was an order from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris calling upon the clerk of court to issue a writ of certiorari, stipulating that the writ be served upon Magistrate Thompson on or before August 20 and that the matter included in the petition be heard in Circuit Court at 10 a. m. August 28. The court clerk issued the writ yesterday.

In his petition, Wilson listed recent events involving his client. He said that last November 3 Moorehead was tried before former Juvenile Court Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem on a charge of non-support of his wife, Betty L. Moorehead, and a two-year old daughter. Magistrate Stakem, the petition states, sentenced Moorehead to six months in the Maryland House of Correction, but placed him on parole provided that he pay $13.50 per week for the support of his wife and child.

On March 9 of this year Betty L. Moorehead filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking a divorce and alimony. That case still is pending. Moorehead was brought before Magistrate Thompson July 2 on a charge of violating his parole. On that date, the petition continues, Moorehead was found guilty but again was paroled. On July 23 Moorehead again was brought before Magistrate Thompson on a charge of violating his parole and this time was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Charges Cited

Wilson contended that Magistrate Thompson was without jurisdiction to handle the cases against Moorehead either on July 2 or July 23 in view of the fact that the equity case of March 9 in Circuit Court still was pending. He further asserts that Magistrate Thompson violated Section 374AA of Article 1 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland by failure to inform Moorehead of his right to trial by jury.

Moorehead is confined in the County jail.

Cumberland Area Under Curtailment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—Maryland's Public Service Commission today took the state out from under natural gas restrictions laid down yesterday by the Federal Government.

It was done by adopting a resolution which said:

"This commission has the authority to restrict the use of natural gas and is exercising that authority to the extent necessary to accomplish the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950."

Virginia Serves Notice

The Petroleum Administration for defense announced in Washington yesterday it would restrict the expansion of natural gas for house heating and some commercial uses in 15 eastern states. The purpose is to save natural gas for defense.

It was done under the powers PAD was given in the Defense Production Act. The act has a provision, however, that the Federal Government cannot issue such a regulation where state commissions have the necessary authority and exercise it.

Virginia already has served notice it would not abide by the Federal regulations. A spokesman for the West Virginia Public Service Commission said today it objects to the order.

So far, the Maryland Commission has taken no action on its own motion to head off expansion of natural gas use in the state.

Utility companies servicing the Hagerstown and Cumberland areas have imposed restrictions on their customers with the approval of the commission.

Promote Gas Equipment

Pending before the commission is a petition by an affiliate of the Columbia Gas System asking the commission to force the Washington Gas Light Company to curtail expansion of its service in Maryland.

Washington Gas Light buys natural gas wholesale from the Columbia Gas System and distributes it in the Maryland suburbs of Washington.

Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, which serves Baltimore and a large surrounding area, last year converted its system to natural gas bought from Columbia. The gas company and dealers in heating equipment ever since had been carrying on an extensive advertising campaign to promote installation of gas heating equipment in new homes and conversion of coal and oil furnaces to gas.

Flood Control Channel Work Set In April

Hull Is Slated To Head Project

The third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project is slated to get underway here by next April.

The job will include widening and deepening the bed of Wills Creek. Construction will begin in the Narrows.

On the basis of the $1,000,000 alloted to the project by a Senate vote Wednesday, some $700,000 would be available for actual construction.

Since all of the work on the next phase will be concentrated in a relatively small area, the Corps of Engineers is planning to assign only a few men to supervise the work.

In general, the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, is planning to use local men on the job.

Slated as resident engineer for the phase is Walter L. Hull, with John H. Kington as assistant engineer. Both of the men will probably serve also as inspectors, with Arthur R. Tyler as full time inspector.

The first phase of the work, begun early in 1949, consisted chiefly of sewer and flood conduit work at a cost of about $319,000.

The present phase, which is slated for completion early in December, will cost about $1,890,000.

One part of the project, the Valley Street work, is virtually completed.

The $500,000 Valley Street job was begun January 16, 1950. It includes a large detention dam to collect surface water in that area and large pressure conduits leading to a huge outlet structure at the Valley Street bridge.

The Cumberland Contracting Company this week began resurfacing Valley Street, which has been torn up during the heavy construction work.

No Bond Is Set For Knife Slayer

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, of Midland, was taken to the Allegany County Jail to be held without bond for action of the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of murdering his 18-year-old wife, after he waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

The stocky prisoner, handcuffed and somber, was escorted to court by Deputy Sheriff William Chappell after going to the State's Attorney's office. State Police Criminal Investgator William F. Baker was also present.

Beeman did not stand when his name was called by Magistrate William J. Gunter. Dressed in blue jeans and a short-sleeved gray sport shirt, Beeman sat listening to Magistrate Gunter advise him, he could have a preliminary hearing to determine if the court should hold him "for the grand jury."

He was also told that he could waive a hearing and be committed to jail for action of the October term of Circuit Court.

"I'll waive it, sir," Beeman said.

Hagerstown Man Is Named New "Y" Program Secretary

Ralph L. Lewis, Hagerstown, has been appointed new program secretary of Central YMCA, effective September 1, Lynn C. Lashley, president, announced last night.

Lewis, a veteran of three years in the army, has had considerable experience in YMCA program work, Lashley said, and will have charge of all programs other than the physical department at the local "Y".

Native Of New Jersey

His work, a new department in the Cumberland organization, will consist of general program duties, activities with the Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y and the furthering and betterment of the Y's youth development, Lashley continued.

A native of Irvington, N. J., Lewis is married and the father of two daughters, one six years old and the other three months. He received his bachelor of arts from Columbia University in 1936 and took graduate work at Teachers College at Columbia and the University of Chicago.

Lewis's experience in YMCA work includes head of boys program and club work at Elizabeth, N. J., YMCA; assistant boys' work secretary at the "Y" in Washington, D. C., from September, 1938 to November, 1943.

Hi-Y Conference Leader

He did special assignment work in boys' department in a new YMCA building in Duluth, Minn., and returned to Washington as the head of the central branch program there. In May of 1948 he became the program secretary of the Hagerstown YMCA. Lewis served in the Pacific Theater of Operations from November, 1943 to October, 1946 as assistant chief in the information and education section of headquarters with the rank of master sergeant.

The new program secretary is a member of the Hagerstown Optimist Club and served on Boy Scout training council in Hagerstown district at one time. One of his first duties here will be the continuance of his work as conference leader for the fifth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y officers training camp at Pleasant Valley Camp near Grantsville, September 7, 8 and 9.

Budget Calling For $1.31 City Tax Rate Is Proposed

Formal Action On Plan Slated Monday

The Mayor and Council will vote formally Monday on a 1951-53 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31.

Three of the five members of the body indicated approval of the figures calling for a four cent boost in the tax rate yesterday after Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, presented the data at an executive meeting.

The other two members asked to be allowed further time to study the proposed ordinance setting the levy for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The new tax rate actually will use only four and three-fourths of the five cent boost authorized by the General Assembly which granted wage boosts to police and firemen and provided for the transfer of fire department personnel into the state pension system.

The city, in carrying out the intent of the Assembly after the bill was vetoed by the governor, is actually spending slightly more than the levy boost granted by the state, officials said.

The tax rate was kept at the $1.31 mark by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service, officials said.

Other Boosts Provided

The new budget will also provide for an increase in pay for other city employes.

In order to keep within the 95-cent operating limit as permitted by Maryland law, other expenses have been pared. The contingent fund, which allows for $25,000, has been cut to $16,595.59. In the current budget, $22,000 is provided in the contingent fund.

The budget for the Recreation Department is $21,000. This is an increase of a $1,000 over what had been planned. In addition to the $21,000, the Recreation Department also has access to various receipts, such as those taken in at Constitution Park and Penn Avenue Field.

The department received $3900,0 last year

Increase For Police

The biggest appropriation increase in the new budget goes to the Police Department. Under the proposed budget, the Police Department will receive $179,000 as compared to $162,000 provided by the past appropriation.

Salaries will cost about $11,500 more than last year. Included is $1,000 for a Radar speed meter, $1,500 for traffic lights, $1,000 for FBI training for one man, $2,000 for auto replacement and a uniform allowance.

The Fire Departmet budget will go up to $166,406 from last year's $159,000, chiefly as a result of salary boosts.

The budget does not, however, include funds for equipment replacement. Last year, $15,000 was provided for a new fire truck.

The Street and Alley and Street Paving fund total $116,500 in order to take advantage of $58,000 of state shared income which must be matched and must be used for that purpose.

The operation of the City Warehouse is cut $2,000.

Mercury Soars To 96, Second Time This Year

Mercury soared to a high of 96 yesterday afternoon marking the second time this year such a recording has been registered at Constitution Park. The afternoon was sweltering and the residents of Cumberland sought every means of relief from the heat.

On July 22 the thermometer registered 96 and on July 27 the mercury soared to 95 and humidity which was 71 per cent caused that date to be the most uncomfortable day of the year. The mercury also stood at 95 on two other days this year, June 3 and August 15.

Some relief is in sight though and the weatherman promises fair weather today but not qute as warm.

Youths Waive Indictment In Crime Series

Action May Speed Brothers' Trial

A petition and suggestion agreeing to waive indictment was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday for wto teen-age brothers accused with two other youths in a series of crimes in the Westernport area.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., attorney for Paul Russell Taylor, 15, and William David Taylor, 18, agreed in his petition to try the cases on criminal informations, supplied by the state's attorney, but provided that the cases are tried by petit jury.

It is expected that the waiving of indictment will enable the cases to be tried later this month or early in September rather than having to wait until the next grand jury meets October 1, court attaches noted.

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, said Edward J Ryan, the attorney for two other youths charged in the same cases, has also agreed to submit the cases to court on criminal information. No date has been set as yet for the hearings.

Besides the Taylor brothers, the accused are John Francis Humes, 15, of Kolberg Hill, Westernport, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25, of Westernport. The two Taylors are also of Westernport, but William David Taylor has been serving a three-year term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for attempted arson at the Harris Powder Company near Westernport.

The four youths were held as a result of lie detector tests taken earlier this month.

Hearing of the cases on information will make unnecessary the calling of the grand jury as first contemplated. Three murder cases are scheduled for the October term and the state's attorney's office had felt that the recall of the grand jury would be required in order to avoid a jam at the session.

Woman Injures Arm

A Cumberland housewife was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday for injuries received when she caught her arm in the wringer of a washing machine.

Chief Virgil A. Parker and Louis Hartung of the city fire department answered an emergency call at 10:23 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Willard Weisenberg, 401 Springdale Street, but she had been released upon their arrival.

Frostburg Man Hurt

J. W. Shea, 77, of 73 West Main Street, Frostburg, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday. He was transferred from Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Hospital attaches said Shea fell off a 15-foot high roof while painting, and suffered possible skull and leg fractures. His condition was reported as fairly good.

Weather Forecast

REDS REPORTED READY TO YIELD

U. S. Warns Russia It Cannot Overhaul Jap Peace Treaty

Note Is Obvious Move To Block Any Attempt To Wreck Pact Conference

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United States warned Russia today it cannot rewrite the Japanese peace treaty in the forthcoming conference at San Francisco. The action was an obvious move to block any Soviet attempt to wreck the conference by opening disruptive debate on treaty provisions.

Delivery of a formal American note in Moscow was announced by the State Department shortly after President Truman told a news conference he does not believe arrangements for the signing of the treaty—now set for September 8—can be upset by anyone.

Gromyko May Visit Truman

There were these other developments bearing on pre-conference plans:

1. Mr. Truman said Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who will head the U. S. S. R. delegation to San Francisco, is welcome to visit him if he desires. The Russian delegation will go to San Francisco by way of Washington.

2. Mr. Truman said Gen. Douglas MacArthur can address the treaty conference if he wants to. The State Department officially disclosed it has been considering possible participation by MacArthur in the conference but said nothing has been worked out. Authoritative informants said MacArthur first accepted then turned down a proposal that he attend. However, the matter is still considered open.

U. S., Philippines To Sign Pact

3. The United States and the Philippines announced that they have agreed on a mutual defense treaty to be signed early next month. It will commit each country to "act to meet the common dangers" in event of an attack on the other. Presumably the treaty will be signed at San Francisco in connection with the Japanese peace pact. Also to be signed are a security pact with Australia and New Zealand and a defense treaty with Japan.

The United States note to Russia was sent to prevent any misunderstanding by the Russians as to the nature of the San Francisco conference. It was worded with diplomatic politeness but it reflected a tough policy with respect to Russia's role in the meeting.

Chicago Police Seize Escaped Negro Murderer

Harry Williams Is Taken Without Fight

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP) — Police tonight seized Harry Williams, 20, negro slayer-rapist who killed a guard in an escape from the county jail Tuesday night.

Police said Williams was seized without a struggle on a South Side street car and was being taken to the detective bureau in a squad car.

The burly negro fugitive was seized by a homicide bureau squad led by Sergt. Vincent Cunningham.

He was seized shortly after the hunt for him turned to the far South Side. A distant relative there who nursed him as a baby told police he had come to her home.

Telephoned Police

The woman, Mrs. Addie Hearn, 44-year-old negro, said she telephoned police when she saw Williams ringing her doorbell at 11651 Church St. She said Williams fled when police cars raced up with sirens sounding.

"I'm positive it was Williams," she said. "I nursed him as a baby and knew him all his life."

Williams, 20, brawny negro rapist and killer who was scheduled to die in the electric chair Sept. 20, beat a guard to death Tuesday night and escaped from the county jail.

A friend of Williams reported earlier today he saw the fugitive in another neighborhood.

Shared Cab With Killer

Bennie Stewart, 21, a negro who said he went to school with the widely-hunted slayer, told police earlier he had shared a cab with Williams. He said Williams apparently did not recognize him. He added that he was "too scared" to speak until Williams left the cab.

Mrs. Edna K. Marshall, 40, mother of the fugitive, came here from her home in Cleveland.

"I want to do everything I can to make him give himself up," Mrs. Marshall told investigators. "He is criminally insane and should be sent to an institution."

Chambers Says Barnes And Field In Red Spy Ring

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Whittaker Chambers returned to Washington today to accuse Joseph Barnes, editor, and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist, of once being members of the Communist underground in the United States.

Testifying before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, Chambers said he got his information about the two men from the head of the underground, a Hungarian-born Red Agent named J. Peters. Peters fled the country several years ago.

Chambers was the government's star witness at the trial of Alger Hiss two years ago. Hiss, a former State Department official, was convicted of perjury for falsely denying that he turned over state secrets to a Red spy ring.

It was in 1937 or thereabouts, Chambers said today, that Peters told him that Field was a member of the underground unit of the American Communist Party which met in a house belonging to Field's mother on Central Park west in New York.

"In the unit with Field was Joseph Barnes," Chambers went on.

Bald Men Likely To Have More Sons, Scientist Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — If you're bald, mister, the chances are you'll have more boy children than girls, a scientist suggested today.

Dr. Marianne E. Bernstein, of the Instituto Di Statistiche in Rome, Italy, also came up with these views:

Fathers suffering from gout will probably have more girls than boys.

Men engaged in "aggressive, extrovert" occupations in which women have seldom become outstanding—such as soldiers, lawyers and businessmen — are probably more "male" than such guys as actors, artists and fiction writers.

And they'll probably have more male offspring than the chaps engaged in "introvert, retiring occupations" where women frequently have become big shots.

Dr. Bernstein reported in the technical journal "Science" that she believes that factors controlling the "sex-ratio" of offspring are identical with, or act through, facts which control a man's balance of male and female sex hormones.

(All men have both male and female hormones in their systems, but the male ones predominate. Dr. Bernstein's suggestion appears to be that the balance can be upset under certain conditions so that some men have more of the male hormones than others.)

Doctor Tells How Mistake Caused Two Lab Deaths

Overdose Of Wrong Drug Administered

VERMILLION, S. D., Aug. 16 (AP) —A 28-year-old doctor quietly told a cononer's jury today how he gave two "human guinea pigs" too large injections because he used the wrong drug by mistake. The two died Wednesday, 24 hours after they received injections in a laboratory test of sedative drugs.

Dr. Louis F. Michalek, University of South Dakota medical school researcher, said he thought he was using demerol, but found he had used methadon instead.

He said the normal dose of demerol is 100 to 150 milligrams. The normal injection of methadon is 10 milligrams. Dr. Michalek said he gave Jack Clifford, 30, a laboratory technician, and Mrs. Ardys Pearson, 26, a secretary, 100 milligrams each of methadon.

"Were the bottles labeled?" Martin Weeks, Jr., Clay County state's attorney asked him.

"Yes," Dr. Michalek replied.

"Did you read them?"

"Yes."

"Then how do you account for this mistake?"

"It's one of those things you can't account for," Dr. Michaelk replied softly. "You check it and then you just don't know how to account for it."

"How did you discover the error?" Weeks asked him.

"I realized the error within a five-minute period after giving Mrs. Pearson her injection," Dr. Michalek replied.

"I thought I had given these two people (Clifford and Mrs. Pearson) demerol. The third subject, Marge, (another secretary) was to receive methadon.

"I went to check the vials again to make sure I had the right one. I picked up the vial for the next subject and realized I had already used this drug. I went immediately to secure the antidotal drugs."

Dr. Michalek himself was to have been the fourth subject.

Weeks asked him why he was to have been last.

"It is common in this type of experiment," the doctor answered, "for the subject-operator to serve as the fourth subject. I was there alone and wanted to make sure the experiment was stabilized before I was under the influence of the drugs."

The two persons who died were volunteer, paid subjects. They were being paid 60 cents an hour.

South Korea Bills U. S. For $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — South Korea today presented the United States a bill for $100,000,000 for goods and services supplied to American fighting forces in Korea. Prompt payment was requested.

Dr. You Chan Yang, South Korean ambassador, told newsmen he appealed for the money during a call on Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

International Red Tape Snarls Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Two ex-servicemen accused of slaying their commander during a secret wartime mission into Italy seven years ago tonight denounced the charges.

The two men had been accused by the Defense Department of slaying Maj. William Holohan in a dispute over giving arms to Communist partisans. The department said $100,000 in gold, U. S. currency and Swiss francs was involved in Holohan's death.

Aldo (Ike) Icardi, a former lieutenant who was on the mission to Italy with Holohan, told reporters at Pittsburgh:

"The charges made against me are fantastic and I am confident that I shall be completely vindicated."

Former Sergeant Carl G. LoDolce said in Rochester, N. Y.:

"I am absolutely innocent of any charge made against me in connection with the case."

U. S. Law Bans Legal Moves

The Defense Department issued a memorandum to the press yesterday on the case, which has become snarled in a tangle of international red tape.

Any legal moves against the two men are forbidden by law in the United States and Italian authorities have taken no action to extradite them for trial in Italy.

The three men involved in the strange case were all members of an OSS (Office of Strategic Services) mission to Italy.

Icardi said "the Defense Department has never confronted me with the charges it now makes."

"The Defense Department," he added, "admits that it has no jurisdiction whatsoever in this matter and its unprecedented 'trial by press and radio' violates the most elemental concepts of justice and due process."

LoDolce said he would "fight to the utmost" an attempt to extradite him to Italy.

Will Repudiate "Confession"

His attorney said that "an alleged confession" reportedly obtained from LoDolce in the presence of Army intelligence officers and Rochester police in mid-1950 would be repudiated.

In Middletown, Conn., a one-time superior officer of the accused men came to their defense. Former Maj. Biagio Corvo, now publisher of a weekly Italian paper, said the two "did some of the finest intelligence work of the war and would never kill for money."

In New York, the editor of True magazine — which is publishing a story of the Holohan slaying in its September issue — issued a statement saying government officials "by every device at their command x x x tried to keep the story from reaching the public."

Bank Head Held In $600,000 Theft

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A 40-year old bank president today was charged with stealing $600,000 from the bank which was the only employer he ever had.

Charged is Ludwig R. Schlekat of the Parnassus National Bank in this industrial community near Pittsburgh. U. S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass, Jr., fixed his bail at $50,000 and remanded him to jail when the banker could not make the bond.

A federal banking official, who asked he not be named, said Schlekat admitted the defalcations—which extended over a 16-year period. The official said the money, eaten up by bad investments, was obtained through manipulation of accounts.

Schlekat, president since 1947, went to work for the bank upon graduation from high school in 1928. He is a prominent church and civic leader.

He is charged with making a false entry, according to information filed by the FBI. The complaint said Schlekat entered a cash balance of $719,651 on August 6, 1951, when the true balance was $119,651.

Schlekat did not enter a plea before the commissioner.

Truman, If He Runs, Would Welcome Douglas' Support

Declares Jap Treaty Plans Won't Be Upset

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman said today that if he runs again in 1952 he will welcome the support of Sen. Douglas (D-Ill).

He threw no further light on his intentions. A bit irritated, he told reporters at a news conference that there are plenty of things more important to talk about now.

He said there are plenty of people ambitious to be President, but they don't know what they are getting into. He would not name them.

From politics, newsmen turned to foreign affairs, but they returned to presidential prospects later despite the President's admonition that they were working on politics to the vanishing point.

Jap Treaty To Be Signed

Mr. Truman said the Japanese peace treaty will be signed next month in San Francisco and the arrangements will not be upset by anybody. This was in response to a question whether he believed Russia's intention to attend would "damage" the signing prospects.

He said he has no objection to Gen. Douglas MacArthur addressing the treaty conference if the State Department wants to invite him

A reporter recalled that Truman had recently said he did not think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Noting that Sen. Douglas has said he is not a candidate, the reporter asked the President: "Who is left besides you?"

Many Aspire To Job

Mr. Truman replied he couldn't answer that, but there are plenty of people ambitious for the job.

Another newsman said Douglas, who is now engaged in challenging two of Mr. Truman's Illinois judgeship nominations, had been quoted as stating that he would support the President if he ran.

The President refused comment on "McCarthyism," as a reporter put it, and said he would not define the word. A presidential attack on "slandermongers" in a speech two days ago was widely interpreted as an attack on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), among others.

Wreckage Of Plane Is Sighted In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16 (AP) — The wreck of a large two-engine plane was reported sighted today on a volcano 48 miles southwest of Mexico City.

The crashed plane was not identified. The airport here said all commercial aircraft operating through here were accounted for. It said the wreck might be a private or an army plane.

Student pilots who said they saw it reported it was "a complete wreck" and they could see no sign of life.

Jet Fighter Plane "Shoots Up" Town

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16 (AP) — A stream of .50 caliber machine gun bullets from a jet fighter plane tore a path right down Elm Street in nearby Groveport today.

About 1,700 slugs from two short-circuited guns smashed into cars, trailers, homes and streets, narrowly missing people and creating near-panic.

Apparently no one was injured.

Man Who Claimed To Be Jesse James Dies In Texas Town

GRANBURY, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP) — J. Frank Dalton, who claimed to be Jesse James and said his age was 107, died last night.

He had come here a week ago from Texas City, accompanied by Lee Howk, who said he was James' great-grandson, and Mrs. Golda Burk.

Dalton was living in Lawton, Okla., when he claimed in May, 1948, to be the notorious outlaw, Jesse James. He said he was born in Louisville, April 17, 1844, and was declared legally dead at St. Joseph, Mo., April 3, 1882. He asserted the man slain there as Jesse actually was one Charlie Bigelow.

Most Decorated Baltimore Cop Fired By Ober

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—The city's most decorated cop was fired today, his downfall brought about by the Senate Crime Committee in Washington.

Lt. Ralph Amrein, 21 years on the force and officially commended many times, was dismissed for accepting a $5,000 loan from a convicted gambler.

"He destroyed completely his usefulness as a member of the department," Police Commissioner Beverly Ober ruled.

The Senate Crime Committee questioned several Maryland characters at various times in Washington, among them Willis M. (Buzz) King. King was touchy about explaining his activities but he let it drop that back in 1944 he loaned Amrein $5,000 for a year and didn't charge any interest.

Ober the next day suspended Amrein and later held a three-day hearing on charges of misconduct.

Amrein admitted he borrowed the money for a personal real estate deal.

Candidate Said 'No' To Zwillman Crime Probe Told

Rejected $300,000 For Political Favor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Senators were told today the Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1949 turned down an offer of $300,000 in return for which he was to give Abner "Longie" Zwillman a voice in naming the state's attorney general if the Democrats won.

The testimony was given to the Senate Crime Democratic candidate —State Sen. Elmer Wene—rejected the offer as soon as he heard of it.

Bishop is a writer and one-time reporter who worked for Wene in the campaign won by Republican Governor Alfred Driscoll.

Zwillman is a reputed power in New Jersey politics and the crime committee has linked his name with crime and racketeering in the state. He has been described as the kingpin in a bootleg syndicate which made $50,000,000 in six of the prohibition years.

Crime committee agents, the FBI and Coast Guard have been searching for Zwillman for more than a month but have been unable to find him.

Bishop testified the $300,000 offer was made to him by George Kesselhaut whom he described as an assistant to Col. William Kelly, then a Democratic leader in Essex County.

He said he was staying at the Essex House Hotel on Broad Street in Newark in September, 1949, when Kesselhaut invited him to his suite in the same hotel.

Bishop quoted Kesselhaut as saying Zwillman "will go for $300,000 for Wene."

Bishop then said he asked what Zwillman wanted in return and Kesselhaut replied "Zwillman does not want to be hurt by a Wene administration."

Later, the witness said, Kesselhaut remarked that Zwillman "would like to have a friend in the state attorney general's office."

"There was no doubt in my mind," Bishop said, "about what he wanted. He wanted a voice in naming the attorney general."

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 15 (AP) — The newspaper Et Telat reported today 12 persons were killed and 19 injured at Khollar village near Shiraz Sunday night by a sudden flood following heavy rain.

Nam Says Line For Truce Can Be "Adjusted"

Joint Subcommittee Seeking Compromise

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP) — The chief Communist negotiator today was reported ready to back down from stubborn Red buffer zone demands which had threatened to blow up the Korean truce talks.

Lt. Gen. Nam Il, head of the Red delegation, was quoted by the Peiping radio as monitored in Tokyo as saying at yesterday's truce sessions:

"We want to make the 38th parallel the military line of demarcation but it is possible to adjust this line on the basis of terrain and mutual defense positions of the demilitarized zone if they are necessary and reasonable."

This went far beyond anything conciliatory the Reds had said heretofore in the long-stalmated talks. There was no immediate confirmation from Allied quarters of Nam's remarks.

Subcommittee Meets

The development came as a joint subcommittee met at Kaesong to begin a new and informal approach to the difficult buffer zone problem.

The United Nations delegation has refused to discuss a buffer zone based on parallel 38, the old political boundary between North and South Korea. It holds this line is militarily indefensible.

Instead, the U. N. negotiators have called for a zone based upon the present line, which extends into North Korea. They have shown a willingness, however, to make adjustments.

Peiping said Nam insisted that before any agreement could be reached the U. N. would have to abandon its "unfair and unreasonable demands."

Until the subcommittee completes its efforts to break the prolonged deadlock on a military dividing line, the main five-member Allied and Communist truce teams will be in recess.

Communist agreement to take up the issue in an easier, informal atmosphere prompted a growing, but guarded, optimism that the bitter and costly war may be stopped.

Joy's Proposal Accepted

The Reds Thursday accepted a proposal by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations delegate, that a smaller committee meet around—rather than across—the green-topped conference table.

Nam suggested that the subcommittee consist of two delegates from each side, instead of one. Joy readily agreed.

Joy immediately named Maj. Gen. Henry L. Hodes, Eighth Army deputy chief of staff. Today he announced that Rear Arm. Arleigh Burke would be the second U. N. command representative.

Nam appointed Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, mysterious Chinese whose name translates as "Liberation," and North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho.

Each team was assigned one staff member and one interpreter.

It was agreed also that the subcommittee would meet in the strictest secrecy since the cease-fire talks began July 10. No communique is to be issued after the meeting nor will correspondents receive the usual briefing.

Russian Exile Plans Anti-Stalin Meeting

Egyptian Swimmer Captures Channel Race

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 16 (AP) — A husky Egyptian raced across the English Channel in 12 hours and 12 minutes today to win the £1,000 ($2,800) first prize in the London Daily Mail's annual channel swim.

Hassan Hammad, 34, Cairo, clambered ashore at the foot of Shakespeare Cliff tonight. He was one minute ahead of Roger Le Morvan of France, who landed in St. Margaret's Bay, four miles to the east.

Hundreds of supporters of each lined the shore as the two swimmers neared land. They shouted to them for greater speed.

But both swimmers were near exhaustion.

Hammad touched bottom, climbed over some boulders and sat down gasping.

Le Morvan waded out and was told Hammad apparently had reached land first. He shrugged and, without a word, waded back to his escort boat.

Le Morvan gets £500 ($1,400) for second place.

Brenda Fisher, 23-year-old English girl, won the £1,000 first prize for women and apparently set a new women's channel record on her first try at it.

The judges gave her time, subject to a recheck, as 12 hours and 43 minutes.

The previous best time for a woman swimmer of the channel was 13 hours, 23 minutes, by Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif. Last year.

The race was won last year also by an Egyptian, Hassan Abd El Behim, in a record 10 hours and 49 minutes.

Tiny Tongay Back Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) —They wanted to swim the channel so briny, but officials said no, you're much, much too tiny.

So the kids came back on a plane today, with their parents, Elizabeth and Russell Tongay.

The sister and brother who were to have made the big dive are four-year-old Kathy, and "Bubba," just five.

They went to England, also France, looking for their big swim chance. Their father who had planned the show said governments of both said no.

But nonetheless, the father quipped, the youngsters got well dipped. In France they camped on the channel shore, and daily they swam 10 miles or more.

Area Exhibitors Enter Weston Horse Show

Event Is Forerunner To Local Contest

Many area horse exhibitors will have entries in the sixth annual Fall Horse Show at the Lewis County Boot and Saddle Club Showgrounds two miles east of Weston, W. Va., August 25-26.

William R. Carscaden, secretary of the committee for the Cumberland Horse Show September 14 to 16, which is sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club, said a large number of local and area exhibitors will have entries in both shows.

The co-sponsors of the Weston Horse Show, the Weston Lions Club, will use their percentage of the proceeds in the financing of sight conservation and other community betterment projects during the fiscal year.

The Weston event, which will be held at the Trefz Farm, Route 33, on the Buckhannon Road, two miles east of Weston, will include eight divisions: five gaited, three gaited, walking horse, equitation, fine harness, pony, pleasure horse, jumper and roadster divisions.

Made up of three sessions, they are on Saturday, August 25, beginning at 7 p. m., Sunday, August 26, beginning at 1 p. m. and in the evening Sunday beginning at 7 o'clock.

Judges will be Miss Nola Minton, Barboursville, Ky. and Murdock Fuller, Waynesburg, Pa.; ringmasters, R. J. Vassar, D. D. S.; and D. D. Chapman, M. D.; president, Forrest Coffman, vice president, French Kerstner; secretary, Maude Louise John, horse show manager, John I. Beach, and co-manager, John Dolan.

under direction of Charles Calhoun and Vera Bestwick with Mrs. Troutman and Mary Lizer in charge of the Chinese checkers.

Games, races, relays and other activities will be held on the athletic field at 3:30 p. m. in charge of Mrs. Eva Hogan, Mrs. Thelma Lannon, Mrs. Genevieve Murphy and Charles Bryce.

The pool will be open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. admission free. Hoey said all playgrounds will be closed today so children can attend the picnic. Some playgrounds have made arrangements to charter buses to take the children to the park.

All children will bring their own picnic lunch, Hoey added, and playground leaders are working with playground associations on plans for an additional treat for the children.

See left his training school in New Jersey yesterday morning. He was taken first to Newark, N. J., by station wagon and from there to Washington, D. C., traveled by plane. In Washington he boarded the B&O train which brought him to Cumberland.

The veteran member of the House of Delegates is the second local man to obtain a dog this year. Walter (Ike) Herboldsheimer, who operates the refreshment stand in the corridor at the Court House, acquired one in May during training at Pathfinder Dog Guides, Inc.. in Detroit, Mich. His dog is a Doberman pinscher.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, will stock the pool with game fish prohibited by the Game and Inland Fish Commission, Hoey said.

He urged that all sportsmen keep away from the pool prior to the contest so the stocked fish can become acclimated and thus provide sport during the rodeo.

Last year, when some 1,000 children competed, about 300 fish were caught, leaving plenty of fish in the pool for other anglers.

NSLI Policy Holders Get Second Dividend Payment

More than 1,800,000 checks, representing an amount in excess of $150,000,000 have been mailed to holders of National Service Life Insurance policies in the second GI insurance dividend, Veterans Administration said.

The first payments of the dividend were made in April. They are proceeding so far on schedule, according to the agency.

VA estimated when the second dividend was announced that the payments would require about a year to complete. The number of policies to share in the payment was announced as somewhat over 8,000,000 and the total amount of the dividend to be distributed was calculated as approximately $685,000,000.

The policies eligible for dividends are those which have been held in force for three months or longer, between the anniversary date of the policy in 1948 and the corresponding date in 1951.

The bulk of the accounts are being paid between three and four months following the anniversary date of the policy. If a policy has expired and has been renewed or converted within the three-year period, the veteran will receive two checks, one for the expired policy and one for the new one.

No applications are required for the dividends. The Veterans Administration has cautioned veterans not to write inquiries with reference to their dividends, since the answering of these letters will slow up the process of payments.

Oldtown Child Contracts Polio

Memorial Hospital authorities reported last night, that Elvita Fay Carder, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Carder, Oldtown, who was admitted Tuesday for observation, has polio.

The youth is doing very well and has not yet developed paralysis, authorities said.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate members from area churches.

By WILLIAM WIDDER

NEW YORK — (INS) — The year is 1958. A figure stands on an observation tower in a palatial Crimean fastness, a Mauser rifle pressed tensely against his shoulder.

Beneath him, less than 500 yards away, a man moves out onto a balcony to join a breakfast party . . .

Nerveless fingers swing the rifle to position; a practiced eye peers through the scope-sight. Now the fatal cross-hairs settle on-target:

"I caught his face first and saw his walrus mustache, then I lowered it to his heart. I squeezed the trigger."

This is the sensational climax of a novel being published this week and whose title tells its own story: "I Killed Stalin."

The book, published by Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc., is the work of veteran Newspaperman Sterling Noel, now Sunday editor of the New York Journal American.

It was three years in preparation, and draws heavily on Noel's extensive travels in half-a-dozen countries—including Russia—meticulous research, and his experience both in journalism and as a U. S. naval liaison officer with the French navy during World War II.

"I Killed Stalin" is an imaginary first-person account of the assassination of the Russian dictator by the man who does the job—U. S. Navy Intelligence Ace Alexis Bodine, alias Romanian Red Agent "Jan Miles." He is variously, seaman, dockwalloper, and saboteur, with a sinister—but marketable—proficiency in the use of long-range rifles, shivs, and bar stools, close up.

The opening paragraph of the Bodine-Miles manuscript sets the issue before the reader with explosive brusqueness:

"Now in this May of 1959, in the ninth month of the shooting war between Russia and the United States, readers of this document will become informed for the first time of the full story behind the death of the Red tsar, Joseph Stalin . . .

"He was executed as the first war criminal of World War III, on the day that he started the conflagration that is now engulfing so much of the world. I know this to be true because I was his executioner."

Then Bodine—or Jan Miles—tells his story. Born in Brooklyn in February, 1921, a graduate of Columbia, he becomes a Navy intelligence officer in the Balkans during World War II, kills 11 Russian secret police, and finally is brought into bureau-X, an international intelligence organization run from Washington. He is trained, given a whole new identity—that of Miles. His sole mission: To kill Stalin.

He is accepted as a member of the U. S. Communist Party, meets a flirty temptress named Rita, becomes the confidante of Gen. Igor Godovisky, secret boss of the American politburo.

Through Godovisky's friendship, Bodine is "rewarded" with a hero's trip to Russia, is appointed "Col. Arbat"—dread, mysterious chief of the secret police's death factory. With this authority, and the use of ingenuity and unalloyed nerve, Bodine gets to Stalin, shoots him, and then tries to make his escape to Turkey—on the day World War Three begins.

Sterling Noel pours suspense into these last pages, to close out a narrative packed with excitement.

As for the man behind the book—Noel, at 48, has enjoyed a varied career that has carried him across half the world, and brought him the French Croix De Guerre for heroism in combat.

Born into a family with a newspaper and literary tradition, Noel lived with his parents in Moscow for a year before World War One broke out. He later attended three universities — California, Columbia and Paris—became an accomplished violinist, and then went into the newspaper business.

By the time he was 20, Sterling Noel had begun writing and selling fiction and articles.

He later added playwriting to his repertoire. Noel entered the Navy in 1942, with a top-secret assignment as a U. S. naval liaison officer with the French nacy, and participated in the invasions of Corsica, Normandy and Southern France.

A FRESHMAN at the University of Syracuse, Louise Orlando will represent New York State in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City. Louise is a native of Syracuse, stands 5 feet, 5 inches, has brown hair and eyes, as well as a fine soprano voice. (International)

Subversion Works Both Ways

Russian emigres from many parts of the world were to meet in Munich today to establish a center with the avowed purpose of working for the overthrow of the present government in Moscow. Financing for the new organization is to come from the American Committee for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia, a private organization with headquarters in New York City.

The projected program of the "center for subversive activities against the Stalin regime" would appear to carry at least the tacit approval of the U. S. State Department. Munich lies in the American Zone of Western Germany. The Allied High Commissioners presumably could have refused permission for the meeting. Moreover, four of the delegates—Alexander Kerensky, premier of the Russian Provisional Government of 1917; Boris Nikolayevsky, a moderate Socialist leader; Vladimir Zenzinov, and Prof. I. Kurganov—were to have traveled from the United States with the knowledge and consent of the State Department.

As the cold war has grown progressively warmer, the passport division of the State Department has become less generous than in the past with travel permits to international conferences of which the Department disapproves. Paul Robeson, Howard Fast, and O. John Rogge led an American delegation to the pro-Soviet "World Congress of the Partisans of Peace" in Paris in April, 1949. Rogge—now registered as a representative of the Yugoslav government in the United States—spoke in the Kremlin at a similar meeting in Moscow in March, 1950. But in August, 1950, Robeson's passport was canceled. And in November, 1950, Howard Fast was denied a passport to attend a Red-sponsored "peace" meeting in England.

The gathering in Munich was planned to continue negotiations begun last January in Fuessen, Germany. Five groups of Russian emigres were to be represented.

The sponsoring American organization is not to be confused with the Friends of Fighters for Russian Freedom, organized in New York in February to enlist support in the United States for Russian anti-Communist elements. Sponsors of the latter group include Socialist Norman Thomas; Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor; Leo Cherne of Freedom House; Mrs. Ivan Tolstoy; Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College.

The groups meeting at Munich are the first to go forthrightly on record as advocating subversive activity in the Soviet Union. Today Washington is headquarters of a half-dozen or more national councils, committees, and similar groups representing unofficially the people of Eastern Europe now under Communist rule. They maintain contacts with the people behind the Iron Curtain and in some cases claim to have organized and nourished underground forces.

The Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement of 1933 included a pledge that neither country would tolerate within its territory any organization "which has as its aim the overthrow . . . or bring about by force of a change in the political or social order of the other." But Russia, with its Third Internationale, had violated that pledge long before the cold war began.

Termites Are Too Slow

The ways of the tax laws, and the U. S. Tax Court which interprets them, are sometimes strange and wonderful to behold. Take, for example, the court's views of termites.

Under the Internal Revenue Code, a taxpayer can take certain deductions for property losses on his income tax return, if the losses are not covered by insurance.

If your house burns down, for instance, and it is not covered by insurance, you have a deductible loss. The same holds if your rowboat or yacht is shipwrecked or your automobile smashed in a crash.

But if termites riddle the beams of your living room floor and you have to spend hundreds of dollars repairing the damage and getting rid of them, that's a different story.

At least, the U. S. Tax Court said so in a recent case. A man bought a house after it had been pronounced free of termites. A year later he found the termites had moved in on him and it cost him $1,800 to have the damage repaired and the house made termite-proof. But the court said no to his claim for a tax deduction.

The court ruled that a casualty, to be deductible under the law, had to be a "sudden casualty." Termites, of course, take a certain amount of time to get their dirty work done.

It's a good thing, at any rate, that the law courts do not follow the same sort of rules. A murder is still murder whether it is done with a hatchet or with small doses of poison over a long period of time.

Next Stop—The Moon

In spite of the dreams of the rocket enthusiasts, it is still a long, long way from the earth to the moon. At the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds the other day the experts made their most successful test. A new Viking rocket, fueled with four tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol, sped 135 miles into the upper atmosphere for a new record.

If the rocket had been able to maintain its top speed of 4,100 miles an hour for approximately 60 hours—or two days and a half—it would have reached the moon. But its huge load of fuel was burned up in a mere 75 seconds, although it coasted upward more than 100 miles in the thin air on the momentum it had achieved in the first great thrust. It takes a long time to slow down from a speed of 4,100 miles an hour.

However, if the moon is still a long way off, who would bet that it will not eventually be reached by man-made rockets, in view of this latest test? The first flight of an engine-powered plane, achieved by the Wright brothers, covered less than the length of a city block at an altitude only a few feet off the ground. In the half century since, the range of the airplane has been expanded at an utterly fantastic rate.

In view of that progress, who can doubt that another 25 or 50 years may see the development of a rocket capable of reaching the moon. How man would benefit from such a feat remains to be revealed.

Sweating It Out

Advertising has made us conscious of perspiration, especially when the secretion is excessive. But too much is better than too little because the process is normal and conducive to health and comfort. In this way we carry around our own air conditioning unit.

But when sweat is so abundant it drips off the body and saturates the clothing, the situation is far from comfortable. Now and then the condition is limited to one area such as the hands, which become so moist that everything that is touched becomes wet. It is embarrassing to shake hands and when writing, the skin sticks to the paper. If the feet are the source of trouble, the hose become discolored. Furthermore, perspiration often mixes with chemicals in the shoes and as a result, contact dermatitis follows. Moisture between the toes leads to maceration, which invites ringworm and other infections. Profuse sweating in the armpits has ruined many garments. An odor often is associated with perspiration, that is discernible for a considerable distance from the individual.

Overactivity of the sweat glands obviously is aggravated by warmth, activity, too many clothes, and fever. But there is more to the story. Heredity and over-indulgence in alcohol, coffee, or spicy food are other factors. Dysfunctions of the endocrine glands frequently play a role; over-activity of the thyroid gland is one example. Because the sweat glands are under the control of the nervous system the condition is worse during periods of excitement or anxiety. This probably gave rise to the expression among our service men, "sweating it out."

Various preparations have been suggested for generalized sweating. These include atropine, belladonna, sedatives, and the antihistaminics but the outcome is not always satisfactory. In severe cases X-ray treatment or sympathectomy has been tried but these heroic measures seldom are recommended. Psychotherapy is helpful when an emotional background is the causative factor.

For localized sweating one of the many anti-perspirants on the market usually is effective. The elimination of spicy foods and stimulants from the diet should prove helpful. Now and then tonic baths of sea salt or alum are useful. Other beneficial measures include dusting the skin with powder and foot baths of potassium permanganae or formaldehyde. The socks, underwear and outer clothing should be changed frequently. Clothing customs favor women, as they can dress in a minimum; men are less fortunate in this regard. The heavy sweater should avoid emotional and physical stresses.

BORROWED BLOOD

L. P. writes: How long does the blood of the donor stay in a person's body after a transfusion?

REPLY

Blood cells live four to eight weeks and most of the donor's blood will be gone by the end of this time. Some of the chemicals remain, however. Calcium, for example, may go into the bones and remain forever. On the other hand, if a transfusion is given because of hemorrhage, the blood may run out as fast as it goes in.

STIFF NECK

F. B. writes: What are the causes of stiff neck and what is the best way to treat it?

REPLY

The cause usually is myofibrositis or, in every day language, a cold in the muscles. Infection and exposure to drafts are the most likely precipitating factors. Heat, gentle massage, salicylic acid, d-tubocurarine, and tocopherol are used in treatment.

CRETINS

B. T. writes: What causes cretinism?

REPLY

For some reason the afflicted child's thyroid gland does not secrete its hormone. Vast improvement in the mental and physical condition follows early and adequate dosage of thyroid extract. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cretinism.

MILKMAN NEEDS MILK

B. T. writes: What causes the legs of a 57-year-old milkman to jump at night?

REPLY

A deficiency of calcium is one cause and milk is rich in this mineral. Don't be embarrassed, because we all know that the shoemaker's children go barefoot. Poor circulation is another cause to be investigated.

INFESTED FLOUR

F. T. writes: Is it safe to use flour with maggots in it? I claim that cooking kills them and that the flour can be used.

REPLY

There's no doubt that cooking will kill the invaders, but many individuals would be revolted by the use of such flour.

VEINS AND THE HEART

N. W. writes: Will untreated varicose veins affect the heart?

REPLY

No. The tissues around the varicose vein will suffer because of impairment of the circulation of the blood returning to the heart.

Psychological Warfare, To Succeed, Must Offer Something To Oppressed Peoples; Experiment In Penetrating Iron Curtain With Balloons Is Important

(ED. NOTE: Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there in this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his dispatches from close to the Czech border.)

NEAR THE CZECHOSLOVAK BORDER—The current experiment in penetrating the iron curtain by balloons may be a great success or it may fail. It is too early yet to say. But the important thing is that it's an attempt by private individuals under the free-enterprise system to try out certain methods of psychological propaganda — or call it psychological warfare if you will—which governments will not and perhaps cannot tackle.

Today the State Department's propaganda effort is seriously hamstrung by congressional penny pinching, while the American military men who now dominate our foreign policy believe that the only way to stop Russia is to have more and bigger guns. They have little faith in psychological warfare. Accordingly, the National Security Council has ruled out any strong appeals to the people in the iron curtain countries to revolt, sabotage, or disrupt their Cominform governments.

Yet psychological warfare to be successful must offer something—a chance for freedom, for peace, more food or an end of oppression. American propaganda frequently fails because it offers nothing.

The citizen of Czechoslovakia is not interested in hearing foreign radio broadcasts tell him the Soviet system is evil. He knows the Soviet system is evil; what he wants to hear from the Voice of America are ways by which he can throw off the yoke of oppression. Such advice under the National Security Council's present policy cannot be given officially. Meanwhile, Soviet psychological warfare offers excitement, intrigue, revolt against colonial oppressors, and nose-thumbing at bourgeoise masters.

Stalin's Achilles' Heel

These are some of the reasons why private individuals tackled this experiment of trying to make the iron curtain a lace curtain. Personally I am convinced from my last winter's study of the iron curtain countries and from other information that it's not the atomic bomb but contact with free peoples that the Soviet fears most. The unrest of Soviet peoples is Stalin's real Achilles' heel. He's not worried over American air power—great as it is—or even over new atomic weapons, but he is worried over the general dislike of the satellite and Russian peoples for Moscow's unpopular regime.

Therefore, if we are to win the subjugated nations over to our side, we must inspire them, encourage them and above all, keep in contact with them. It was because Stalin mortally feared such contact that he erected the iron curtain and it is to hit this Achilles' heel that a group of private individuals and organizations has now launched messages of hope, friendship and encouragement by balloon into Czechoslovakia.

The people who had the courage to sponsor this project are the American Crusade for Freedom Organization, the Inter-American Federation of Free Trade Unions which has been fighting communism throughout Latin America, veterans or prisoners of war chiefly from Belgium, France, Holland and Italy, the General Federation of Women's Club with 5,500,000 members in 32 countries plus another five and half million in the United States, the AFL Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the CIO Canadian Congress of Labor, and the International Federation of Free Journalists, comprising about 1,000 newsmen exiled from Soviet countries.

The chief dynamo in this intricate operation has been Abbott Washburn, loaned by General Mills of Minneapolis to the Committee for Free Europe which has done such an important job of beaming broadcasts into Czechoslovakia and placed the Freedom Bell in Berlin last year. Harold Stassen, who heads the Crusade for Freedom, has also helped to mastermind the operation. At the initial balloon launching from Munich, Germany, were Boleslaw Wierzbianski of Poland, George Jonescu of the Rumanian Federation of Free Journalists, Frau Lotte Stoehr of Germany and Mrs. Robert Taylor, both of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

It is considered especially significant in Europe that these balloons are being aimed at Czechoslovakia after the imprisonment of William Oatis and that among their sponsors are the Federation of Free Journalists. Hitherto the United States' official policy has leaned toward paying virtual ransom money when its citizens have been seized by the Cominform. Thus, important concessions were given to Hungary to obtain Robert Vogelers release from jail.

However, it is now realized that the more you pay out in concessions to the Soviet the more Moscow demands in ransom money and the more it is inclined to maltreat American citizens and to increase the blackmail demands. America's cracking down on Czech trade is an indication of this new stiffening of policy by the U. S. and the current balloon operation supplements it. This may help to show the Cominform that, instead of taking the abuse of our citizens lying down, we intend to retaliate.

Story of Friendship

Around Europe—Germans crowd around the balloon truck convoy when it sets up operations at night like kids watching circus wagons unload at home . . . One trouble is to keep the crowds from smoking when near the hydrogen tanks . . . Radio Free Europe, operated partly by Czech refugees in Munich and financed by the Crusade for Freedom, has poured a daily barrage of messages to the Czech people giving them the story of friendship balloons . . . It suggests plastic pillow balloons be used for food containers . . . Leaflets are found inside the pillow balloons after they settle on the ground . . . The large rubber balloons burst at 30,000 feet altitude and the leaflets inside them are scattered gradually to the earth.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Candor and a wholesome respect for truth somehow have a way of breaking through artifices of political doubletalk and the ambiguity of so-called diplomacy.

For General Ridgway's Supreme Allied Headquarters has finally cleared up in dramatic and unequivocal words the American as well as the UN position in Korea with a fateful warning to the Communists as follows:

"If the Communists again raise the standards of war, their soldiers will be met by the fury of the weapons of the United Nations forces . . .

"The UN command, if necessary, will continue to execute its mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Here is an admission at last of something the Senate Armed Services Committee was unable to elicit from the top military staff here or from the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson—namely, just what the U. N. forces in Korea had and still have as their mission in Korea. It now is stated to be a "mission of destroying or driving out of Korea those forces which now seek to deny the Korean people their right of self-determination."

Supersedes Earlier Declaration

Here is a statement to the whole world that the UN, including the American government, means to continue to use military force to achieve its objectives in securing peace for all Korea.

Here is a declaration which supersedes what was said last June by the Secretary of State and by UN spokesmen, namely, that the UN never intended to seek the liberation of all Korea by military means and sought only to repel aggression somewhere around the 38th Parallel.

Here is a warning—or some may call it a threat—directed to the Communists telling them what is in store for them if they don't agree to a cease-fire now.

Obviously, General Ridgway's headquarters spoke with the knowledge and concurrence of the authorities in Washington.

Just five months ago—March 24 to be exact—the same kind of statement was issued by General MacArthur uring a cease-fire agreement by military commanders in the field. He, too, used a threat—he said if the enemy didn't agree to a cease-fire, the United Nations might have to "depart from its tolerant effort to contain the war to the area of Korea through expansion of our military operations to his coastal areas and interior bases."

The MacArthur message was broadcast in the "Voice of the UN Command" radio program at that time, just as was General Ridgway's in the last 48 hours. General MacArthur based his action on two previous authorizations from Washington to arrange an armistice.

The purpose was then and is now to threaten the Communists with a hotter war if they do not agree to a cease-fire.

General Ridgway does not explicitly define what area he might fight in if the cease-fire fails, but he pointedly mentions "the fury of the weapons" of the UN command, which could mean the use of anything from conventional bombs to new type of atom bombs and artillery shells.

For threatening the enemy with military punishment, and for endeavoring to arrange a cease-fire in the field instead of through diplomatic channels, General MacArthur is alleged to nave been dismissed—at least, that was one of the reasons stated after the inquiry was begun

But what has just happened shows that it could not have been any such reason. This is because what the UN command in Korea is doing today is along the same lines as General MacArthur pursued. Hence the record of the UN command as such is fortunately shown to be consistent throughout, and the Washington administration is to be congratulated for having endorsed five months late what it seemed to be repudiating last June.

The most significant revelation, however, is not just the use of a military threat against the Communists but the open avowal of the UN command's mission—that it is the liberation by military means of all Korea and that, if the cease-fire parleys fail, the mission will continue as before.

This undoubtedly means that, even after a cease-fire, there will be insistence on a liberation of all Korea or fighting will be resumed by the U. N. Such a result may not materialize soon, as negotiations could go on for a long, long time, but the record, in effect, establishes now the proposition that the armistice will not be accepted as a final settlement and that threats of a continuance of hostilities will be the UN position right along hereafter unless and until Korea is freed of hostile military forces and peace is established for the people of all Korea. It is a great step forward.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Margaret's Versatility

I see by the London "Sunday Dispatch" that Margaret Truman is a columnist. Into this calling she goes by proxy, speaking her column to one Stanley Frank. All-in-all, the young lady is doing remarkably well, making, in fact, a more telling record than the Roosevelt children.

Miss Truman is, in many respects, her father's best press agent. She describes him with deep sensitivity as a nervous father who tears programs at his daughter's concert. It is a touching scene of the natural, unaccustomed man who feels as most of us do about our children. Even presidents are human—which they must be or what else could they be?

In fact, most of this story is not about Margaret at all but about Harry before he ever became a president and was just a man, a husband, and a father of an only child in Independence, Missouri, where the Trumans lived with his wife's parents.

There he liked to play the piano while his sister, Mary, sang. Margaret calls it "an impromptu duet recital."

It is all so much like the lives we all lived back in the days before we became involved in international affairs and got to know the difference between the Russian Malik and the Lebanese Malik.

Those were the happy days and Harry Truman, like most Americans, was trying to earn a living. Times were not too good for him back there. He had not yet found himself. That was to come later in in association with Pendergast, but, in this article, Margaret Truman does not refer to such things.

She gives her own and her father's musical credo as follows: "I must confess we're strictly a long-hair family from way back. We always have preferred classical to popular music.

"I don't want to sound stuffy about this, but I suppose the early indoctrination in serious music Dad gave me is the reason why I didn't moon over crooners and torchy lyrics during adolescence.

"Don't get me wrong. I love dancing—it's the only exercise I get now—and I've always been a Sinatra fan."

From Mozart to Sinatra is quite a hop, skip, jump or flop, whichever word you wish to use, but a good press agent should be modern and as like the common man as possible.

Maybe this gives the clue to Harry Truman's political strength: He is the ordinary man.

As Margaret describes him, he is one of the most ordinary of them. There is power in that in a country like ours, which reacts violently to great changes. After the extremely complex Franklin D. Roosevelt comes the simple, ordinary Harry S. Truman.

He is the same kind of a man from whom you buy your groceries. In fact, he is the same kind of person as most of us — knowing enough but not too much; understanding more than he knows; living with his family, bothered only with the little things in life, like his daughter calling everybody "dearie," which got him sore. You know how that is, the kids picking up a word and working it to death.

And then comes that heroic moment in every father's life when he tells his child, usually a son, that he will back him in anything he wants to do. By that time, the child is really an adult and will do as he chooses, anyhow. Margaret tells it this way:

"I'll back you in anything you want to do," Dad said, "I'm tickled to death that you're thinking of music. But first I want you go to college and get your degree."

By the time Harry Truman has to keep that promise, he has moved up from Independence, Missouri, and the Wallace household and is President of the United States. It is a tremendous transformation. The humble, little, ordinary man has become a great man. He no longer is limited to playing duets with his sister, Mary; the whole world is his sounding board and everything he says and does is important. He no longer needs to get by; he has everything.

This is a wonderful moment for Margaret Truman. Ordinarily, she would have had to be auditioned; run from one agency to another looking for work. Now all the world wants to know if the President's daughter really can sing. If Harry Truman did nothing else, he arranged it so that Margaret Truman had a short-cut to make good in her chosen field. No father could do more.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Eisenhower Magic

During the last month, the Capitol has been the scene of an astonishing reversal of form. In mid-July, the Congressional wiseacres, gloomily headed by Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland in person, began to predict the most drastic cuts in the President's $8.5 billion request for military and other foreign aid. Compared to the Senate, Lizzie Borden with her axe was said to be a mere mollycoddle.

The outlook was genuinely ominous. The estimates of probable "economies" ran from $2 billion to $3 billion, which would have represented a spectacular American retreat from former American policy. This in turn would surely have caused the British to retreat from their 4.7 billion pound defense program to the earlier and much easier 3.6 billion pound program. The French meanwhile would have comfortably refused to tackle their explosive manpower program. There would have been other "economies" and easy negligence by our other allies.

In short, by setting a bad but tempting example the Senatorial "economies" could well have brought the whole Western defense program crashing down in ruin. Yet until very recently, the most expert Congressional observers continued to insist that with hope of peace in Korea in the air, nothing would dissuade the Senate from a tremendous hacking and chopping operation.

Eisenhower's Influence

Now, on the contrary, the prophesies run all the other way. No more than routine cuts of from $700 million to $1 billion are now expected—and these were of course allowed for in advance when the appropriation requests were compiled. In short, we are to go forward with the task of rebuilding the strength of the West, instead of hurriedly retreating from it on the first whisper of good news.

In part, of course, this reversal has occurred because the good news has not been confirmed. There is no peace in Korea yet. In part, also, the first emotional response has died down, and senators and representatives have had time to look at the real facts. But it is difficult to avoid the conclusion, none the less, that the really major influen[illegible] working to bring about this surpri[illegible]ing Congressional reversal has been that of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Barring the extreme isolationists, the great mass of Republicans and Democrats genuinely and sincerely want to give Gen. Eisenhower whatever he needs to do his job He has explained his needs convincingly to two Congressional groups — a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a party of representatives belonging to the House Foreign Affairs, Appropriations and Armed Services committees. These men, bringing back the word, have greatly worked upon their colleagues. So have reports of the General's attitude through more public channels, such as his remark that the Republican-isolationists project to spread the foreign and military aid outlays over two years was a plan for "getting half the force at twice the expense".

Taft Against Slash

But the realy remarkable demonstration of the magic of the Eisenhower name was given by none other than Sen Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Although not publicity committed, Sen. Taft had himself been a member of the "make the money last two years" group. He was indeed, expected to be a leader of the economy bloc when the floor fight started.

Taft's political advisors appear, however, to have pointed out to him that if he took this customary course at the present juncture, he would be accused of crippling Gen. Eisenhower's effort Last week, therefore, to the astonishment of almost everyone in the Senate, Sen. Taft came out pubicly against any slashing of foreign military aid. Military aid constitutes the vast bulk of the total appropriation. No huge savings can be accomplished by the cuts Sen. Taft continued to advocate in ocerseas economic aid. Hence, in effect, the mere name of Gen. Eisenhower has driven Sen. Taft to change his mind and abandon his usual allies.

There have also been other, less appetizing tributes to the Eisenhower magic in recent weeks. One such was the remarkable performance of Sen. Taft's busy lieutenant Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, who returned from Europe to announce publicly that the General was an "indispensable man" on the other side of the Atlantic, and to [illegible] the word in private that the [illegible]ly robust Eisenhower health was failing sadly and fast. The plain truth is that while Gen. Eisenhower inspires respect and affection among most of members of Congress as among the vast majority of Americans, the mere thought of him reduces the Taft-ites to a jelly of terror.

The reason is simple enough. In Congress and out of Congress, the want of leadership in these last years has produced the sensation hyperbolically expressed by the politician who said bitterly, "I feel as though I were being nibbled to death by mice." Eisenhower is the antidote to that disagreeable sensation.

Truman Appeals To Top Senators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman called an unusual White House conference today in an attempt to get congressional approval for his full $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

Surrounded and supported by some of his top administrative aides, the President told four senior Senate leaders of both parties that any cut in military or economic aid funds will seriously interfere with the struggle against Communism.

The conference was unusual in that the President summoned both Democratic and Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. Unusual, too, was the time consumed. The session lasted an hour and a quarter.

Mr. Truman apparently was not given a hopeful prospect of getting all he wishes.

After the conference, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen he gave careful attention to pleas against major fund cuts but made no commitments. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted there probably would be sizable reductions.

Curbs Assailed In U. N.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France demanded today that the United Nations Security Council call on Egypt to end restrictions on Suez Canal shipping. They contended Egypt is interfering with the rights of other nations.

Egypt assailed the three-power resolution as "a flagrant violation of the purposes of the United Nations." She challenged the right of the sponsors and several other council members to vote since they themselves, as users of the canal, are parties to the dispute.

Disgusted Police Abandon Lassoes And Shoot Steer

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — Jeep riding airport police gave up in disgust today three days of attempts to capture an escaped steer that has been cavorting about Friendship Airport.

They finally abandoned their lassoes and settled on shooting the 500-pound steer and slitting its throat. After the blood letting, the animal was butchered under the supervision of the owner from whom it escaped, Walton D. Wilson, who has a farm near the airport.

Hero To Many Cubans Dies Of Bullet Wound

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 16 (AP) — Sen. Eduardo Chibas, a hero to many Cubans for his vehement attacks on the government, died today a suicide.

In homes throughout the island, people wept and put black crepe on their doors. Official and public functions were cancelled and radio stations suspended popular shows.

Cubans affectionately called him "El Loco" (The Crazy) for the sensational nature of his political antics. Many said today he had become a symbol of, if not a martyr to, good government.

Chibas, a bachelor, would have been 44 years old Aug. 26. He shot himself during a radio broadcast on Aug. 5. He said he wanted to give "one last alarm" to the people of Cuba and to "awaken the public against corrupt government."

100 Indonesian Reds Arrested

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 16 (AP) — Military police today arrested about 100 Communist suspects, including 16 members of parliament. Official sources implied the group was plotting, with help from Red China, to overthrow Indonesia's middle-road government.

Precise charges were not disclosed.

The lawmakers detained make up most of parliament's extreme left wing. Chinese newsmen, merchants and teachers likewise fell into the net. Some top Indonesian labor leaders were seized. Jakarta newspapers said several officials of the Labor Ministry were among them.

The arrests came after a wave of strikes by Red-led unions and a gunfight between security forces and a band of 150 machinegunners wearing hammer and sickle arm bands Aug. 6 at the port city of Tandjong Priok. More arrests followed published reports that Red Chinese were cooperating with Indonesian Communists in an attempt to oust Premier Soekiman's coalition cabinet.

U. N. Patrols Hit Red Positions, Withdraw

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 17 (AP)—Allied patrols punched sharply into Red positions on the Central and Eastern Korean warfront Thursday, but withdrew under heavy fire.

Red resistance was toughest southwest of Kansong, near the east coast. There the Communists used machine guns, mortars and Russian-type self-propelled guns and 76 millimeter artillery.

Jail May Lose Its Night Warden; He May Be Paroled

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP) — The Anne Arundel County jail is in danger of losing its night warden. He may be paroled.

The "warden" works around the clock, seven days a week for $2 a day. Sheriff Joseph W. Alton doesn't know where he can find a replacement for that salary, stipulated by ancient law.

Blaine Decker, 38, is the perfect prisoner who runs the old jail smack in the heart of Annapolis. At nights he's the guard; during the day, he plans the menus, buys the food and cooks it.

Alton thinks Decker should be released now because "he has become pale and sickly" through working so hard. But Decker says he'll stick by his job until Alton can find another warden.

Civil Defense Training Center In Md. Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Purchase of a school site and 260 acres of land in nearby Maryland for a national civil defense training center was recommended to the Senate today by its Armed Services Committee.

Deputy Civil Defense Administrator J. J. Wadsworth told senators the site would be used for both a staff college and an eastern training center on civil defense.

Wadsworth said about $1,000,000 will be spent for purchase of the site and construction of additional buildings and facilities to train an estimated 3,000 civil defense workers annually.

Cadets' Exodus Is Slowed Down

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP) —The exodus of cadets marked for discharge from the Military Academy for violating the honor code almost halted today as review boards continued to process cases.

Only one boy departed today although 42 had gone in the two previous days.

Ninety originally were accused and tagged for expulsion for violating the honor system by exchanging academic information.

The abrupt slowdown in departures of the cadets involved gave rise to rumors that the scandal had entered a sensational new phase, but these rumors were denied by a West Point spokesman.

A public information officer said two review boards sitting on the cases have been kept busy, and that one is in session tonight.

The officer stressed that each accused cadet is given every opportunity to produce witnesses on his behalf and that no time limit is imposed on cadets in their individual hearings.

Irene Dunne has a reputation for brains, and more important, for fine character . . . And she has been a top star and the Queen of Hollywood for many years . . . Of Irish descent, Irene Dunne was born in Louisville, Ky. . . . In a community and in a profession known for the briefness of careers and marriages, she has stayed near the top since 1932, and married to the same man since 1927 . . . She's been described as "the sort of person who is never caught with her hair rumpled or in the wrong dress" . . . She's extravagant about perfume and shoes . . . She and her husband, Dr. Griffin, live in a luxurious French provincial house in Beverly Hills . . . And at home she is not Irene Dunne but Mrs. Griffin, a gracious hostess and a devoted mother.

Entertaining In Hollywood

By IRENE DUNNE

IRENE DUNNE

Recently, I entertained in Hollywood for Madame Perle Mesta, America's lady minister to Luxembourg. Many of my friends, remembering I had seconded Governor Earl Warren's presidential nomination at the last Republican convention, were surprised to find me going all out to host a party for a Democrat. But to me, this was not the least unusual. Madame Mesta is an old friend of mine.

In fact, some of my best friends are Democrats!

I hope this frank admission will not cause a full-scale investigation on the part of my Republican colleagues. To forestall such an inquiry, I'll admit it. At one time, I was a member of the Democratic party. I am not now a member of the Democratic party.

• — • — •

However, with a political background that includes membership in both major parties, I feel qualified to speak on the differences that exist between the Democrats and Republicans.

One thing the average citizen fails to realize is the language barrier between our two parties. Many Democrats are unable to understand a Republican speech in the House and vice versa. Words and phrases that sound alike have entirely different meanings, depending on which side of the political fence the speaker has chosen.

When I entertain Democrats we always carry on the conversation in their native tongue. When they refer to "the good old days," I realize they mean the early days of the depression when it was possible to blame everything on the Republicans. When Republicans drop in and mention "the good old days," I understand we're talking about that period when there was no excess profits tax and income tax was a myth.

In the Republican language, a "rugged individualist" is generally someone who, in the face of all the bureaus and controls, has managed to operate a successful business. In the Democratic grammar, a "rugged individualist" is a bureau head who manages to cut through the red tape by throwing out 14 dead files without going through as many channels.

To the Republicans, a "political machine" is what the Democrats have. But the term has an entirely different meaning for Democrats. To them, a "political machine" is what the Republicans have!

• — • — •

The ability to speak both Democrat and Republican has been extremely valuable to me in my social life. I never hesitate to include members of both parties whenever I entertain. Naturally, I try to exercise considerable political judgment in making introductions and in the seating arrangements. But playing politics in Hollywood is no new game.

Just as the vote-getting power of a Washington senator determines his political Hooper, so is the star judged by his followers at the box-office. The campaigning that goes on at Academy Award time often surpasses the national elections.

And although we recognize Washington as the center of political life, I nevertheless feel that official Washington could learn a lot by studying the ways of Hollywood. Washington needs more glamour!

For instance, take the news releases from our nation's capital. They're too full of facts and figures. If Washington would adopt the Hollywood system, there would be much more interest in politics. Permit me to illustrate my point with a few imaginary news items:

"President Harry Truman, currently featured in the White House, has a collection of 234 bow ties."

"Senator Smith, now appearing in a committee investigation of the shoe lace monopoly, refuses to continue in the role unless he has sole star billing."

"Congressman Jones announced today that his newest inquiry will be the most spectacular investigation ever staged in the nation's capital. Fourteen writers are working on the script and a Broadway expert has been signed to produce the proceedings."

"The Food Administration today blamed the decline in meat sales on the delay in projecting colored film on television."

Senator Kefauver learned the value of personal appearances during his recent nation-wide investigation of organized crime. Hollywood learned early in its history that taking stars on tour pays off.

Unfortunately, Senator Kefauver lacked an advance man. As a result, he missed dozens of guest appearances in each city, ad tie-ups, ground breakings, etc.

• — • — •

The opening of Congress each year receives scant attention across the country. It lacks the showman's touch. Add klieg lights, Bob Hope as master of ceremonies, a long list of guest stars and first thing you know, congressmen and senators will have fan clubs organized from coast to coast.

I am offering these suggestions in the national interest. As I said before, some of my best friends are Democrats.

The supports especially designed for teens will help girls grow into young ladies more gracefully.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There's a psychological reason for getting your daughter into a girdle and bra about the time she reaches fifteen. They will help to make her feel more adult and therefore susceptible to serious training in the ways of womany charm. The correct garments will immediately smooth the appearance of her figure, and make her clothes look slicker, contributing thereby to a sense of well-being that will add to her poise—something of crucial importance in the teens.

Future Dividends

They will also improve her posture by gently reminding her to hold her tummy in and her shoulders level. And equally important, they will refine her figure as it develops helping to prevent many figure problems in the future.

From authorities on such matters comes the following advice on choosing supports for teen girls: Types for teens are so designed as not to bind the figure in any way. The best of these are made in slip-on girdle and pantie styes of lightweight, porous but firm, one and two-way stretch elastics with a fabric pane to flatten the abdomen. For the average teen figure, those garments that are cut high in the leg afford freedom of movement and those that dip in the back give hip control.

Individual problems such as fleshy hips, thighs and waistlines can be solved by teen girdles with extra control features in these areas. For the generally overweight miss, a girdle that is zipped up will give greater satisfaction in every way, but make sure the zipper is placed toward the center to avoid any chafing of the hipbone.

From the brassieres designed for teen wear, the minimum figure should choose the bandeau type. The average figure needs a bra that gives definition and support; and the developed bust needs one with uplift featurs and a wide supporting band.

Teen Underfashions

As with all foundations, the teen should have hers fitted, just as her mother and older sister do. No over-the-counter purchase can achieve the figure rightness that comes from a fitting.

Use the appeal of novety to encourage your teen to wear and take care of her underfashions. With such colors as white, licorice, nude, yellow, blue, and fireman's red from which to choose and with decorations of polka dots, bow knots, and embriodered flowers, it could take little persuasion to get your daughter intrested!

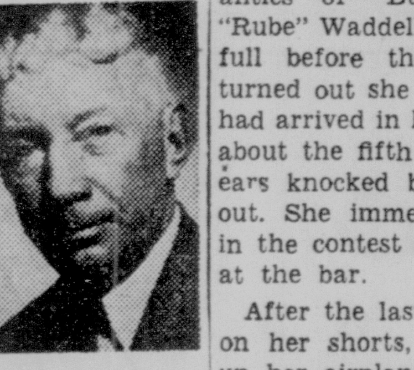
The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Narrow Escapes



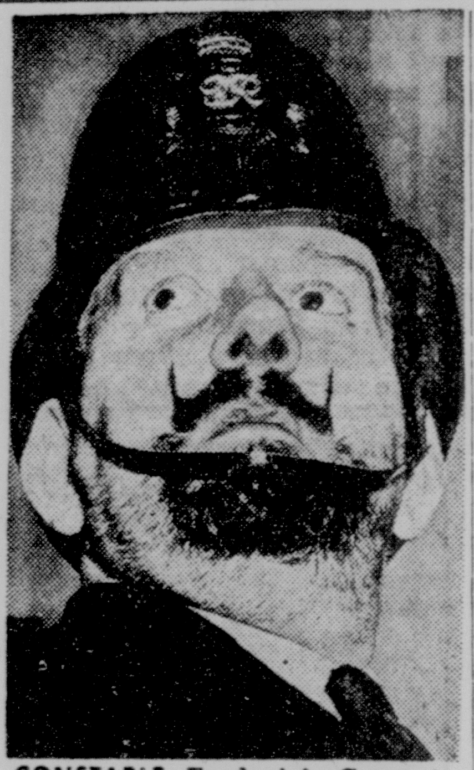
John Wheeler

Every summer down at East-hampton, Long Island, they have a women's soft-ball game, when the girls put on shorts, because they think these make them look good. Some do. On the field, any resemblance to Joe DiMaggio or Ted Williams is purely co-incidental. There's a guy manages one of the teams, named Kip Farrington, who dresses himself up to look like Casey Stengel and tries to think like him, too. The final score is generally something around 31 to 24.

Two or three years ago, Farrington, after a little skull practice, imported a female pitcher from Philadelphia who was supposed to be hot stuff and must have read of the antics of "Bugs" Raymond and "Rube" Waddell, for she got a snoot full before the game started. It turned out she was also a flier and had arrived in her own plane. Along about the fifth inning she had her ears knocked back and was taken out. She immediately lost interest in the contest and consoled herself at the bar.

After the last girl had slid home on her shorts, the ringer cranked up her airplane and flew over the field. My missus and I were standing with Grantland Rice and his wife on an elevated tee when she circled the first time, coming pretty close, and we thought she had gone on her way, until she came around again and pretty nearly knocked our hats off. Next trip, she flew right at us and wasn't fooling. We all hit the ground on our stomachs, and you could almost feel the wheels. I got up spitting out grass and rough language. One little slip, and we might as well have been in a sausage grinder. It was reported later she lost her license as an aviator, and she never deserved one as a pitcher.

Under the heading of narrow escapes was batting against Walter Johnson, the old Washington hurler. He had a fast ball which would knock a steer down if hit in the head, and lots of the boys used to get sick with what Damon Runyon called the German quinsy on days he was scheduled to work. However, because of good control, he never killed any batters.



CONSTABLE Frederick Crost is photographed while on traffic duty on a London thoroughfare. He is believed to be city's only bearded bobby. (International Exclusive)

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce of the National Geographic is one of the distinguished, aging editors of this country. Recently, I took a trip with him in a private airplane, and we got talking about Carl Fisher, the man who developed Miami Beach from a swamp into the winter playground and backdrop for cheesecake photographs.

The good doctor was visiting his friend, Mr. Fisher, in Indianapolis years ago and had lunch with two barnstorming aviators in the days when the machines had no windshields and were very low cut in front. One of them invited the editor to take a flight, and, prodded by his host, he accepted. Naturally, he observed his pilot carefully and was somewhat shocked and anxious when he counted seven highballs he swallowed during the meal. With great trepidation, Dr. La Gorce got into the plane, and Fisher came over to shake his hand before the takeoff. By way of reassurance, he remarked,

"Jack, stop worrying. If you don't come back, I'll take care of your family."

The pilots put on a terrific show, buzzing each other, turning upside down, and playing leap frog.

"It cured me of flying for a long time," concluded my friend as he looked out at the whirling propellers of our steady ship and took a sip of his scotch and soda. "A week later, one pilot was killed and three weeks later the other."

I used to know a screwball around New York who was a professional dancer at night and sold a contrivance I think called a "foot-mobile" in the daytime. It had a litte motor, and the rider stood up on it balancing himself with the handle bars.

We stopped to see him perform one evening, and later decided to go up to Central Park to find out how the machine worked. Someone persuaded me to get on it, which seemed to be a good idea then, and everything went all right until "we" (the vehicle and I like Lindbergh used to say "we") hit a downgrade. I didn't know how to stop it, so decided to dismount as "we" crashed into an iron fence. It tore off a linen suit I was wearing, and the doctors were pasting skin on me for a week. I think it was Winston Churchill who once said,

"Live boldly, dread naught."

I might add a postscript—"Don't deliberately try to knock your brains out."

Jets To Feature Revival Of Air Races At Detroit

DETROIT (INS)—The National Air Races, featuring the nation's speediest jets seeking to eclipse world records, will be renewed in Detroit this Saturday and Sunday after a one-year lapse.

Held in Cleveland in recent years, the races were discontinued in 1949 following the fatal crash of famed flyer Bill Odom.

This year's aero extravaganza will be dominated by the U.S. Air Force which will attempt to smash all previous records in the famous Bendix Transcontinental, and the Allison and Thompson trophy races.

Only one race, the crowd pleasing Continental closed-course contest for "homemade" midget ships, is open to civilian flyers.

A feature of the National Air Races since 1931, the Bendix will be held Saturday. Seven of the Air Force's current best jet fighters and bombers will roar into the skies from the Muroc Air Base in California.

The winning ship is expected to make the 2,000-mile trip in three hours and 15 minutes, arriving at the Detroit-Wayne Major Airport at about 2 p.m. (EST). The standing record, held by Maj. Vernon A. Ford, of three hours, 45 minutes, 51 seconds was established in 1949.

The Allison Jet Trophy race, a comparative newcomer in the 30 year history of the air races, will be a contest between four Republic Thunderjets racing nonstop from Detroit to Indianapolis and back. The run will be made in about 50 minutes.

The Thompson Trophy race, taking place Sunday afternoon over a measured 100 kilometer course, pits the Sabrejet, piloted by 32-year-old Col. Fred Ascani of Rockford, Ill., against time and against the present world record held by Great Britain.

John Douglas Derry established the recordd in 1948 in a De Haviland jet with the then-astonishing speed of 605.230 miles per hour.

Since the record is expected to change hands this year great care has been taken to lay out a course for the Thompson that will be accepted throughout the world.

Perhaps the most spectacular event for the spectators is the civilian's lone opportunity to show his flight prowess — the Continental Motors Trophy race.

The last race of the air show, the Continental is over a 2½ mile long octagonal course marked by pylons on the turns. The midget planes speed 15 laps around the course in front of the grand stands for a purse of $25,000.

The colorful race attracts some of the nation's finest pilots and plane builders and last year's heat record of 188 miles per hour is expected to fall.

In addition to the races, the more than 200,000 persons expected to be in attendance will be treated to the most varied and complete array of military air power ever before displayed in the history of the world.

Truck Overloading Campaign Is Urged

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP) — The Maryland Motor Truck Association wants the state to wage a 24-hour-a-day campaign against overloaded trucks with the aim of "eliminating completely" such law violations.

A resolution calling for the campaign was presented to the State Roads Commission by J. Marshall Stewart, Joseph Davidson and Robert W. Furtick.

The resolution said "the very few operators who have continued to overload are reflecting unfavorably on the good name and reputation of the motor carrier industry as a whole."

The line of greatest frequency of the aurora borealis, or "northern lights," runs through northern Norway, across central Hudson Bay, around to Point Barrow, Alaska, and through northern Siberia. One may see as many as 243 auroras in a year along this line, says the National Geographic Society.

Accused Rapist Sent To Mental Hospital

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—A Virginia farmhand accused of raping two baby nieces was committed to Spring Grove State Hospital yesterday.

Williard Lee Gray, 37, was found innocent of the charges by reason of insanity at the time his two-and-three-year-old nieces were raped in their home at Pasadena in 1949.

After hearing testimony of two state psychiatrists and studying reports of two mental hospital superintendents, Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson found Gray now is legally sane, But he held the sharp-featured 145-pound man is "mentally defective."

Appetizer Tray

Tall glasses of icey cold cocktail vegetable juices make a wonderful afternoon pickup; or serve the beverage as an appetizer before dinner. Put glasses of juice on a tray with a bowl of crisp potato chips and creamy pimiento cheese spread for dunking. Pleasant interlude on a hot day.

Shellbark hickory ranks first as the best kind of wood for fuel.

Custard Flavor Dessert in 7 Minutes!

Appetizing Vegetable Dinner

Make the most of the fresh vegetables now flooding the produce markets by serving a vegetable plate for dinner. As a suggestion, feature tomatoes baked with a meatless stuffing of rice cereal and canned broiled mushrooms. Add green beans and carrots for flavor and color interest.

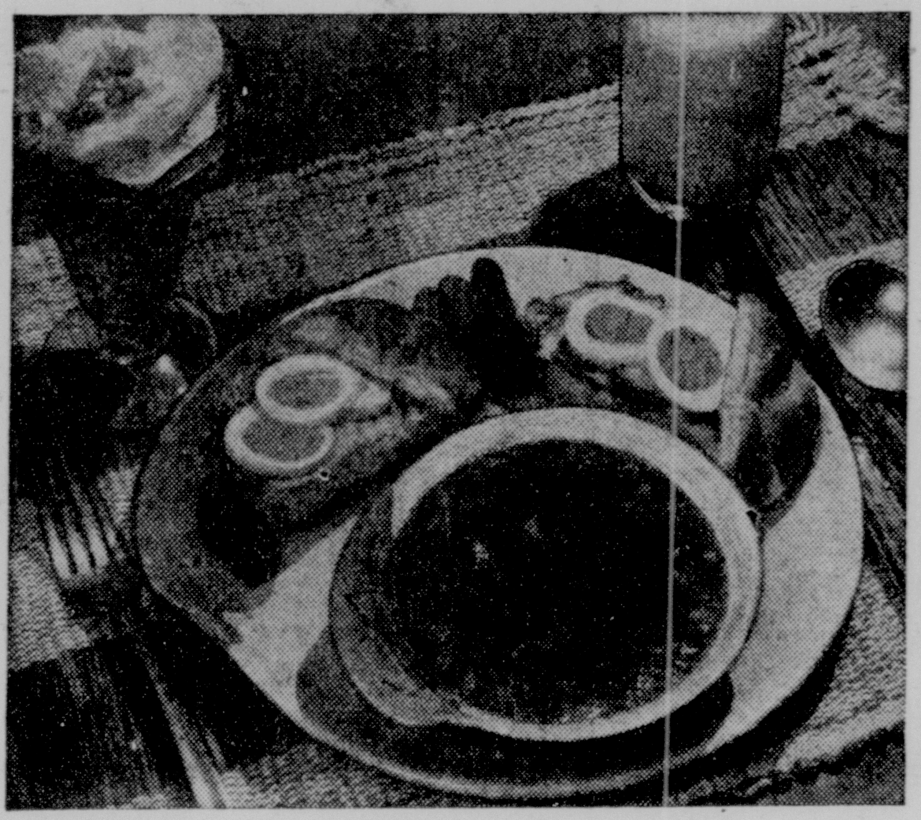
Rice Stuffed Tomatoes

Six large red tomatoes; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons minced onion; 3 oz. can broiled mushrooms; ⅔ cup water; 1 bouillon cube; ¼ cup granulated rice cereal; ½ cup soft grated cheese; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; ⅛ teaspoon oregano.

Cut slice from the top of each tomato. Scoop out the pulp and reserve. Melt butter in saucepan and add the onion. Cook over moderate heat for 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Add tomato pulp, broth from can of mushrooms, water and bouillon cube. Bring to boil. Sprinkle in rice cereal and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Lower heat and let simmer for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in cheese and seasonings. Reserving 6 of the mushrooms for garnish, coarsely chop the rest and add to the rice mixture. Pile the filling into the tomatoes. Place a mushroom on top of each tomato. Place tomatoes in shallow greased baking dish or muffin pan and bake in moderately hot oven, 375° F, until tomatoes are done, about 20 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Kitchen-Cool Meals



HOW about this for lunch today? A big bowl of vegetable-beef soup, egg and lettuce sandwich, and a banana nut sundae. It's a treat on a summer day.

Pork And Bean Tip

You'll find that pork and beans in tomato sauce are available in cans of two sizes. Here's the way to figure servings. The 1-pound can contains 1⅔ cups of pork and beans, enough for 2 or 3 servings. The 1-pound-7-ounce can has 2½ cups, enough for 3 to 5 servings.

Spaghetti 'N Onions

Prepared spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese— mixer with plenty of browned onion and green peper rings — is a supper to shout about. Cut rings about ¼-inch thick; brown in a little hot shortening in a skillet. Mix with the heated spaghetti.

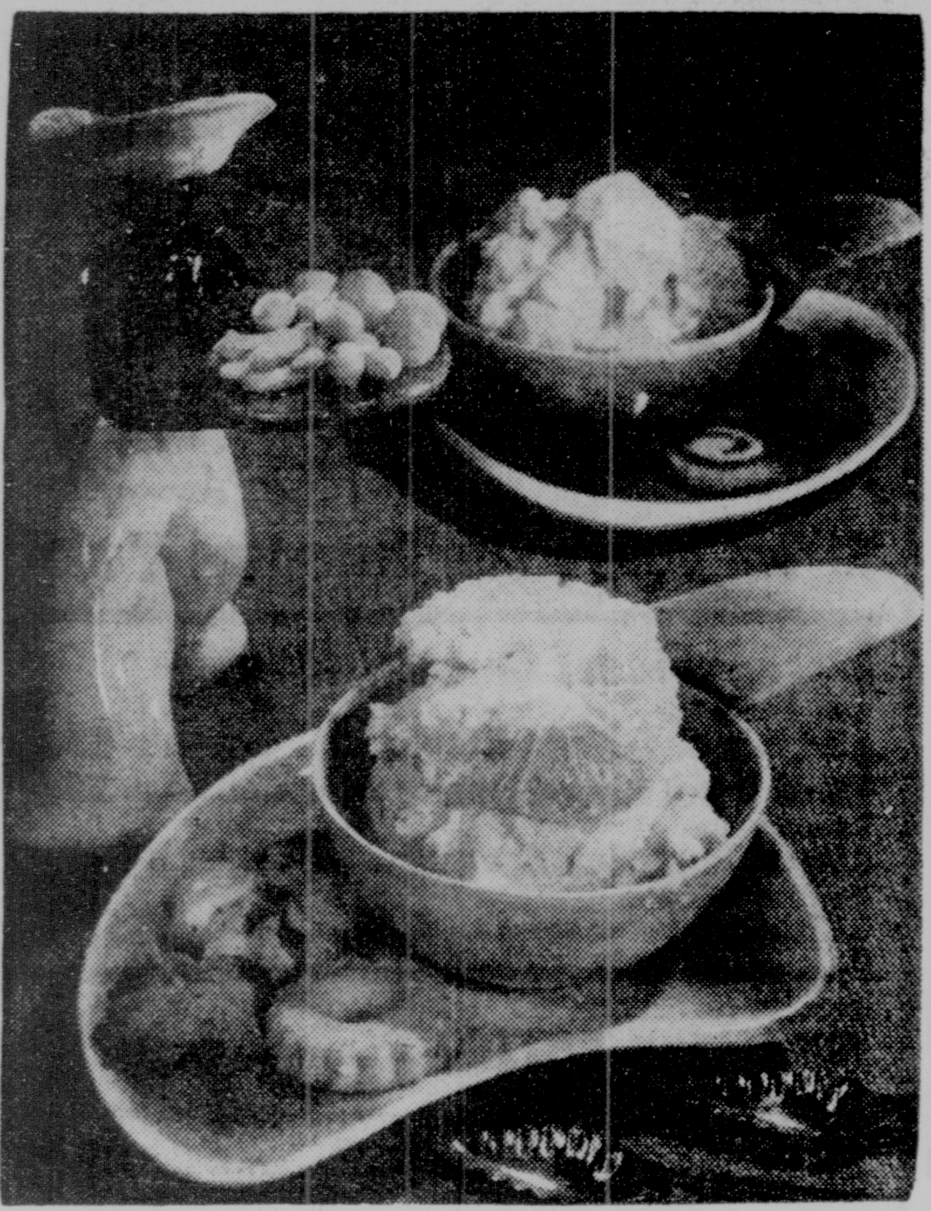
Bridge Prize



You'll get first prize as the favorite hostess when you serve this Tropical Freeze. The flavor is so intriging that all your friends will clamor for the recipe—the texture is so light and rich that they will be sure it took hours to make. Actually, you can make this exciting ice cream within a few minutes. Make it the day before and it will be ready to serve—no second beating or extra work. An unusual dessert dish will further enhance Tropical Freeze so don't be afraid to use a different type of dish—the one illustrated is really a cup and saucer.

Tropical Freeze

⅜ cup fresh orange juice
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup pineapple juice
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream

Combine fruit juices, peel and juices. Whip cream until stiff; fold juice mixture into whipped cream. Pour into freezer tray and freeze, stirring it once when half frozen. Makes approximately six servings.

Ambrosia Jiffy Frosting

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup coconut
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¼ cup finely chopped orange pulp

Melt butter; add brown sugar, coconut and orange peel. Blend in finely chopped orange (made by peeling a California orange and then chopping it into small pieces). Spread the mixture over cakes that have already been baked, place under broiler as far from heat as possible. Broil a few seconds or until topping bubbles and coconut starts to brown.

Summertime Salad With Special Dressing

Summertime Crab Meat Salad

1 cup tomato juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
dash cayenne
1 cup mayonnaise
1 6½-oz. can crab meat
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
Salad greens

Add tomato juice, Worcestershire sauce and cayenne to mayonnaise. Beat until smooth with rotary beater. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Combine crab meat, celery and olives. Add dressing just before serving; mix and serve on salad greens. Six servings.

Ambrosia Jiffy Cakes

1⅓ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
¼ cup shortening
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup fresh orange juice

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spices. Cream shortening with orange peel, adding sugar gradually, and creaming until fluffy. Add egg and beat until well blended. Combine milk and orange juice. Add flour mixture alternately with liquid, beginning and ending with flour. Put paper muffin cups into muffin pans and fill each cup ⅔ full. Makes 13 or 14 medium-sized cup cakes. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for about 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Top with Ambrosia Jiffy Frosting.

Use Variety Cool Drinks

Variety in the summer drinks you serve marks you as a good hostess. And to be able to offer your guests a choice of long coolers is a gesture in the grand manner. It's simpler than it sounds if you have a supply of ingredients chilling in the refrigerator ready for instant use.

GINGER TEA

1 teaspoon tea
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
ginger ale

Steep tea in boiling water five minutes. Strain in tall glasses over ice cubes, add lemon juice and chilled ginger ale.

FRUIT BLEND

½ cup grapefruit juice
½ cup orange juice
½ cup loganberry juice
½ cup pineapple juice
1 bottle ginger ale

Combine and chill ingredients, adding ginger ale just before serving. Serves 4.

COFFEE SPARKLE

½ cup strong, cold coffee
2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
2 tablespoons cream
Sparkling water

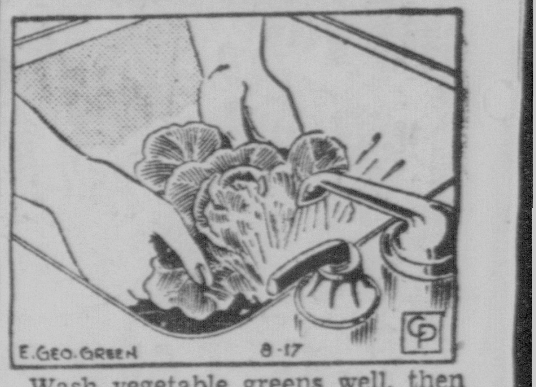
Combine coffee, chocolate syrup and cream. Pour over ice in tall glass, blending well. Fill glass with sparkling water.

GINGER PINEAPPLE SODA

½ cup crushed pineapple
few drops almond flavoring
1 pint vanilla ice cream
ginger ale

Combine crushed pineapple and flavoring. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Add a scoop of ice cream to each glass. Fill glasses with ice cold ginger ale. Stir gently to mix.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Wash vegetable greens well, then drain thoroughly before using. Water left on them will dilute the dressing.

EASY SUMMER ENTERTAINING — Three suggestions for easy summer entertaining are, as shown, a platter of cold cuts, jumbo tomatoes stuffed with ham salad and a quick meat sauce to serve with spaghetti. Use a variety of cold cuts on the platter and a pretty garnish, such as these perky spiced crab apples. Coarsely chopped ripe olives added to the spaghetti meat sauce give it interesting flavor and texture.

Quick Meat Dishes For Summer Parties

More time to be friendly is what the homemaker of today enjoys. With party dishes so easy to prepare, she can entertain whenever the mood strikes her.

Hostesses who like to save time keep a mile of quick-to-fix party dishes, with footnotes on appropriate menus to go with them. Three good ideas for such a file, especially for summer entertaining, are ham salad in tomato shells, spaghetti with a deluxe meat sauce and a handsome platter of cold cuts. They're easy to prepare, economical and favorites with every one.

HAM SALAD IN TOMATO FLOWERS

2 cups diced ham
1 cup finely diced celery
French dressing
2 teaspoons sweet pickle relish
2 hard cooked eggs
Mayonnaise
Salt and pepper
4 large ripe tomatoes

Combine ham and celery and over them pour enough French dressing to moisten. Let stand in refrigerator ½ hour; stir occasionally. Add relish, coarsely chopped eggs and enough mayonnaise to moisten slightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Peel tomatoes and cut almost through into 6 sections so that they open like flowers. Pile ham salad into center of each tomato and serve with garnish of parsley or watercress. Smart menu—Accompany with frozen French fries, green peas, hot corn meal muffins. Serve orange ice for dessert topped with chocolate sauce.

COLD CUTS PLATTER SOPHISTICATE

Make a pretty platter of cold cuts by arranging a row of summer sausage and a row of luncheon meat (or spiced ham) and cheese in alternating slices. Flank these with a row of well drained spiced crab apples. Add to this cold cuts assortment, if you like, using bologna, soft salami and liver sausage.

Pretty menu—With the cold cuts, serve chilled potato salad or macaroni salad, a jellied fruit mold, hot "brown and serve" rolls and lemon or chocolate chiffon pie (Macaroni Salad is made by following a potato salad recipe. Allow sufficient time for either salad to stand in the refrigerator before serving so that the flavors will blend thoroughly.) Chopped ripe olives used in this meat sauce add flavor and interesting texture.

DELUXE SPAGHETTI MEAT SAUCE

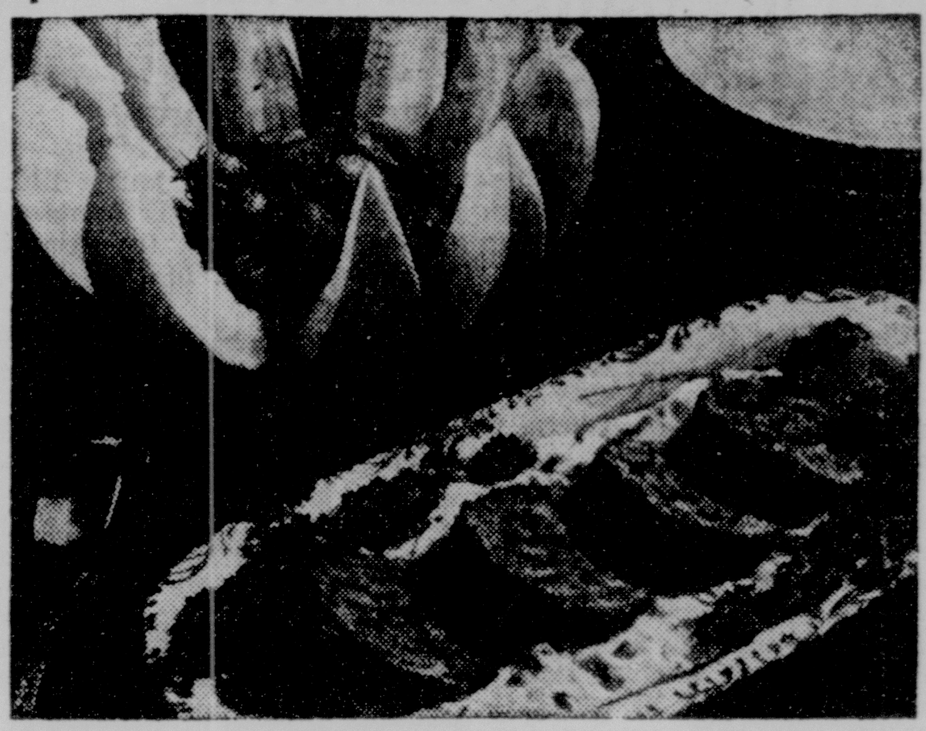
1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons fat
1 medium onion
1 clove garlic
1 large can tomatoes (3½ cups)
1 can tomato paste
Salt, pepper, sugar
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ to 1 cup sliced ripe olives

In a heavy deep pan heat fat and in it cook chopped onions until a light brown. Push to one side, add beef and sear thoroughly. Add minced garlic, tomatoes, tomato paste, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon sugar. Cook, covered, over low heat for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add chili powder and Worcestershire sauce and cook another 15 minutes. Add olives and a little water if sauce has become too thick. Add extra salt, if necessary, and serve over hot cooked spaghetti.

Add Flavor With Bacon Drippings

You don't know what you're missing if you haven't made a habit of using flavor-rich bacon drippings in your cooking. They're easy to store in a covered container in your refrigerator and add tastiness to any number of dishes. Green beans flavored with bacon drippings long have been a traditional part of southern hospitality. Bacon drippings are excellent for frying many foods such as sliced cooked potatoes, sliced fresh tomatoes, sliced onion, apple rings, chicken, eggs, French toast, fish and bananas. Sacllloped potatoes and Spanish rice are other dishes which are improved flavorwise with bacon drippings.

Special For Summer Brunch



Summer days are lazy days and just the time for brunch. How nice it is to get up late enough to serve breakfast and lunch at the same time and have time to prepare the specials that make brunch a treat.

Make a deluxe beginning with honeydew melon, cut flower-shaped and filled with juicy red strawberries, or other berries in season. Follow the first course with another special,—Tangy Corned Beef Hash in Olive Sauce. It's easily and quickly prepared with canned corned beef hash and condensed cream of mushroom soup. Complete the menu with your favorite hot bread or toast, jelly and coffee.

Tangy Corned Beef Hash In Olive Sauce

2 tablespoons butter, or margarine
1teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
1 1-1lb. can corned beef hash
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives

Melt butter in skillet; add Worcestershire sauce and sliced corned beef hash. Brown slices on each side and remove to serving platter. Heat soup and olives together in the skillet. Serve on platter around corned beef hash. Four servings.

Absolute zero is the temperature at which there is absolutely no heat. It is determined as being 273 degrees Centigrade below zero and 459.4 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Fair Livestock Contest Judges Are Selected

The schedule for judging livestock at the Cumberland Fair next week has been announced by R. F. McHenry, county farm agent.

Four experts in this field have been obtained to classify the large number of entries this year.

They include Dr. Joseph Pou, the newly appointed head of the Dairy Department at the University of Maryland; Fred Downey, of Williamsport, Md.; M. E. Gannon, of the livestock department at the University of Maryland, and Charles E. Shaw, of Hagerstown.

Tuesday at 9 a. m. Downey will judge Guernsey dairy cattle; Shaw, Jersey dairy cattle, and Gannon, Shropshire sheep.

At 1 p. m., Dr. Pou will judge Ayshire and Holstein dairy cattle and Gannon will merit the Aberdeen Angus beef cattle.

Wednesday, at 9 a. m. Dr. Pou will start judging the 4-H exhibits while Gannon will judge the Future Farmers of America hog exhibit.

All day Thursday the Future Farmers of America boys of Allegany and Garrett counties will have a judging and training program.

McHenry reported the last entries in the dairy cattle section are 15 head of Holsteins by A. Doty Remsburg, of Jefferson, Md.

A total of $2,040 in premiums will be awarded to beef cattle exhibitors at the fair.

There will be $680 in prizes in each of the three major breeds, Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn.

Ribbons will be awarded to the champion and reserve champion bull of each breed as well as to the champion and reserve champion female.

First prize money to the beef cattle owners will total $765. Second prize premiums will aggregate $612. The total prize money for third place winners will total $408. The fourth place total will be $255.

The Atlantic ocean first was mentioned by that name by Herodotus, Roman historian.

15,500 Enrollment In County High Schools Is Anticipated

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, said yesterday that all county high schools will be crowded when the new term starts Thursday, September 6.

Enrollment is expected to be approximately 15,500 students, Kopp said.

In the elementary schools the plan to have rooms standardized at 30 pupils each starting this year will have to be held off until the current school building program is completed.

The new school in Mt. Savage will not be ready until at least February, according to Kopp. Beall High School in Frostburg will handle students from the Mt. Savage area.

In Cumberland both Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools will be crowded, Kopp said. Fort Hill enrollment will be much larger than last year. Four classes will again have to be conducted at Pennsylvania Avenue School to take care of the overflow from Fort Hill.

The new school being erected in Lonaconing will not be ready until the opening of the school term in September, 1952.

Kopp said that all children must be vaccinated and beginners must be six years of age on or before January 1, 1952 in order to be enrolled in the first grade.

Kopp said that only a few vacancies exist in the teaching staff of county schools and he expects to fill these prior to the opening of the new term.

Local 1874 Seeks Wage Hike Approval

Papers were filed with the Wage Stabilization Board in Washington, yesterday by Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, in which approval is asked for the granting of the six cents of the 10 cents increase won in a new contract with the Celanese.

The six cents represents the amount above the percentage in a wage hike allowed in the WSB formula. The union seeks approval of the governmental agency in having the wage increase placed into effect.

Dick Will Rule On Truck Weight Cases Here Today

Entomologist Gives Extermination Methods

If you've been fighting a losing war with flies this summer, maybe you'd better change your plan of attack and add a few new weapons. T. L. Bissell, Extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, suggests getting behind your enemy's lines, and destroying his food supply, through sanitation. After the clean-up, bombard flies with one of the new effective chemical sprays.

This way you get the flies going and coming, Bissell says. When straw and manure piles are cleared away, rubbish and garbage removed, the pesky insect is left without his favorite eating and breeding grounds. DDT is still the best all-around spray, Bissell says, but there are other sprays that will do some jobs better.

There are two publications available at your County Agent's office which will outline the best way to get rid of flies, and the recommended sprays for each job. One is Fly Control, Extension Bulletin 136. The other is Control of Biting Flies on Horses and Cattle, a Department of Entomology mimeo.

AT THE LOS ANGELES Hall of Records, movie producer-writer Preston Sturges, 52, and his leading lady, Sandy Mellen, 21, pose for the news cameramen after they had obtained a marriage license. Sturges revealed they have been going together for a year. (International)

Wiley Ford Pastor To Become Elder

Rev. Vernon R. Beckman, pastor of the Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren, will be ordained to the eldership Monday at 8 p. m. at the Church.

Elder Joseph Whitacre and M. L. Riggleman, members of the district ministerial board, will be in charge of the service.

Rev. Beckman, who attended Bethany Bible School in Chicago and Elizabethtown (Pa.) College, was licensed in the minstry on September 8, 1946 at the age of 18. He delivered his first sermon at Eglon, W. Va., a month later and in September 12, 1948 was ordained into the ministry after returning to Bethany Bible School.

Rev. Beckman became pastor at Wiley Ford in September, 1949 and is the youngest Church of the Brethren pastor in the district and one of the youngest in the entire church.

The U. S. government has never issued any gold certificates below $10 denominations.

Sen. O'Conor's Stand Greeted Favorably

Edward Hardcastle, local district manager for the National Federation of Independent Business, has written to Senator Herbert R. O'Conor concerning the latter's opposition to additional federal judgeships in Maryland and his suggestion that the Federal Courts here and in Denton be closed.

Hardcastle wrote: "Your stand, as a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, will be greeted with satisfaction by many businessmen in the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland. Any senator who, after studying a situation, recommends reduction in government expense and also, as you do, less government in business should be thanked by his constituents.

"This letter is purely a personal one, but from hundreds of contracts with businessmen, I know many would like to join with me in thanking you for your consideration of the reduction of the cost of government."

Wasted Timber

ROSEBERG, Ore.—(INS)—About 60 per cent of the timber felled in Oregon is wasted according to a Department of Interior report prepared by Oregon State College. This finding was made by Prof. Chester O. Broders of OSC after a two-months survey in the Southern Oregon area around Roseberg.

Ballistic Workers Plan Annual Picnic

The Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will hold its annual picnic for employes, their families and guests tomorrow in Chalybeate Park, near Bedford, Pa.

Sponsored by the Recreation Club, the outing will get underway at noon. Games for children and adults will begin at 1:30 p.m. A softball game between the lab team and the C. and P. Telephone Company delegation at 3:30 p.m. will highlight the program.

Members of the C. and P. team will be guests. More than 500 persons are expected to attend.

John Drummond, president of the Recreation Club and general chairman of the picnic committee, said transportation will be furnished for employes. A bus will leave the Baltimore Avenue entrance of Central YMCA at 11 a.m.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

RIGHT WAY TO "SHOOT"

ALL tournament followers have seen cases of players who, late in the game, feel that they require some especially good scores on the remaining deals to overcome several earlier disasters. So they do what is called "shooting." That means striving to obtain on a deal some score which no other pair is likely to get. To many such "shooting" involves wild psychic bidding and false-carding against which the odds are terrific. A sounder way to "shoot" is seek a method which has just as good a mathematical chance of success as that likely to be chosen by others.

When South saw the dummy after West's lead of the heart J, he estimated the bidding of others and decided correctly that many would be in the same contract. Next he reckoned that most of them, with twelve top tricks in sight, would seek the thirteenth with the club finesse. That obviously depended on West having the Q. This declarer therefore decided to play East for the Q and go for a squeeze play, since the lead marked East as holding the heart K.

He therefore planned a finishing lineup to squeeze with the dummy's last spade while dummy also held the club A-J-5, retaining himself the heart Q and club K-9-4. Playing to that position, he won the opener with the heart A, scored the spade A and K, diamond A, Q and J, spade Q and J, diamond 7 to the K and eventually the spade 10. This wrecked East.

That defender had the heart K as expected, also the club Q as hoped, together with two other clubs. If he discarded the heart K, South would have discarded a club, would have led to the club K, scored the heart Q and finally the club 9 to the A. East picked a club, which was just as damaging, whereupon South discarded the heart Q. The club K, A and J then took the last three tricks to assure a top score for this smart declarer.

North Carolina Opens New Type Health Program

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — (AP) — Something new in medicine, a coordinated state-wide health program, is nearing completion with headquarters at the University of North Carolina.

The university headquarters will be a division of health education. It comprises acres of new buildings, a new four-year medical school, new dental school, new school of nursing and enlarged schools of public health, and pharmacy. Also a new university hospital.

The four-year medical school is one of four under development in the United States since the end of World War Two. It is an extension of the University's two year medical school which was started in 1879. The students went elsewhere for their final training.

The new medical school started in temporary quarters this year, with 58 students, selected from more than 400 applicants. The 400 qualified in scholastic achievements but there was not room for them. Scores of others wrote about entering, but did not try to qualify. The new school hopes later to raise its yearly quota of freshmen to 70 or 75 which is the average for the nation's medical schools. Most of the applicants this year came from the South.

The new dental school is number 40 in the nation. It had the same rush of applicants as the medical school, around 400. Thirty-nine were admitted, one a women. The dental school is housed temporarily in quonset huts.

The nursing school will admit its first class of 50 this fall.

The school of public health was organized in 1936 to train health personnel.

The school of pharmacy was organized in 1880, and is one of 75 in the nation.

The State of North Carolina supports the health program and a new organization, the Medical Foundation of North Carolina, is assisting.

Non-skid chains for automobiles were invented by Charles Algernon Parsons, English inventor and shipbuilder.

Peony roots were worn about the necks of children in olden days as a guard against sickness.

18th Century Venetian Palace Being Restored

VENICE—(AP)—Venetians are preparing for Europe's most fabulous party since the war.

It will be the housewarming on Sept. 3 for the 18th Century Labia Palace, now being restored to its ancient spendor.

Three thousand socially elite guests have been invited to dress in expensive 18th Century costumes and dance, watch entertainment and dine on rare delicacies through the night.

Almost all of the guests will be descendants of 18th Century nobility. They will include the Aga Khan, members of the French Royal Houses of Bourbon and De Guise, surviving members of the Hapsburg and Hohenzollern families, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, among many others prominent in international society.

The host is the tremendously wealthy Spanish-born Don Carlos de Bestegui of Paris, who has summered in Venice for 25 years.

Bestegui bought the Labia Palace two years ago for $500,000. He is said to be spending $6,250,000 restoring the dazzling 18th Century splendor of the place.

Carpenters, architects and decorators have been swarming over the ancient building. Barges are carrying bales of expensive fabrics through the canals to the palace.

Eviction notices have been served on a few poor families who had been living in the palace basement and top floor since they lost their own homes in the war.

But the host has plans for the poor, too. While the chic international set dance inside the palace, Bestegui will give a fiesta for the population of Venice on the grounds of the estate. Wine and cake, in the 18th Century style, will be served to the crowd and there will be fireworks and music.

Bestegui, who once lived in Mexico, has a reputation as colorful as the party he is planning. Recently he bought an $80,000 motor boat, which he keeps moored on the Canareggio that runs by his palace. He maintains a shiny black personal gondola with two personal gondoliers. He is always accompanied by his own French waiter, a cook and a butler.

There are no available estimates on the size of Bestegui's fortune. He has interests in many countries, including heavy investments in airlines. His party guests are to receive special discounts on their airline tickets, he has announced.

The word "housewife" has been in the English language since early times. It appears in literature of 1225 in the form of "husewif."

Princess Anne Mighty Confined On First Birthday

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON—(AP)—At the age of one year, Princess Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise is a sociable little girl completely surrounded by a play pen.

She is the daughter of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, and that makes her third in succession to the British throne.

But the little Princess doesn't know that. Of far more concern than what the future may hold for her is the matter of another tooth which may be at the point of making an appearance. At any rate, there is an itching. A survey on the eve of her birthday established a total of six teeth which look nice when the Princess smiles.

Other data: Blue eyes. Soft and curly hair. Happy disposition. Good health.

It seems likely that she'll grow up to be a blonde.

At the age of one the youngest Princess is somewhat wobbly. She pulls herself up by the slats of the play pen, but it's an uncertain business and she comes down with frequent thuds. She is at the beginning of what Princess Elizabeth calls the crawling stage, and by the looks of things she will be a nimble crawler soon. She is also at the button-opening stage, her nannies often discovering that the Princess has undone herself.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are doing what little they can to shield their children from the excitements of the razzle-dazzle of royal life. They insist that the Princess and her two and three-quarters year old brother, Prince Charles, who is No. 2 in succession parade, should live as normal infants. So the curiosity of the crowds is discouraged. But for the birthday Princess Elizabeth has permitted the revelation of some nursery secrets.

So it is disclosed that Princess Anne gurgles — almost intelligibly. She manages to say "mama" and "papa," which are the terms used in the Windsor households. She says "Cha," and that means "Charles."

The Princess' favorite color is white, but she didn't have anything to do with its choice. It happens that, mostly, she wears clothing Prince Charles has discarded, and when he was just a youngster he wore white.

Anne's favorite toy is a duck that squawks, and next in the Princess' heart is a teddy bear named Brumas. It is the name of a famous young bear born in the London Zoo.

The children share a nursery where the bosses are two nannies who are Scotswomen, Helen Lightbody and Mabel Anderson. And Charles, who now scampers about almost as fast as the Scotswomen can follow, is proud of Anne, drags in visitors and commands them to admire her.

A birthday party? Princess Elizabeth thinks her children are too young to care for one.

And it's a home without pet names. The children are Anne and Charles. That's what they'll be called, insists Elizabeth, who in her own childhood chose a lilting nickname for herself—"Lilibet." It has stuck.

Recon Boys Get More Protection

FORT BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—Uncle Sam is giving more and more protection to his "seeing eye" boys, the fellows who fly the reconnaissance planes for aerial photographs behind the enemy lines.

This was disclosed during a lull in Exercise Southern Pine, the biggest Air Force-Army joint maneuver since World War II.

An announcement from Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon, commanding the Tactical Air Command, said that tactical reconnaissance units will soon be equipped with new RF-84-F aircraft.

The RF-84-F is a long range, high or low altitude, day or night, tactical reconnaissance plane. Unlike "reece" aircraft of the past, the pilot can now fight back if he is intercepted by the enemy.

Airspeeds in excess of 700 miles per hour and four machine guns mounted in the wings equal the performance of the best jet fighters. Dive brakes make the planes highly maneuverable and they are capable of flying higher than nine miles.

The announcement said that Tactical Air Command will receive the first RF-84-F's next year and will assign them to reconnaissance wings presently using RF-80 "Shooting Stars." One such unit, the 117th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing from Lawson Air Force Base, Georgia, is now taking part in Exercise Southern Pine.

Wardens reported good reception in their calls on residents, adding that the campaign has shown good citizen interest in the Little League and a willingness to help any way possible. A fine cooperative spirit is shown by all, report the wardens. Solicitation will require several more days and the closing date is set for next Wednesday, when a report will be made to the Kiwanis Club.

At the meeting there were two guests, Dr. Harvey Martin, recently located in Keyser, and Paul C. Rouser, instructor in the Co-operative Institution for on the Farm Training for Hampshire County Board of Education.

Rouser spoke on "Influencing People."

He referred to resolutions adopted at the recent International Meeting of Kiwanis Clubs held in St. Louis, and referred to the influence that brought the resolutions to life and said that each of them are influential in a big measure, especially those dealing with national and international matters.

"The world may continue a long peaceful era or go into a great world war through influence of some person or persons," he said, adding that "there are always some persons with enough influence to bring about good or bad," and concluded with an admonition to use our influence for good.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16 (INS)—Farley Granger is the third star added to "Hans Christian Andersen" already lighted up with Danny Kaye and Ballet Star Moira Shearer. Farley plays Moira's husband—Danny, of course, being Hans.

Before Sam Goldwyn took off for Honolulu he called Farley into his office, told him about his new assignment and wished him a happy vacation in Europe. From all the back slapping and hand shakes, you'd never have guessed that Sam had suspended him six months ago and is supposed not to approve of Farley's romance with Shelley Winters.

Maybe Farley's knockout performance in Sam's "I Want You" had something to do with it.

Robert Cummings

Another top Hollywood actor lost to Broadway. Robert Cummings co-stars with Ann Sothern in "More Than Love," the L. Bus-Fekete-Mary Helen Fay play, formerly called "The Philemon Complex." Like Ann Bob has been looking for a good New York show for some time and he believes the Richard Krakeur production is it.

Bob was supposed to fly to New York—but after he telephoned Krakeur and told him it's only a few weeks until he becomes a papa again, the producer gave him permission to remain here until the end of the month.

All the well-known and semi-well-known actresses who tested for Mary in Cathedral Films' "Life Of Christ" have lost out to an unknown. The beautiful and tender role goes to Eileen Rowe, a 21-year-old girl, born in Los Angeles.

I guess it isn't exactly accurate to call her an "unknown" since she has appeared at the Pasadena playhouse and, briefly, on Broadway.

But, the point is she has never made a picture which the Rev. James K. Friedrich, producer of the religious spectacle, believes is important in making the characterization believable.

Vivian Blaine's dressing room was jammed with flowers and candy for her opening day on "Skirts Ahoy" with Esther Williams.

But, her biggest kick was a letter signed by all the Guys And Dolls of her broadway hit, "Guys And Dolls," wishing her lots of success in her picture but not so much that she doesn't come back to the show.

They also sent an honest-to-goodness WAVE uniform (she plays a WAVE in the movie) tailored to her measurements in which Vivian Looks like a "doll"—plug.

Mirror Of Your Mind

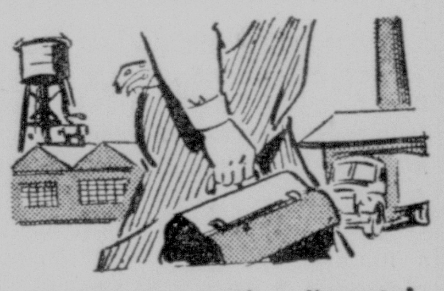
By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May failure to eat be neurotic?

Answer: Just as much as over-eating. According to Dr. Franklin S. DuBois, writing in the Journal of Insurance Medicine, the condition known as "anorexia nervosa." in which the patient is unable to eat or retain food and may actually starve, is basically a compulsion neurosis. Physical treatment may be necessary, but psychotherapy is the real remedy. Just as over-eating may involve an effort to make up for other forms of pleasure which a person feels deprived of, so rejection of food may be an unconscious symbol of resisting the temptation to enjoy delights which are thought of as dangerous or forbidden.

May neurosis raise your I.Q.?

Answer: It may at least seem to do so. Some psychiatrists maintain that it is better not to be too clever because people of superior intelligence appear less happy and more subject to neurosis than their relatively dull or even stupid neighbors. But rather than assume that intelligence causes neurosis, I would suggest that the tension and anxiety which a neurosis creates drive the person to develop whatever intelligence he has more fully than he oterwise would. The heroic struggle to overcome neurotic feelings of inferiority probably accounts for many brilliant intellectual achievements.



Is a person with a "mental history" employable?

Answer: There is no fixed rule about it, says Dr. Roland P. Mackay, University of Illinois psychiatrist, in Industrial Medicine It makes a great difference what the nature of the mental illness has been, and each case should be decided on its merits with the advice of the psychiatrists by whom the person has been treated. But having a job can itself be a great aid to complete recovery and the average neurotic usually is urged to keep on working while he is under treatment. No one can be really well-adjusted who has not learned to do his or her share of the world's work.

The Life And Times Of Doodles Weaver

Doodles Weaver, a new comic you will find on NBC-TV at 10 p.m. EDT Saturdays, is the brother of Pat Weaver, vice president in charge of television at NBC. Some people say that this is how he got the job. Then others say no, it wasn't that way at all. And me. I'm neutral. I fail to understand how half the comics get on television in the first place, and I'm not going to start speculating about the heraldry of any lone comic. First thing you know I'd be speculating about all of them and that way lies madness.

John Crosby

Doodles is what they call a wacky - type comedian, something he's been training for a long time. He's the son of a wealthy West Coast executive and his talent for screwball antics started young. Used to show up in night clubs in fright wigs which panicked the girls and just possibly the boys. In 1937, he was suspended from Stanford University for a prank on a train homebound from the Rose Bowl. Went through the train, shouting—"Everybody up. Next stop Palo Alto." It was 3 o'clock in the morning and Palo Alto was some hours away. The passengers didn't think it was funny. Weaver still has that sort of trouble, no matter how hard he works.

So much for his education and his ancestry. Now to the "Doodles Weaver Show" which is more or less a continuation of his early formative years. In other words, madcap, a gentle and possibly misleading word for it. Mr. Weaver is a wild-eyed, mussy man who scratches his ears, bares his teeth, waves his arms like windmills and, in general, tries to intimidate you into laughing. Sometimes he succeeds.

The show itself is a shapeless affair which may open with a passage at arms between Doodles and his orchestra leader, Milton de Lugg. Bedlam ensues. The band plays. Jokes fly. "Have an accident?"—"No thanks. I just had one." Marian Colby, a gradaute of "Broadway Open House" who should be used to this sort of thing by now, then appears and sings a song. Mr. Weaver reappears and sings a travesty on all singing.

A sketch intervenes. Well, I've seen a lot of sketches in places ranging from the Winter Garden to the defunct Minsky's. These are broader in interpretation and general technique than anything you'd find even at the last-named theaters. The general outlines of each sketch you'll recognize. The card-playing sketch for example, which Ken Murray has been depending on for some time. The barber shop sketch which everyone has been depending on for centuries.

But somehow, as I say, the point and pith of these ancient routines has been blunted or widened to the point where they don't seem to mean anything. To me, at least. Or perhaps I'm just temperamentally unfitted for zany humor. Just possibly that lack in my character makes me unfit for this job because zany humor is on the rise, folks. A man has got to smell a gift cigar awfully carefully these days if he's allergic to explosions.

There are half a dozen TV shows that are given over to general wackiness, and it's symptomatic of the times that many of them are doing pretty well. I had thought that the day when a comedian could get a laugh by donning fright wigs or wearing baggy pants had passed. It is in full bloom again.

In the event that you're not shaken by the fright wigs, they have ahother device for extracting laughter on this show. They dress up young men as women, a sure-fire boff. The Princeton Triangle Club has been doing this for a good many years now, but then Princeton is more or less forced into it. Girls aren't allowed there. But girls are allowed on television and I think they play the role better.

I said that I'd never seen sketches quite as shapeless as Mr. Weaver's but now that I stop to think a bit, I take it all back. At a boy's camp I attended at the age of 13, we used to put on sketches like that every Saturday night, and they were every bit as weird as his. We used to make them up as we went along.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

British Once Accused Hoover As German Spy

NEW YORK—(AP)—Herbert Hoover says the British once suspected him of working for the Germans as head of the Belgian relief program in the first World War.

Both England and Germany repeatedly probed the staff of the commission for relief in Belgium for spies, Hoover said, but British naval authorities directed their suspicions at him personally.

America's only living ex-president, writing his memoirs in Collier's magazine, recalled the incident with a pointed reference to Winston Churchill. He said:

"At one point the British authorities (Winston Churchill was then First Lord of the Admiralty) went so far as to file with the foreign offices charges of corruption against me and intimated that I was possibly even an agent working for the Germans."

In a previous article, Hoover said that Churchill was "violently opposed" to the Belgian relief program in the first World War and also helped block a similar program in the second World War.

The charges against him, Hoover said, were investigated by the British in "tedious hearings (which) ended in exoneration and eulogy for our work."

Hoover said that for many years after it was also charged that food destined for Belgium ended up in German hands. This he denied, pointing out that if there were any basis for the charge, the British and French governments would not have allowed the program to continue. Hoover added:

"It remained for Americans—and ministers of the gospel at that—conducting British propaganda during World War II to defame, by foul lies, one of the greatest expressions of American humanism in our history."

The golden jubilee of the founding of the Australian Commonwealth is being celebrated in 1951.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S RICHEST MEN, widower John D. Rockefeller Jr., 77, marries Mrs. Martha Baird Allen, 56, in her Providence, R. I., home, attended by his three sons. Mr. Rockefeller and the bride's second husband, who died last year, were classmates at Brown University. The new Mrs. Rockefeller has had a distinguished musical career as a concert pianist and is active in local social service. (International Soundphoto)

90,000 To See Cleveland Browns Play College All-Stars

NFL Champions Are Favorites In 18th Battle

Kickoff At Soldier Field, Chicago, Set For 8:30 Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—The awesome Cleveland Browns, champions of professional football, tonight were installed as 14-point favorites to defeat the College All-Stars of 1950 in the 18th annual game tomorrow night.

The contest, inaugurating the 1951 gridiron season, will be witnessed by upwards of 90,000 spectators in flood-lighted Soldiers Field, with millions viewing the battle on television sets or listening to radios. A total of 528 radio stations, a record for the event, will carry description of the contest coast-to-coast. Television will be presented by 46 stations.

The kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The Browns defeated only six times in five years of championship competition, will enter the contest with tremendous confidence. The All-Stars will be a particular target for the professionals since the Collegians triumphed over the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-7, a year ago. A defeat always stirs the revengeful spirit of the professionals.

Herman Hickman

Paul Brown

We are not ready to play our best football game," said head coach Paul Brown of the professional champions true to the best tradition of his profession, "but we'll do the best we can."

Browns Near 2,000 Points

In five seasons, the Browns have won 64, lost six and tied three. They have scored 1,977 points against 867 and would consider it a crowning achievement if they could make their 2,000th point against the All-Stars. In their spectacular career, the Browns have played before 3,222,539 fans.

Northwestern's Otto Graham, a superlative forward passer, and possibly the finest T-formation quarterback in history, is the Browns' star. His generalship, running and passing have spearheaded the Browns' attack.

In desire for victory, the Browns

Glaze Cops 11th, 7-1, Amvets Tie For Lead

Oakland's Amvets tied Friendsville for the leadership of the second half championship race in the Mountain Top Baseball League by downing the Swanton Dodgers yesterday at Swanton by the score of 7-1 in a game halted in the top of the 7th inning by darkness.

Oakland scored five runs in the 7th but lost them when the score reverted to the sixth stanza.

Sanders' triple scored Swanton's lone tally in the third inning — the first tally registered against Oakland after 30 scoreless innings. The string included three nine-inning shutouts over Bittinger, Friendsville and Kitzmiller and one scoreless inning against Loch Lynn.

Bob Glaze went the route for Oakland and posted his 11th victory against three losses.

Only one of the eight runs scored by the teams was earned. That was Oakland's marker in the 5th stanza.

Evans collected two hits and Joe Kahl and Jimmy Lyons belted triples for the Amvets. Craver racked up three of the Dodgers' five bingles.

Friendsville and Oakland head the race with 5-1 records. Score:

OAKLAND .... 005 011—7 7 2
SWANTON .... 001 000—1 5 4

Fairmont Nine Wins

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16. (AP)—A victorious Fairmont, W. Va., Little League baseball team tonight beat the Hamilton Township, N. J., Little Leaguers 2-0 to advance to the little world series next week.

A home run in the six inning by Merlin Davidson pulled the game out of the fire for the Fairmont boys. Davidson got his round trip with two outs and two strikes against him in the last inning.

Fairmont now will go to Williamsport, Pa., to meet the Region 5 winner in an eight team tournament.

Ray Boone, Cleveland Indian shortstop, came up to the big leagues as a catcher.

Breaks String At 13, Cutting Tribe's Lead

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Southpaw Tommy Bryne proved a giant killer today as the last-place St. Louis Browns whitewashed Cleveland 4-0, snapping the Indians' victory string at 13 and narrowing their league lead to 1½ games over the Yankees.

Byrne gave up only two hits in seven innings and batted in all the Brownie runs. He was forced out in the eighth frame with a pulled muscle in his back.

Cleveland's Larry Doby got one of the hits off Byrne—a first inning double on which Doby suffered a pulled muscle in his left leg.

He didn't know how it happened but club physicians said later they didn't regard it as serious.

The Browns got at the Indians' starter, Mike Garcia, for eight hits in six innings. It was Garcia's eighth loss against 16 triumphs.

Byrne, who before today had a record of 3-6, strode to the plate with the bases loaded in the second inning and cracked out a single that was good for two runs.

The Browns made it 3-0 in the fourth when Fred Marsh doubled, took third on an infield out and scored as Byrne grounded out. Jennings doubled in the sixth and rode home on Byrne's single to center.

Dale Mitchell, Cleveland's leftfielder who had hit safely in 23 straight games, was shut out in today's contest. Box:

Indictments Mount As Grand Jury Hears Bradley Basketeers

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP) — A grand jury today voted more indictments in the college basketball scandal but details were not immediately made public.

The announcement followed a grand jury appearance of Bradley University players.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who made the announcement, would not disclose how many persons had been indicted, what the charges were or give any indication as to the identity of those named.

He said he would hold a news conference tomorrow morning and that the indictments also will be filed then.

His announcement followed a four-hour session of the grand jury during which 18 witnesses appeared. These included five Bradley University players who voluntarily came to New York for questioning.

The players were questioned about 20 minutes each, Hogan said.

Policemen also were among those who testified, Hogan said.

The five Bradley players are Eugene Melchiorre, William Mann, George M. Chianakas, Aaron Preece and Charles Grover. They allegedly were offered bribes to lose a game to Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, in 1949.

Maglie Bags 17th Victory Over Dodgers

Giants Sweep Series Of Three Games, 2-1

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Sal Maglie today to make a clean sweep of the three-game series and bounce back to within nine and a half games of first place.

A wild pitch by Don Newcombe with two out in the seventh inning permitted Bobby Thomson to score with the deciding run.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead in the first when Eddie Stanky led off with a single and raced home on Monte Irvin's triple.

Billy Cox' home run into the lower right field stands in the eighth inning accounted for Brooklyn's sole run. Maglie retired the side in order in the ninth to register his 17th victory and third over the Dodgers. He has lost five.

Newcombe, removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, allowed four hits in the seven innings he toiled. Reliever Clyde King gave up a fifth hit in the eighth. Newcombe was charged with his sixth loss against 16 wins. Box:

Herman Ball Says Rams "Darn Good" After Skins Lose

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP)—The bedazzling Los Angeles Rams were whetting the knife today for the second course on their pre-season football menu—the Chicago Bears.

After the 58-14 carving they performed on the Washington Redskins here last night, the Rams are being billed once again as formidable contenders for the National League championship, although much is going to depend on what happens next Thursday night.

That's when Coach George Halas brings in his seasoned midway monsters to test the Ram Rookies who played cat-and-mouse with the Redskins and left 91,985 customers gaping in amazement. The consensus:

Never have the Rams looked so good in early-season play.

"I think the Rams are a darn good ball club," dourly remarked the Redskin coach, Herman Ball. "If they don't repeat (for the Western Division championship) I'll be surprised."

30 Wins, 18 Shutouts

By C. V. BURNS

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, rounding out his first season as an umpire in the Appalachian League, has worked behind the plate in a no-run, no-hit contest, a 28-0 affair and a 24-15 tilt in which 39 hits were made, 18 walks issued and 21 players stranded on the bases.

And he's getting a big kick out of it all.

"Sparky" was picked up as the second best arbiter in the league for the annual all-star game and worked first base in that contest.

"Some funny things happen in baseball and they aren't in the rule book," Chisholm writes.

"They have all kinds of stunts for drawing crowds in this league, such as plug casting events, cow milking and Gertie Goose who comes out and lays the goose eggs for the visiting team. I'm getting plenty of experience in promotion work'

Chisholm says he hopes to advance to a league of "B" classification next year.

"Give my regards to all my friends and show Charley Hornbrook the clipping about the fellow he selected as—the umpire most likely not to succeed," Chisholm concludes.

Calvin Collis of Bunker Hill, Berkeley county, W. Va., who participates in registered shoots at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, will compete in the champion of champions event at the 52nd Grand American Trapshoot to be held next week at Vandalia, Ohio, according to Tony Francis, of Westernport.

Collis qualified to shoot it out with the champions of the other states when he copped the West Virginia singles title at Ridgeley last month by hitting 195 out of 200 targets from 16 yards

Edgar McDonald, of Headsville, Mineral county, who has been shooting for 25 years and has participated in many Grand American events, and Harold A. Downey Martinsburg, state handicap champion, also will be on the firing line in Ohio where 2,000 of the nation's best shots will vie.

McDonald is the 1951 doubles and all-around champion of West Virginia.

Top Cunningham's In 7 To 6 Thriller

Manager Donald Palmer's Amvets took over sole possession of first place in the Men's Division of the City Recreation Softball League by edging Cunningham's Grocery yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 7-6.

It marked the third time that the Amvets had turned the trick and gave them a half game lead over the Grocers in an interesting race. The Amvets have won 21 and lost 4 while Cunningham's record is 21 wins and five defeats.

Jack Stotler gained the nod over George Harris in yesterday's duel. Cunningham's made it close by scoring two runs in the last of the 7th on a pair of passes coupled with two hits.

Stotler's circuit blast in the 6th inning was the margin of victory. Dick Leo of the Amvets also smashed a four-bagger in the second frame.

Jim Fradiska of the Amvets and Wharton of Cunningham's led the stickers with two hits each.

Trozzo's Spots won via the forfeit route from Undergarment yesterday.

In a Wednesday game at Stitcher Field, Undergarment outslugged Asplundh, 17-11. The scores:

AMVETS	011 131 0—7	6	2
CUNNINGHAM'S	003 001 2—6	6

Stotler and Martin. Harris and Miller.

UNDERGARMENT	133 510 4—17	16	4
ASPLUNDH	500 330 0—11	12	10

Questioned On Doping Parties With Girls

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—Two young jockeys have been suspended from riding here after being questioned by Baltimore police in connection with a series of alleged dope parties involving teen-age girls.

The suspended Jockeys, Thomas H. Kane, 20, of Baltimore, and James C. Meyerhoeffer, 21, of Washington, are expected to be state's witnesses in the trial of another jockey.

Standing trial will be Frank Novella, 21, of Lawrence, Mass. He is charged with giving dope to teen-age girls at a Baltimore hotel.

Also under arrest on similar charges are James McDermott, 21-year-old jockey from Louisville, Ky., and Sonny Dion, a race horse exercise rider.

The stewards said Kane and Meyerhoeffer have been suspended until they are "completely cleared."

Kane had 16 mounts during the 10-day meeting at Fairgo last month. He rode three wins, one second and three third place horses.

Baseball Most Dangerous Sport In New York City For 32 Years

43 Deaths Reported, Tops Football, Boxing

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP) — Baseball—not boxing or football—has been the most dangerous sport in New York City for the last 32 years.

Dr. Tomas A. Gonzales of the New York chief medical examiner's office said baseball injuries brought death to 43 players from 1918 through 1950 — as many as football and boxing deaths combined.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, he presented this review of 104 fatal injuries resulting from sports activities during the period:

Baseball 43 deaths, football 22, boxing 21, basketball 1, handball 3, soccer 2, wrestling 2, cricket 1, golf 1 polo 1 and relay races 1.

His report showed:

Nearly all the baseball fatalities occurred in amateur and semi-professional ranks. A player hit on the head by a pitched ball marked the only death in major league baseball.

A thrown or hit ball caused the bulk of the baseball deaths. A few suffered fatal injuries in collisions between players in falls or when sliding into base. Head injuries resulted in 25 deaths. Infectious processes were involved in 13 deaths.

Most of the football fatalities resulted from direct violence in line play, in blocking and in tackling. Infection following injury was the principal single factor, accounting for 10 deaths. Head injuries caused 4 deaths and spinal 3. Intra-abdominal injuries caused four deaths and tetanus one.

Blows on the head or impact with the ring floor caused most of the boxing deaths. Hemorrhages following head injuries were blamed in 15 deaths.

Cards Beat Dickson

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16 (AP) — An outburst of six runs in the seventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 9 to 6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

Stan Musial's 27th home run of the season — an inside the park variety — with two aboard in the sixth frame accounted for the other Cardinal tallies.

The Pirates scored twice each in the fifth, sixth and ninth innings, collecting 10 hits off four Cardinal hurlers. The Cards garnered 12 hits off Murry Dickson and reliefer Ted Wilks. Dickson was charged with the loss, his 11th. He was seeking his 17th win. Box:

Trout Whips Chisox

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—(AP)—Paul "Dizzy" Trout was the whole show as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, here today to earn a draw in the two-game series.

Trout supplied the winning margin of his eighth triumph, a neat six-hitter, by hitting his first 1951 home run. It was a line drive into the lower deck of the left field pavilion to open the fifth inning.

The victim of Trout's game-winning round tripper was Joe Dobson, the veteran White Sox righthander. It marked the second time in successive starts Dobson has been beaten 2-1 by a rival pitcher's home run.

Last Saturday night in Cleveland Dobson was draped with a 2-1 loss to the first-place Indians when Burly Early Wynn blasted a seventh inning round tripper. Box:

Heat Got Ya? Wanta Cool Off? Then Forget About Light Foods

By IRWIN ALPERT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS)—August heat got ya? Wanta cool off?

Well, forget about those "light" lettuce-and-tomato and salad dishes and help yourself to a real sizzling hot steak, with potatoes—that is, if the family pocketbook can stand it.

That advice was offered today by one of the country's top experts on weather and what to do about it—Yale Professor Dr. Lovic P. Herrington, research director of the John B. Pierce Foundation which studies heat, ventilation, and health.

Dr. Herrington says the practice of eating light foods to keep from sweltering is purely the invention of summer weather escapists who live in regions where it really gets hot only about a dozen times a year.

The climatoligist, a native of Waynesboro, Ga., where the mercury usually hogs the 95 degree mark, asserts that the salad blueplate may be all right for rabbits, and leisurely clubwomen bent on keeping away from the stove—but for beating the heat, he'll take his steak well done, thank you.

The Yale weather expert says the salad as a meal just doesn't provide the proteins needed for a good day's work—and that's as true in December as it is in July.

Moreover, he explained, it's all in the skin, not the mind. If you eat hot, protein-rich foods, your blood circulation is better. When it gets too hot outside, the blood rushes to the vessels in the outer skin layer for a cooling-off period. You cool off in the process. Simple.

Dr. Herrington's other tips: Wear lightweight clothing, particularly garments with open weave and ventilated pockets. The advantage of "air-conditioned" pockets is that when you walk, air is pumped up over the legs and filters out through the pocket area. Dr. Herrington warns, however, that the pockets mst be made of sufficiently tough material to prevent the loss of money or personal effects.

Another Herrington suggestion is to wear ventilated shoes with light socks. Light shades in clothing, preferably white, also helps to cheat old Sol. A light blue, or white can reject up to as much as 50 per cent of the sun's heat.

Avoid garters — if possible — because they slow up circulation, and good circulation keeps the skin temperature down when the thermometer is going up.

And unless the sun is really out with a vengeance, don't wear a hat. It cuts down the evaporative surface of the head so that you don't perspire as well.

And perspiration, explains Dr. Herrington, is like the evaporative cooling process of an air-conditioning unit. If you perspire normally, says the professor, it should be equal to the effect of two, or even three refrigerators functioning at top level.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Virginia Kinser, who passed away August 14, 1950, and her birthday is August 17.

I miss the many things I used to do for you,
Miss your gentle voice,
I cannot help but ask, why did it have to be.
But God alone knows best,
And so he beckoned you to come,
To your eternal rest.

MRS. DORIS FIELDS,
MISS ELIZABETH KINSER

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, W. F. Alexander, who passed away August 17, 1941.

He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

Wave Of Upsets Hits JC Tourney

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 16 (AP) — The defending champion, the medalist and the No. 1 darkhorse all were ushered to the sidelines today as a wave of upsets hit the third and fourth rounds of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National Junior Golf Tournament.

Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Mass., seeking his second consecutive title, was a 1-up fourth round victim of 16-year-old Jimmy Deemer of Blacksburg, Va.

Medalist Teddy White, from Roswell, N. M., was humbled, 2 and 1, by Bobby Goetz, Lynn, Mass., native who now lives in Wichita, Kas. Earlier, Goetz downed Don Krieger, Portland, Ore., 3 and 2.

Tommy Morrow, Louisiana State University golf teammate of Merrins, didn't even get to the fourth round. A well-liked contender off his play earlier in the week, he ran into Buddy Manderson, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and was put out, 1-up.

Manderson then went on to wallop Lester Ward of Badin, N. C., 9 and 7.

Maxim, Murphy Fit For Go Next Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Both champion Joey Maxim and challenger Irish Bob Murphy are fit and have nerves like icebergs, Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York State Athletic Commission said today.

Dr. Nardiello made the usual examination of the two today. Except for the weighing in, it is the final medical inspection the two will get before they climb into the Madison Square Garden ring on Wednesday for their 15-round championship bout.

The Middle Atlantic League is back where it started 26 years ago. Oil City has thrown in the sponge leaving Elmer Daily's circuit with only five clubs. New Castle, Erie, Niagara Falls, Butler and Lockport are the survivors.

In 1925 when the league was born there were only five charter members—Wheeling, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Johnstown and Cumberland. Scottdale became the sixth member of the circuit on July 4.

One ace was scored in the recent hole-in-one tournament at the Mt. Pleasant Country Club in Baltimore. There were over 12,000 shots taken at the hole.

Figures on the hole-in-one tournament conducted by a New York newspaper reveal that there's been only six aces scored in the event's 18-year-old history.

When Al Sheetz shut out the K. of C. softball team on Tuesday by the score of 13-0 it was the 18th time in two seasons he has blanked the opposition in a Rocking Chair League tilt.

His record this year is 15-0 and seven were shutouts. Last season he won 15 and lost 2 and 11 were shutouts. He has whitewashed the enemy 18 times in scoring 30 wins in two years in the RCL.

Al's most remarkable performance came in the 1950 playoffs when he won the title for the Eagles by beating the Moose 1-0 and 5-0 and the Elks 4-0 and 6-0. Eight of his shutout wins last year were registered in the last nine games. That guy must be good.

The Parkville Post nine of Baltimore county which won the American Legion junior baseball championship of Maryland by whipping Westernport 10-9, and Silver Spring 9-4 and 6-0, is the first team outside of Baltimore to represent the Old Line State since 1934 when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 of this city swept everything to cop national honors in Chicago.

Maryland's first national championship team was B. & O. Post, Baltimore, in 1930.

Parkville, winner of 22 out of 23 games, has qualified for the regional tournament which opens Saturday at Parkersburg, W. Va.

will start a veteran eleven, which in three weeks of training at Bowling Green, Ohio, has rounded into almost championship condition.

Graham's pass targets will be Mac Speedie and Dante Lavelli, sensational ends, plus the offensive halfbacks. Graham will receive needed protection from a shifty, hard blocking line that will outweigh the collegians.

Coach Herman Hickman of Yale has put his all-stars through a three weeks' rugged practice period at their training base, Delafield, Wis.

Hickman will pin his hopes on the performances of Kyle Rote, dashing Southern Methodist halfback, a solid 200-pounder, and Wilwred "Whizzer" White, Arizona halfback, who led the nation in rushing last fall with 1,502 yards in ten games.

Don Dufek, Michigan, and Sonny Grandelius, Michigan State, will carry the offensive burden at fullback.

The stars have excellent men to return kicks and to defend against deep passes. Chuck Ortman, Michigan and Ken Konz, Louisiana State, are specialists in this department.

Williams At Quarter

Notre Dame's Bob Williams and Fran Nagle, Nebraska, each a superlative forward passer, will direct the team from quarterback.

Jerry Groom, Notre Dame center, who shares the leadership of the Collegians with Bud Mc Fadin, Texas, is regarded as a superior player. Bob Gain, Kentucky tackle, and Al Carapella, a tackle, Miami, are other merited players.

The All-Stars have an unusual group of pass receivers. Bucky Curtis, Vanderbilt, is one of the greatest pass receivers in collegiate history. At the other end the All-Stars will have Bob Wilkinson, who broke records at UCLA. Don Stonesifer of Northwestern, holder of the Big Ten pass catching record for one game; Alan Pfeifer, Fordham, and Henry Minarik, Michigan State, are also outstanding receivers.

Market Advances Slightly With Railroads Exception

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—In its second straight day of recovery, the stock market advanced moderately today, but the rise was hampered by several tired areas.

Steels, motors, oils, utilities, rubbers, radio-television, and aircrafts all made good progress, and there were a number of outstanding individual performers.

The railroads were prominent because of their inability to hold to their early gains. And there was a lot of profit-taking in chemicals and gold mining shares.

American Telephone hit a new high of 162⅜ and closed up 1¾ at 162⅛. It was the 13th most active issue.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue up ⅝ at 22⅝. It was closely followed by International Telephone up ½ at 17¼.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $96.70 with the industrial component up 40 cents, rails down 10 cents, and utilities up 20 cents.

The volume of trading expanded to 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,340,000 shares yesterday. The breadth of the market also expanded to 1,112 individual issues traded against 1,070 issues yesterday. There were 625 stocks advancing and 240 declining with 40 new highs and only two new lows for the year.

The strength of the market was shown by the fact that only one of the 15 most active issues declined—Warner Bros. down ⅛ at 14⅛.

Following Radio and International Telephone in the list were Benguet Mining up ⅛ at 1¾, Standard Oil of Ohio up 1⅜ at 42⅜, Canadian Pacific (which has big oil holdings) up ¼ at 28, Fedders-Quigan up ⅜ at 12⅞, and Remington Rand up ⅜ at 20⅛.

Dickson Given Promotion In Engineer Corps

Will Join North Atlantic Division

Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project, has been promoted to construction management engineer in the North Atlantic Division of the Corps of Engineers.

He will leave here August 24 for a two-weeks vacation before reporting to New York September 10 to assume his new duties.

The work will include setting up construction procedures on projects undertaken in the North Atlantic area.

Dickson and three other members of the staff of the Corps of Engineers here were honored last night at a dinner at Minke's, Christie Road.

They were W. Earl Minnicks, inspector on the flood project, who is to be assigned to Okinawa with the Corps of Engineers.

James C. Riple, inspector, who is being transferred to Camp Ritchie construction work.

Harry Dowin, inspector, who is also to go to Camp Ritchie.

Here Since 1949

Dickson came to Cumberland in March, 1949, as project engineer for the local flood control project and has seen the work through virtually all of its first two phases.

After graduating from Columbia University in 1922, Dickson worked for seven years at the Fairchild Engineering Corporation, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., then became superintendent of highways in Eastchester, N. Y., later serving in the real estate division of Westchester County.

After joining the Corps of Engineers in 1936, he was assistant resident engineer on the Whitney Point Dam in New York.

His next job, was field engineer on the $17,000,000 bomber base at Syracuse, N. Y. Working on a round-the-clock schedule, the work was completed in 12 weeks.

On Hospital Job

He next went to Utica, N. Y., where he was field engineer for the construction of the $10,000,000 job of building Rhodes General Hospital.

At West Point Military Academy, he superivsed the construction of Polalopan Dam and Thayer Hotel and then went to New York to help build the Almond Dam with Donald E. Mather, who retired here recently after serving as area engineer.

Following a brief period in civilian work with a Fago Construction Corporation, and a big housing project at Rockville, Md., Dickson was recalled to government service in 1948 as an expert for the government in a $759,000,000 construction claim.

Following this work, he came to Cumberland to become resident engineer for the huge flood control job.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson live at 400 Washington Street.

Reds Seek New Bail Reduction

Judge To Consider Petition Of Three

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 — (AP) — Three Communists charged with conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government today took up a Federal Judge's offer to further reduce their bail.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut lowered the bails from $75,000 to $20,000 on Tuesday. He added that if they couldn't obtain that much money he would consider a petition for less.

Mrs. Philip Frankfeld, Roy Wood and George Meyers, now in Baltimore City jail, asked for such consideration.

The three were among six arrested recently by the FBI. They all have had connections with the Communist Party in Maryland.

Maurice Braverman, an attorney in Communist court suits, was released when he furnished $5,000 bond, lowered from $75,000 by Judge Chesnut.

The other two are Mrs. Frankfeld's husband and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg. They were arrested in New York and are being brought here. Frankfeld's bail is $30,000 and Mrs. Blumberg's $20,000.

U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn announced he will oppose any further bail reduction. He said it already has been "cut to an irreducible minimum."

The swimming pool and gymnasium at Central YMCA will be closed from August 27 to September 5 for annual cleaning, painting and renovation work, Winfield H. Adam, executive secretary, announced yesterday.

A rummage sale will be held at the Wiley Ford fire hall today from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Delegate See Arrives Here With New Seeing-Eye Dog

Charles M. See, Allegany County's sightless member of the House of Delegates, arrived at Queen City Station about 5:30 p. m. yesterday and stepped off of B&O Train No. 9 with a brand new pair of eyes.

The eyes belong to Mady, 29-month old German Shepherd dog, which See acquired during four weeks of intensive training at Seeing Eye Incorporated near Morristown, N. J.

See, who has been a member of the House of Delegates since his first successful election in 1938, left Cumberland for New Jersey July 21.

Dog Is Well Trained

Since that time See has been undergoing a rigid training program with his new dog. When he left the train here yesterday he explained that his day in New Jersey began at 6 a. m. and ended about 8 p. m. He appeared to have lost some weight while away although he hadn't been checked on the scales since his departure from Cumberland.

Mady, the legislator's new dog, seemed to be friendly with See's wife and other relatives who met him at the station. However, Charles cautioned all of them not to touch the dog's harness. She has been taught that the harness belongs only to her and her master. See observed that she almost bit one friendly man on the train who unintentionally touched the harness.

The local man was one of 22 students at the school in New Jersey the past four weeks. They were divided into three different classes. He was in a class which included three men and three women. See remarked that they came from about 15 states and Canada's pro-

Intra-City Rec Finals Planned At Picnic Today

Final city recreational events planned at an intra-city picnic today at Constitution Park will determine the winner of the 1951 playground banner. During the summer the 15 playgrounds have been competing in various intracity activities in an attempt to capture the coveted banner.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said yesterday at least 1,500 youngsters are expected to attend the outing. Activities will get underway, Hoey added, at 9:30 a. m. with the city softball finals when a seven-inning game of the Junior Playground League in charge of Wesley Abrams and James Manges is played. The Pigtail Playground League's game will get started at 11 a. m. in charge of Virginia Sittig and Mrs. Leo Leasure.

Gene Shaw and Arthur Davis will be in charge of a senior playground league with playtime at 2 p. m. Volleyball finals are also scheduled today and games for Class D and C teams will be at 1 p. m. and Class C and B at 1:30 p. m. on the park athletic field. Alpha Phares, Sue Cunningham and Rita Wiant will be in charge.

The park casino will be the scene of the checkers and Chinese checkers finals slated to get underway at 11 a. m. Checkers finals are

Chest Physicians Fellowship Awarded Dr. S. M. Jacobson

Will Receive Grant In June At Chicago

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, local heart and chest specialist, has been notified by the Board of Regents that he has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Chest Physicians.

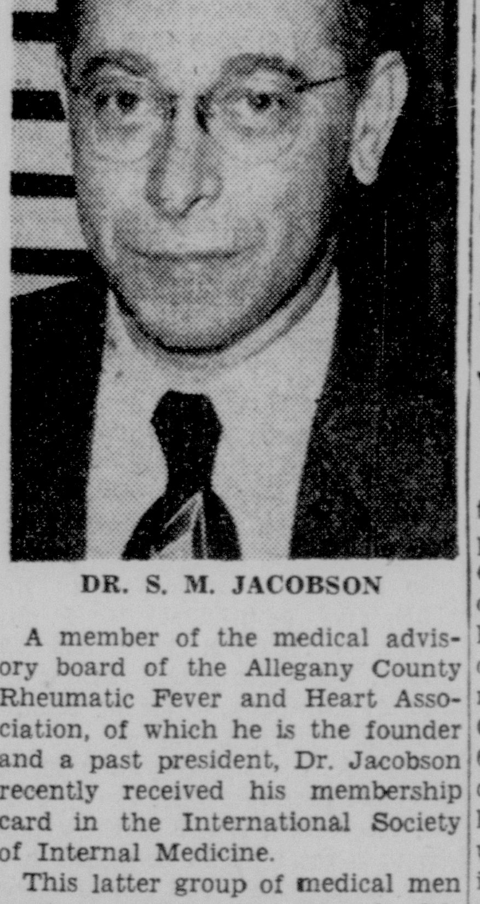
He will go to Chicago in June, 1952, to officially accept his Fellowship in ceremonies planned there, although his membership in the select medical group is effective immediately.

Dr. Jacobson, whose offices are located at 50 Pershing Street, has been a practicing physician here for over 15 years. He is a native of Baltimore and was graduated from City College of Baltimore high school before studying medicine at the University of Maryland.

He was graduated from the university's school of pharmacy and studied at the College Park school of medicine where he graduated in the class of 1931.

Several years ago Dr. Jacobson was inducted a Fellow in the American College of Physicians at a convocation in New York City and has contributed numerous medical articles and literature toward this Fellowship.

In addition Dr. Jacobson holds a Fellowship of the American College of Cardiology and is a diplomat of the American Board of Internal Medicine.



DR. S. M. JACOBSON

A member of the medical advisory board of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, of which he is the founder and a past president, Dr. Jacobson recently received his membership card in the International Society of Internal Medicine.

This latter group of medical men meets once every two years in different countries throughout the world, Dr. Jacobson explained, and will meet in London, England, in 1952. The society held its 1950 session in Paris, France, Dr. Jacobson noted. He hopes to attend the London meeting next year, he added.

YMCA Rec Club Elects Council And Officers

Francis Aronholt Heads Teen-Agers

Election of Council members and officers of Central YMCA's Rec Club was held with the teen-age organization naming Francis Aronholt president for the coming school year, Winfield H. Adam, executive secretary of the "Y", said last night.

The club, chartered in October of 1943, is one of the oldest groups in the city for children between the ages of 14 and 18 and has been operating continuously since 1943.

12 Council Members

Besides the president, Marian Lippel was named secretary, Mary Hafer, assistant treasurer, and Nancy Hamilton, treasurer.

The organization is operated by an elected council of 12 members, six from Fort Hill High School and six from Allegany High School. Three members from each school must be boys and the other three from each school must be girls, Adam explained.

The Rec Club holds its election of council members each year in July and the council in turn names its presiding officers. Members of the council serve from election until they are graduated from high school, while the presiding officials are named for one year only.

The recent council election found eight new members taking office with four holdover councilors. Returning to the council are Francis Aronholt, Donna Cochenour, Marian Lippel, and Diane Warden.

Eight Councilmen Named

Newly elected councilmen are Eddie Andrews, Jim Mulligan, Jo Ann Blamble, Mary Hafer, Nancy Hamilton, Gene Alderton, Mike Smith and Bill Swarer. These eight councilmen were selected on a ballot which contained 16 names with any member in good standing in the YMCA club eligible to cast votes.

The first Rec affair under supervision of the new council will be held tonight at the "Y" with dancing to music by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra. Mothers of council members will act as chaperones.

Among the regularly scheduled activities of the club which meets each Friday night are bowling, dancing, movies, lobby games and other attractions.

Adam said attendance in 1950 for these Rec Club affairs totaled approximately 10,000 teen-agers.

Weather

Lazily relaxed along a cool mountain stream under a shady tree was probably the wish of the average Cumberlander yesterday. Residents of the Queen City sweltered in the heat of the second hottest afternoon of the season. The high temperature registered at the weather station in Constitution Park was 96, the low 63 and at 8 o'clock last night mercury registered 81 degrees. The humidity at the same time was 55 per cent. Relief is in sight according to the forecaster. Today the weatherman promises fair weather but not quite so warm.

Juvenile Court Jurisdiction Is Challenged

Writ Filed Against Magistrate Thompson

A contention that Allegany County Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson acted without jurisdiction and in violation of a section of the Public Local Laws of Maryland was set forth in a petition and affidavit for a writ of certiorari filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The equity case was filed for Robert W. Moorehead, who had been convicted of non-support. It was filed by his attorney, William L. Wilson, Jr.

Court Order Filed

Also filed with the petition and affidavit was an order from Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris calling upon the clerk of court to issue a writ of certiorari, stipulating that the writ be served upon Magistrate Thompson on or before August 20 and that the matter included in the petition be heard in Circuit Court at 10 a. m. August 28. The court clerk issued the writ yesterday.

In his petition, Wilson listed recent events involving his client. He said that last November 3 Moorehead was tried before former Juvenile Court Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem on a charge of non-support of his wife, Betty L. Moorehead, and a two-year old daughter. Magistrate Stakem, the petition states, sentenced Moorehead to six months in the Maryland House of Correction, but placed him on parole provided that he pay $13.50 per week for the support of his wife and child.

On March 9 of this year Betty L. Moorehead filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking a divorce and alimony. That case still is pending. Moorehead was brought before Magistrate Thompson July 2 on a charge of violating his parole. On that date, the petition continues, Moorehead was found guilty but again was paroled. On July 23 Moorehead again was brought before Magistrate Thompson on a charge of violating his parole and this time was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Charges Cited

Wilson contended that Magistrate Thompson was without jurisdiction to handle the cases against Moorehead either on July 2 or July 23 in view of the fact that the equity case of March 9 in Circuit Court still was pending. He further asserts that Magistrate Thompson violated Section 374AA of Article 1 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland by failure to inform Moorehead of his right to trial by jury.

Moorehead is confined in the County jail.

State PSC Fails To Restrict Use Of Natural Gas

Cumberland Area Under Curtailment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—Maryland's Public Service Commission today took the state out from under natural gas restrictions laid down yesterday by the Federal Government.

It was done by adopting a resolution which said:

"This commission has the authority to restrict the use of natural gas and is exercising that authority to the extent necessary to accomplish the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950."

Virginia Serves Notice

The Petroleum Administration for defense announced in Washington yesterday it would restrict the expansion of natural gas for house heating and some commercial uses in 15 eastern states. The purpose is to save natural gas for defense.

It was done under the powers PAD was given in the Defense Production Act. The act has a provision, however, that the Federal Government cannot issue such a regulation where state commissions have the necessary authority and exercise it.

Virginia already has served notice it would not abide by the Federal regulations. A spokesman for the West Virginia Public Service Commission said today it objects to the order.

So far, the Maryland Commission has taken no action on its own motion to head off expansion of natural gas use in the state.

Utility companies servicing the Hagerstown and Cumberland areas have imposed restrictions on their customers with the approval of the commission.

Promote Gas Equipment

Pending before the commission is a petition by an affiliate of the Columbia Gas System asking the commission to force the Washington Gas Light Company to curtail expansion of its service in Maryland.

Washington Gas Light buys natural gas wholesale from the Columbia Gas System and distributes it in the Maryland suburbs of Washington.

Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, which serves Baltimore and a large surrounding area, last year converted its system to natural gas bought from Columbia. The gas company and dealers in heating equipment ever since had been carrying on an extensive advertising campaign to promote installation of gas heating equipment in new homes and conversion of coal and oil furnaces to gas.

Flood Control Channel Work Set In April

Hull Is Slated To Head Project

The third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project is slated to get underway here by next April.

The job will include widening and deepening the bed of Wills Creek. Construction will begin in the Narrows.

On the basis of the $1,000,000 alloted to the project by a Senate vote Wednesday, some $700,000 would be available for actual construction.

Since all of the work on the next phase will be concentrated in a relatively small area, the Corps of Engineers is planning to assign only a few men to supervise the work.

In general, the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, is planning to use local men on the job.

Slated as resident engineer for the phase is Walter L. Hull, with John H. Kington as assistant engineer. Both of the men will probably serve also as inspectors, with Arthur R. Tyler as full time inspector.

The first phase of the work, begun early in 1949, consisted chiefly of sewer and flood conduit work at a cost of about $319,000.

The present phase, which is slated for completion early in December, will cost about $1,890,000.

One part of the project, the Valley Street work, is virtually completed.

The $500,000 Valley Street job was begun January 16, 1950. It includes a large detention dam to collect surface water in that area and large pressure conduits leading to a huge outlet structure at the Valley Street bridge.

The Cumberland Contracting Company this week began resurfacing Valley Street, which has been torn up during the heavy construction work.

No Bond Is Set For Knife Slayer

Noah Earl Beeman, 24, of Midland, was taken to the Allegany County Jail to be held without bond for action of the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of murdering his 18-year-old wife, after he waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

The stocky prisoner, handcuffed and somber, was escorted to court by Deputy Sheriff William Chappell after going to the State's Attorney's office. State Police Criminal Investgator William F. Baker was also present.

Beeman did not stand when his name was called by Magistrate William J. Gunter. Dressed in blue jeans and a short-sleeved gray sport shirt, Beeman sat listening to Magistrate Gunter advise him, he could have a preliminary hearing to determine if the court should hold him "for the grand jury."

He was also told that he could waive a hearing and be committed to jail for action of the October term of Circuit Court.

"I'll waive it, sir," Beeman said.

Mercury Soars To 96, Second Time This Year

Mercury soared to a high of 96 yesterday afternoon marking the second time this year such a recording has been registered at Constitution Park. The afternoon was sweltering and the residents of Cumberland sought every means of relief from the heat.

On July 22 the thermometer registered 96 and on July 27 the mercury soared to 95 and humidity which was 71 per cent caused that date to be the most uncomfortable day of the year. The mercury also stood at 95 on two other days this year, June 3 and August 15.

Some relief is in sight though and the weatherman promises fair weather today but not qute as warm.

Youths Waive Indictment In Crime Series

Action May Speed Brothers' Trial

A petition and suggestion agreeing to waive indictment was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday for wto teen-age brothers accused with two other youths in a series of crimes in the Westernport area.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., attorney for Paul Russell Taylor, 15, and William David Taylor, 18, agreed in his petition to try the cases on criminal informations, supplied by the state's attorney, but provided that the cases are tried by petit jury.

It is expected that the waiving of indictment will enable the cases to be tried later this month or early in September rather than having to wait until the next grand jury meets October 1, court attaches noted.

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, said Edward J Ryan, the attorney for two other youths charged in the same cases, has also agreed to submit the cases to court on criminal information. No date has been set as yet for the hearings.

Besides the Taylor brothers, the accused are John Francis Humes, 15, of Kolberg Hill, Westernport, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25, of Westernport. The two Taylors are also of Westernport, but William David Taylor has been serving a three-year term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for attempted arson at the Harris Powder Company near Westernport.

The four youths were held as a result of lie detector tests taken earlier this month.

Hearing of the cases on information will make unnecessary the calling of the grand jury as first contemplated. Three murder cases are scheduled for the October term and the state's attorney's office had felt that the recall of the grand jury would be required in order to avoid a jam at the session.

Woman Injures Arm

A Cumberland housewife was treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday for injuries received when she caught her arm in the wringer of a washing machine.

Chief Virgil A. Parker and Louis Hartung of the city fire department answered an emergency call at 10:23 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Willard Weisenberg, 401 Springdale Street, but she had been released upon their arrival.

Hagerstown Man Is Named New "Y" Program Secretary

R. L. Lewis Assumes His Duties Sept. 1

Ralph L. Lewis, Hagerstown, has been appointed new program secretary of Central YMCA, effective September 1, Lynn C. Lashley, president, announced last night.

Lewis, a veteran of three years in the army, has had considerable experience in YMCA program work, Lashley said, and will have charge of all programs other than the physical department at the local "Y".

His work, a new department in the Cumberland organization, will consist of general program duties, activities with the Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y and the furthering and betterment of the Y's youth development, Lashley continued.

A native of Irvington, N. J., Lewis is married and the father of two daughters, one six years old and the other three months. He received his bachelor of arts from Columbia University in 1936 and took graduate work at Teachers College at Columbia and the University of Chicago.

In May of 1948 he became the program secretary of the Hagerstown YMCA. Lewis served in the Pacific Theater of Operations from November, 1943 to October, 1946 as assistant chief in the information and education section of headquarters with the rank of master sergeant.

The new program secretary is a member of the Hagerstown Optimist Club and served on Boy Scout training council in Hagerstown district at one time. Budget Calling For $1.31 City Tax Rate Is Proposed

Formal Action On Plan Slated Monday

The Mayor and Council will vote formally Monday on a 1951-53 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31.

Three of the five members of the body indicated approval of the figures calling for a four cent boost in the tax rate yesterday after Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, presented the data at an executive meeting.

The other two members asked to be allowed further time to study the proposed ordinance setting the levy for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The new tax rate actually will use only four and three-fourths of the five cent boost authorized by the General Assembly which granted wage boosts to police and firemen and provided for the transfer of fire department personnel into the state pension system.

The city, in carrying out the intent of the Assembly after the bill was vetoed by the governor, is actually spending slightly more than the levy boost granted by the state, officials said.

The tax rate was kept at the $1.31 mark by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service, officials said.

Other Boosts Provided

The new budget will also provide for an increase in pay for other city employes.

In order to keep within the 95-cent operating limit as permitted by Maryland law, other expenses have been pared. The contingent fund, which allows for $25,000, has been cut to $16,595.59. In the current budget, $22,000 is provided in the contingent fund.

The budget for the Recreation Department is $21,000. This is an increase of a $1,000 over what had been planned. In addition to the $21,000, the Recreation Department also has access to various receipts, such as those taken in at Constitution Park and Penn Avenue Field.

The department received $3900,0 last year

Increase For Police

The biggest appropriation increase in the new budget goes to the Police Department. Under the proposed budget, the Police Department will receive $179,000 as compared to $162,000 provided by the past appropriation.

Salaries will cost about $11,500 more than last year. Included is $1,000 for a Radar speed meter, $1,500 for traffic lights, $1,000 for FBI training for one man, $2,000 for auto replacement and a uniform allowance.

The Fire Departmet budget will go up to $166,406 from last year's $159,000, chiefly as a result of salary boosts.

The budget does not, however, include funds for equipment replacement. Last year, $15,000 was provided for a new fire truck.

The Street and Alley and Street Paving fund total $116,500 in order to take advantage of $58,000 of state shared income which must be matched and must be used for that purpose.

The operation of the City Warehouse is cut $2,000.

Will Raise $855,430

Altogether, the new tax rate will raise $855,430 for city coffers. Bank stock revenue amounts to $13,000 and other forms of revenue are anticipated follow:

Allegany county, $7,630; general licenses, $63,000; general and special income, $38,000; interest on taxes, $3,000; permits, $1,800; police fines, $16,000; weights, $400; bingo tax, $12,000; state admission tax, $4,500; state auto license fees, $23,000; state franchise tax, $1,800; state gasoline and auto tax, $58,000; state income tax, $40,000; state racing income, $40,000; surplus, $85,000. This gives a total budget figure of $1,262,560.

Operating appropriations amount to $1,025,842.26. Debt service amounts to $236,171.74 for a total expenditure of $1,262,560. The budget follows:

Frostburg Man Hurt

J. W. Shea, 77, of 73 West Main Street, Frostburg, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday. He was transferred from Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Hospital attaches said Shea fell off a 15-foot high roof while painting, and suffered possible skull and leg fractures. His condition was reported as fairly good.
